MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—Nothwithstanding threatened strikes in the building trade, a spell of bad weather and a close holiday the market has again shown up very well so far as business is concerned. Just after the writing of our last report there was a rumor that some makers proposed to stop shipments through fear of suspension of work here as a result of labor difficulties, but the story was either without foundation or shippers quickly changed their minds, for arrivals have again run very full, and from pretty much all points along the river demand was waiting for the stock, and while there was not a daily clean up the sales were as a rule close enough to the supply to make receivers comfortable and remove basis for uneasiness. Opinions differ slightly as to the disposition made of the brick taken, but while doubtless some is going into pile where storing facilities are available, the average claim now seems to be that consumers take the bulk. The proportion of Pales is said to be smaller than one week ago, and very few poor Hards shown average quality keeping up very fine, but when it comes to price there is nothing cheerful to say unless it be that no further shading has been found necessary. Retaining old quotations to recognize asking rate on some of the fancy makes and still looks as though $5 was general top for buyers who do not pay for brands.

DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS.—Not much in the way of encouraging reports are to be found upon the local market. Demand for stock varieties is light and shrinking, and new orders for specials comparatively unimportant with probability that will be done during balance of the year. Valuations are nominally unchanged, but a price is generally made to fit the immediate deal. Conditions in the West are described by the Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

"Business has about settled down to a winter basis, with little prospect of increased activity until after the first of the year. There may be a slight revival of car load buying next month, but no one is looking forward to such an occurrence with any degree of certainty.

"Prices, on the whole, seem to be well maintained. If anything there is less report of cutting than there was a month ago, and what cutting there is appears to be spasmodic rather than general. High prices for glass aid in keeping the market firm. There has been more or less talk of higher prices for glazed sash, but it has not been deemed advisable to make an advance in the face of light demand.

"Curtailment of product has not been carried to any great extent as yet, but according to present plans the reduction in output next month will be considerable. Stocks are heavy, but not sufficiently so to cause uneasiness in regard to prices, so long as there is not a prospect of piling up further surplus."

GLASS.—The demand for window glass has been somewhat irregular, but on the whole fair for the season, and some operators report trade beyond their calculations. The last officially announced rates were: Lots of 2,000 boxes or over, 75 and 2½ per cent. discount; carload lots or under 2,000 boxes, 75 per cent. discount. On these quantities usual freight allowances are made. On less than carload lots the discount is 70 and 10 per cent., f. o. b. factory. Referring to a recent meeting at the West between representatives of jobbing and manufacturing interest a leading trade-journal says the conference "was held for the purpose of discussing several points of mutual importance, but principally the question of prices. Since the arrangement agreed upon at Cleveland early in October went into operation, the jobbers have found that their margin of profit is very slender, and their aim now is to induce the manufacturers to give large buyers more favorable terms than the existing plan provides for. The feeling on the part of the jobbers is that unless some such modification of the present arrangement is made there is a possibility of considerable friction between them and the factories before very long." Plate glass is said to be selling close enough to production to prevent an accumulation of unsold stock and support steady values. An effort will be made to induce railways to give better transportation terms on plate glass.

LATH.—The abiding confidence of receivers of lath continues to be shown in the general run of reports and fuller rates are not claimed an expressed belief that they are sure to come is quite commonly to be heard. And general conditions are in favor of the market in view of the season of the year when the coming forward of supplies is slow and uncertain, and the wants of a great deal of custom should be such as to provide for a pretty good sized offering. It is claimed that many dealers are carrying much lighter stocks than usual.

LIME.—We cannot discover that anything really new is shown in the reports made this week. It is doubtful how much stock is held in first hands, possibly nothing excessive, but a few fresh arrivals have come along and no difficulty was experienced in meeting the demand. There has been a slight bit of competition too over the custom available, and as a result careful buyers have generally found it possible to get a small showing from the regular full line of quotations.

LUMBER.—With some bad weather and a holiday the influences have been against business this week. Many of the yards have fair quantities of stock to deliver on contract but make only moderate uncertain fresh deals, and first-hand operations are confined to a few grades mostly received coastwise. There does not appear to be quite so many traveling salesmen around the market as heretofore, and the attendance is quite likely to diminish from this time forward until the end of the year. Advices from nearly all points of production in the North, East and West indicate a rapid shutting-down of mills, and at the South there is an effort to gradually bring the output down to compass of orders actually on hand. The demand for export is irregular, although some operators report rather better promise than a CONGRESS has succeeded already in disappointing the commercial world. It was certain that President Cleveland would recommend currency reform on lines suggested by the known policy of the administration on that subject, and while no one was foolish enough to believe that anything could be done right away, it was hoped that Congress by a prompt expression of opinion in favor of providing remedies would at least relieve the worst anxieties of the community. But there are no indications of any action whatever that will do good. Some proposals have been made, but they are like the appearance of the clown in the comedy with some ridiculous utensil to relieve a case of stage-indisposition. But the public is in no mood for laughter, even if these absurd proposals were intended merely to amuse. This lack of disposition on the part of Congress to seriously commit itself to the task of dealing with our currency and financial conditions is already affecting business. Reports of dullness come from more lines and from more directions than before, and in the stock market there is practically stagnation, accompanied by gloomy feelings and anticipations. Each of the political parties seems to want first to upset the boat in order that they may have the credit for heroism by rescuing the lady, typifying the voter, from a watery grave. But as in this case the lady is aware of her admirers' intentions, and has no way of avoiding their execution, her position is a very unpleasant one. She knows that she will be ultimately saved, but the prospect of having to take a plunge into the water first is as uncheerful as it is absurd. Of course the moral is that she ought not to have got into the boat. This may be of some service when she is again on terra firma, but at the moment it conveys no comfort.

A REMARKABLE instance of the changes to which the world's trade is subjected is found in the return of imports and exports of British India in 1894-5. This is the fact that Belgium sent to India more steel than Great Britain did. The latter's Indian iron and steel trade has undergone considerable mutation through competition from Belgium and Germany. Compensation is found in other directions, because of the total of India's purchases 70 per cent was from Great Britain, an increase of 2.5 per cent in the year, still the ground lost in iron and steel, once so exclusively the British monopoly, is galling to the home manufacturers. With two unimportant exceptions the British railways report increases of earnings for the first five months of the second half of the year. The production of gold in Australia from January to October was equal to an increase of $492,080 over the same for a similar period of last year, a somewhat disappointing result in view of the extent of the developments in Western Australia. The French government is securing large majorities in the Chamber of Deputies in favor of the various clauses of the new bill to establish a graded scale of succession duties. The new scale goes considerably beyond that recently established in England. The feature is the progression in nine steps of the rate applied to legatees in the same degree of relationship. For heirs in a direct line it rises from 1 per cent for sums not exceeding 2,000f. to 4 per cent for sums exceeding 3,000,000f. Between husband and wife it ranges from $3\frac{3}{4}$ to 9 per cent; brothers and sisters from $8\frac{1}{2}$ to 14 per cent; for relatives beyond the fourth degree, that of first cousins, and strangers in blood, the rate rises from 14 to 20 per cent. A Berlin syndicate has undertaken the conversion of certain Russian railway loans to the amount of $40,000,000, the first important Russian operation carried out in Germany for ten years. Russia has renewed her friendship with Germany as the French market overloaded with her obligations. Company, and at the imperial Administrator of Vienna, acting in the place of can of suspended Town Council, has given concessions for the construction of electric railways over which the Town Council had legal int squabbled for years. No Americans were among the competitors for the construction work.

ONE cannot but be struck, on reading that portion of the President's message relating to foreign affairs, with the growing importance of our foreign relations and with doubt as to whether we can as a nation always adopt an independent course and policy in dealing with semi-barbarous powers. The Monroe Doctrine is, in its inception at any rate, a defence of republican institutions within our own proper territory by limiting the contiguity of other forms of government supposed to be inimical to them. This confines its sphere of operation. But we have interests in the Behring Sea which are shared with other powers, and duties in Turkey and China similar to those of other powers, though limited at present to the protection of the lives and property of our own citizens. Questions may arise at no distant date which will put our duty abroad in a different light than it has yet stood in. Suppose, for example, two of the great powers enter on an armed dispute as to what shall be done in Turkey, in one side of which the interests of our own citizens are involved. Shall we stand aside to see whether the cause we favor is triumphant in the hope that the chestnuts will be pulled out of the fire for us? And if that cause is defeated, what then? Our chief anxieties at present are for American missionaries and mission property. Will they always be so proscribed? That heroic Zulu, Cetshwayo, had a good idea of the logical progression of events when he remarked: "First come missionary, then trader, then army." When our trader has followed the missionary will the army have to be sent to protect him and, if so, how is that army to get through the network of privileges and protective rights that other nations possess over all the world without forcing us into the entangling alliances which we have hitherto dreaded and continue to dread.

SUSPENDED dividends have provoked discussion—unfortunately unofficial and irresponsible, yet probably not without ultimate value to the investing public—into the way some commercial undertakings were incorporated and placed upon the market. The banking houses that produced these issues of industrial stocks try to shield themselves behind the accountants who certified to the figures on which their statements were made and the prospective profits estimated. If, however, the unfortunate buyers were polled it would assuredly be found that they bought rather on the strength of the bankers' names than on confidence in stated results of actuarial investigations. An accountant's duty in such cases does not extend farther than to test the arithmetical correctness of certain showings given him to examine. If he suspects that the results presented are not reached honestly and has any self-respect, he will not permit them to go forth to the public with his endorsement. But it is easy to see that his suspicions must be very strong indeed to justify him in thus implying an intended fraud on the part of the vendors of the business. The duties and moral responsibilities of the bankers who float the concern are much wider. It is they who make the profits of the transaction. It is upon them that the buyer relies to obtain the worth of his money, and they ought to see that he gets it, especially as a considerable part of it goes into their own pockets. Experience has shown that a going concern for which a market is sought through the distribution of shares to the public is a proper object of suspicion and ought to be submitted to the most vigorous tests for selvency and ability to make return upon the capital. No man is going to part with a paying business without making something by it. This may be perfectly proper and legitimate, but we are unfortunately justified by the wrecks that are floating in the sea of speculation before our eyes, in doubting it in the first instance and investigating from the basis of that doubt. If subsequent investigation proves its bona fides so much the better; but a mere examination to ascertain whether the vendor has put down two and two to make his sum of four, particularly if made by a subordinate accountant, ought not to remove it, and would not in the mind of any experienced business man. There is no one in the business of promoting companies and floating securities who does not know this. It can hardly be claimed for these gentlemen that those of them who have been the agents for the sale of many rotten securities have acted on this knowledge, and they ought to be held accountable for their dereliction of duty. It ought to be stated while condemning what has gone before that several firms have honorably done all they could to save their customers from loss on discovering the faulty character of the securities in the class they had been handling. But the point to be insisted upon is that the precautions should be taken before these goods are sold at all. This lesson has no doubt been learned by the best houses and it is hoped will be universally applied.

The Labor Troubles in the Building Trade.

IT may be said that the strike of the union housesmiths a bridgemen is over as far as the employers are concerned. The are rapidly getting their buildings manned again, and unless the strikers go back without much delay their work will be gone for the season.

The obduracy of the striking workmen is as ill-advised as their original movement. They appear to be buoyed up by the belief that sympathetic strikes will be ordered, but impartial investigation finds no ground for their belief. Some of the morning papers have been deluded into announcing that the Mason-Builders' Union would assist the strikers, but their announcements have not been followed by action on the part of that important labor organization. If there was any intention in that direction it would be jealously guarded by the principals, but the indifference of master mason builders to these stories is a pretty good assurance of their baselessness.

The Iron League has shown its willingness to give the strikers every opportunity to save their jobs. They have persistently refused to listen to the proposals for arbitration, but Mr. J. M. Cornell consented to receive a committee of his own men on Monday, with the result that the trouble promised to be settled by the adoption of a uniform wage-scale by the Iron League. The strikers drew out of this arrangement and no further negotiations have been had, nor has the Executive Committee of the Iron League had occasion to meet since the early part of the week.

Complaints have been made to the Department of Buildings from the strikers' headquarters that work on the affected buildings was being done in violation of the law. In reference to these complaints Supt. Constable said that in every instance investigation found them baseless and traced them to spite. He said further: "The strike has done the city and the workmen incalculable harm by arresting contemplated building operations. I personally know of numerous plans and specifications being reclaimed by owners in consequence of this trouble."

The steam-fitters' strike is still on with no prospect of settlement. The facts of this movement have never been stated yet from the employers' point of view, although there has been a careful gathering-in and publication of street-corner stories. A member of the Master Steam and Hot-Water Fitters' Association explained the situation from their standpoint as follows: "There was placed in our shops on November 1st by some unknown person a printed list of shop rules of the Enterprise and Progress Association of Steam Fitters and Steam-Fitters' Helpers of New York City. We declined to be governed by those rules and asked the association to send a committee to explain them, as we did not understand some of them. No reply was given to this communication, but the men were immediately called out of the twenty-three shops belonging to our association. They sent information to all of the outlying jobs as far as Baltimore, Pittsburg, the Oranges and Lakewood, besides all of the buildings in New York where steam-heating was being done.

"We found some of the rules put up in the way I have stated, inadmissible and, in our judgment, utterly impossible of execution. Rule No. 10 requires that all pipe from one-eighth to two inches, inclusive, shall be cut on the job by the members of the association. For years such pipes have been cut by machinery at a cost of one-tenth of hand labor. Rule No. 12 provides, practically, that steam fitters only shall be allowed to superintend construction. Many of our superintendents are engineers and graduates of schools of technology, and we declined to be governed by that rule."

The striking steam-fitters' association have, in the past few days, withdrawn from their position so far as to confer with the Committee of Employers. Some of the men, who have hitherto been known as non-union men, have formed a new organization to be known as the National Steam Fitters' and Helpers' Association and Union of New York, and have made overtures for recognition by the Master Steam and Hot Water Fitters' Association.

Broadway Property Owners and Rapid Transit.

The committee that has in charge the protection of Broadway property from injury through the building of an underground rapid transit railroad in that thoroughfare is actively engaged in consolidating all property interests there in support of their work. As before reported, this committee consists of Alfred R. Conkling, Austin Corbin, Frederick Potter, Edward S. Renwick and Henry H. Rice, and Messrs, Burrill, Zabriskie & Burrill are its attorneys. The position of the committee towards rapid transit has not been fully stated. It is that if the Commission takes Broadway, the most valuable piece of property in the United States, and does the damage to the business and traffic that must follow the construction of the road there, the railroad ought to be so constructed that there should not result permanent damage to the property; secondly, there ought to be as little damage done as is practicable during construction. These ends the committee considers are not likely to be obtained by the location, routes and method of construction proposed. As to rapid transit itself, the Broadway property owners not only do not object to it but desire it. They have made the following statement of their objections to the plan:

The plan proposed by the Rapid Transit Commissioners for an underground railroad on Broadway provides as follows:

Park place there will be two tracks, and the tunnel will be 25 feet Above Park place there will be four tracks, and the width of the tunl will vary from 60 to 68 feet, according to the width of Broadway.

bove Park place the walls of the tunnel will in general be only five feet m the house line on both sides of Broadway, but at the intersection of station streets the walls of the tunnel will be placed immediately adjoining the house line for a distance of 250 feet on Broadway, and possibly 75 feet on the side street, in order to accommodate the station approaches and station platforms.

Stations and station approaches may be built over as well as under Broadway and the cross street, and where necessary private property may be condemned and taken for such approaches.

Between Park place and 14th street galleries are to be placed in the tunnel outside the tracks to hold water and gas pipes, sewers, etc. To accommodate these galleries the vault rights of property owners are to be extinguished, involving as well loss of light in the cellars.

At each cross street the tunnel may extend an additional 15 feet on each side into such street, but it is not to approach nearer than 12 feet to the house line. One object of this is to provide access to the galleries above mentioned. While it is not stated where the openings to such galleries will be placed, it is likely that they will be in the areaway of abutting property on the side street.

Excavations must necessarily be carried to a depth of from 22 to 25 feet below the street surface and near express stations the excavations will extend to a depth of over 30 feet. One half the width of the street for a length of 200 feet along Broadway may be excavated at one time; and excavations will extend within five feet of the house line.

During excavation, tramways may be laid upon the surface of Broadway and adjoining streets or avenues for use in the removal of excavated materials or in the transportation of material for construction.

The committee has addressed a circular to Broadway property owners asking for the signatures of those who concur in the belief that the construction of an underground railroad upon the plans proposed by the Board of Rapid Transit Commissioners will result in serious loss and damage to abutting property.

F. R. Coudert, G. Sherman and W. H. Gelshenen, the Commission appointed by the Supreme Court to pass on rapid transit routes in lieu of the property owners' consents, has announced that it will begin its sittings at 11 A. M. of the 18th inst., in the office of the Rapid Transit Commissioners, Room 993, No. 256 Broadway.

The Status of the New Surface Roads.

Wherever they have come into vogue it is evident that the horseless surface road has taken the community by surprise. The first experiment with electricity and with cable were not regarded with sufficient confidence to make it necessary to put them under proper restrictions and regulations, and, though it is only a short time since their success was demonstrated, they have spread with such rapidity that their full significance has not yet been grasped, or their standing before the public settled. It is evident that electric roads will bring town and country together as they have never been brought together before. The comparative cheapness with which they can be laid down, equipped and operated will permit a ramification of electric railroads which was not possible to the steam roads and which had, therefore, to operate over long distances in order to get the necessary amount of passengers and freight to pay for their support.

The spread of the electric roads over suburban territory will have the effect of enlarging towns and cities with great rapidity, relieving the centres and distributing the population over greater areas. The time may come soon, too, when these roads will be carrying much of the freight as well as the passengers between suburban settlements and the central city or town. These things are distinct advantages and give a needed impetus to the development of our resources and gratify the enlarged requirements of our people. One most distinct advantage, whose accompanying benefits cannot be too highly esteemed, is that the swift running electric cars will remove the greatest objection business men have to living out of town and will carry many thousands of people into the purer atmosphere and influences of the country. Immorality and sickness increase with the density of population, so that the more a people is spread the better it is for the community in these two most important particulars. A consequential benefit to business will come also, because a movement so revolutionary must create a thousand and one desires and necessities which will have to be supplied by increased industry. The railroads not only created a demand for rails, ties, engines, cars and the other means of their business, but also requisites for the comfort of the individual traveler and with which the railroad companies directly have nothing to do. So will travel spread in every direction over extensive suburbs of the big cities, awaken new needs, which will have to be filled.

On the other hand, questions are arising in the minds of the public as to whether these new roads have been started properly from the view of the individual citizen and the rights of the community. Hence we have an Assembly Commission making inquiries in New York and a very active discussion growing up in the popular and technical press as to what are the duties and obligations, as well as the privileges, of the owners of the electric and cable roads on one side and the rights of the public on the other. It would be impossible that an improvement of such extensive proportions could grow up without invading some private as well as public rights, or in other ways usurping privileges to which it is not either in reason or in law entitled. These matters will have to be sifted by public opinion and in the legislatures and courts until a proper basis of conduct toward each other, for both the owners of the roads and the public is reached. One question directly affecting property-owners and which is already obtaining prominence is the right of the trolley roads particularly, to the use of the highway to the prejudice of the interests of abutting property-owners. This question is in several

State courts at the present moment, and it would appear that the decisions of those of New York in the elevated railroad case regarding the liability of that railroad for damage to property and easements on the street bear also upon similar claims upon trolley roads. In Connecticut the trolley is already experiencing trouble from this question, and the remarks of Mr. Clarence Deming, published in a recent issue of the Railroad Gazette, bearing on this point, may be read with profit in New York. He says:

The trolley companies of the State also have their threatening obstacles ahead in the growing tendency toward local taxation, a waxing sentiment against their occupancy of rural high ways and a possibility, by no means remote, that they may be forced to put their wires underground. But all these future perils of the Connecticut trolley are minor as compared with its danger from rulings of the State courts on the question of added servitude upon the highway and the consequential right of the abutting landowner to damages.

This subject deserves its brief review. In Connecticut, as in many States, it is still a case in transition. There happen to be two, and only two, decisions of the State courts bearing directly on the subject and opposed to each other in temper and ruling. The first is that in the case of Imlay v. The Union Branch Railroad Company (26 Conn., 249), in which a steam company sought occupation of a Hartford City street. The suit, 38 years ago, was an amicable one, and the Supreme Court Judges all concurred in the decision which was written by Chief Justice Storrs, one of the brightest lights of the Connecticut bench. The tribunal found against the company, a fact of less import than the principles laid down in the finding. The judge held that there was no identity between railroad and highway; that the contrary view would lead to the conclusion that a broad street might be partly made into a canal if only passing way were left for pedestrians and vehicles; that the latter construction would also imply that a railroad could continue, without paying damages, to occupy the highway after it had been discontinued as such; that the fundamental principle to guide in the case was that the user of the highway should leave it unobstructed and in the same condition after passage as before. On these grounds, and others not bearing so closely on later aspects of the question, the Court declared that the railroad constituted an additional servitude entitling the abutting landowner to compensation for damages.

Eight years later, in 1865, came the individual decision of Judge Ellsworth of the Supreme Court, in Elliot v. Fair Haven & Westville Horse Railroad Company (32 Conn., 579), the judge presiding in the Superior Court, a lower tribunal. He held sweepingly in direct contravention of Storrs and his colleagues that the existing servitude embraced "all public travel not prohibited by law, on foot, carriages, omnibuses, stages, sleighs and other vehicles as the wants and habits of the public demand," and that the absolute power to regulate such traffic vested in the Legislature. He found, therefore, that the use of the highway for horse cars—which he classed as a kind of omnibus on rails—created no new servitude, but was a part of the public use to which the land was subjected when originally taken as a highway. His opinion, while far less copious in citation of authorities than that of Judge Storrs, and treating with much less fullness and force the principles involved, has become the rule of law in determining the status of horse railroads. But in Connecticut it leaves the question of the trolley, with its overhead structure, its increased speed, larger cars and greater obstruction of the highways still pending, though a matter which the Connecticut Supreme Court, after approaching the subject already in two or three cases, must soon pass upon. In the words of the last report of the Connecticut Railroad Commission: "The final decision will depend on whether the courts follow and accept the reasoning of Chief Justice Storrs in the one case or of Judge Ellsworth in the other." The first of these decisions was rendered in 1857, the second in 1865, and both judges have been long dead.

Schemes for Bridging the Hudson.

The location for the proposed bridge of the New York and New Jersey Bridge Company across the Hudson, approved by the Sinking Fund Commission, is as follows: It shall be on a centre line beginning at a point in New Jersey on the west side of the Hudson River at a point where a line drawn midway between the southerly line of West 59th street in this city produced and the northerly line of West 60th street in this city produced, intersects the westerly line of the anchorage of said bridge in the State of New Jersey; thence running easterly along said line drawn parallel to the midway between the southerly line of West 59th street produced and the northerly line of West 60th street produced to a point 100 feet west of 11th avenue or West End avenue, where it intersects the easterly line of the anchorage of said bridge in the City of New York. The New York Bridge Commission has also approved this site.

When the public hearing was given on the matter of the location of the approaches to this bridge by the Sinking Fund Commission on October 9th last, that body was given to understand by emphatic declarations of promoters of the New York and New Jersey bridge, that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company supported their enterprise. The subsequent reproduction of these declarations by the press brought Mr. Jordan L. Mott, President of the North River Bridge Company, to the front, and he recently forwarded to the Sinking Fund Commission the following letter:

PHILADELPHIA, PA., October 16, 1895.

Mr. JORDAN L. MOTT, President, The North River Bridge Company, New York City:

MY DEAR SIR—I am advised by you that the New York and New Jersey Bridge Company claims to have the support of the railroad companies in New Jersey in its efforts to build a bridge across the Hudson River at New York City. It may not, therefore, be inappropriate for me to say that not long since I personally conferred with the officers of said railroad companies on the subject of a bridge over the Hudson River, and found them, without exception, opposed to giving any support to any particular bridge company, and I am, therefore, unable to reconcile this fact with the claims made by the New York and New Jersey Bridge Company.

The North River Bridge Company having been chartered by Congress before the New York and New Jersey Bridge Companies were organized, has a location much more suitable for the railroads terminating on the New Jersey side than the one selected by the New York and New Jersey Bridge Company. Furthermore, it is evident that two such bridges cannot be built at the same time, and in my judgment that bridge will be built first which can offer to all the railroads in New Jersey alike, by its location and by its legal conditions, the better assurances and advantages of a railroad entrance into New York, and while I do not intend, and have no authority, to commit the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, with which I am connected, to any of the bridge schemes across the Hudson River, it certainly is my judgment, as an engineer who has given a great deal of careful thought to the question, that the advantages offered by the North River Bridge Company are greatly superior to any that can be offered by the New York and New Jersey Bridge Company. Yours truly, SAML. REA.

Unpaid Taxes.

David E. Austen, Receiver of Taxes, gives notice under date of the 2d inst. to all persons who have omitted to pay their taxes for the year 1895, to pay the same to him at his office, No. 57 Chambers street, on or before the first day of January, 1896. Upon any such tax remaining unpaid on the first day of December, 1895, one per centum will be charged, received and collected in addition to the amount thereof; and upon such tax remaining unpaid on the first day of January, 1896, interest will be charged, received and collected upon the amount thereof at the rate of seven per centum per annum, to be calculated from the first day of October, 1895, on which day the assessment rolls and warrants for the taxes of 1895 were delivered to the Receiver of Taxes, to the date of payment.

Extinguishment of Easements.

The Court of Appeals recently confirmed a judgment and order of the General Term of the Supreme Court affirming a final judgment obtained by the plaintiff in the case of Elizur V. Foote v. the Metropolitan Elevated Railway Company and the Manhattan Railway Company. Plaintiff owned property on West 53d street and obtained an interlocutory judgment enjoining defendants from maintaining and operating their railroad in front of his premises unless they acquired title to his street easements by condemnation proceedings. Damages were ascertained, etc. On appeal, appellants claimed that there had been an abandonment and an extinguishment of the easements in the streets upon which plaintiff's property abutted before the latter purchased the same, as a result of certain agreements entered into between prior owners of the land and of a settlement made of an action at law against defendants by one of these owners. This the Court held to be an important point and, if founded in the facts, a complete defense was made out.

The Court, however, laid down the rule that to work an extinguishment at law, the acts of the party entitled to claim the servitude or the easement must be accompanied by the intention to extinguish, and be followed by action upon it on the part of the party claiming adversely. The latter must close with the intent. It must be a joint intent of all the parties interested to get rid of the easement. The facts did not show this to have been the case here and, therefore the judgment of the lower Court was confirmed.

The facts as narrated in the Court of Appeals decision were that one Lathrop, a predecessor in title of the plaintiff, commenced an action at law against defendants for $10,000 damages for loss of rents and damage by reason of trespass on the premises, which he subsequently sold to Gillie & Walker, reserving to himself all rights, etc., to accrue under his suit by an agreement between the parties to the sale. On the date of sale there was added at the bottom of this agreement another: "excepted from the grant and conveyance of the land * * * said grant being made subject to the conditions of the above agreement." These agreements were not recorded, nor did the deed mention them or except any rights, but was in the usual form of a deed with full covenants and warranty. A few months later Gillie & Walker deeded the premises to plaintiff. More than three years after plaintiff's purchase Lathrop settled with the defendants for $2,500. The effect of the agreement between Lathrop and Gillie & Walker, in the opinion of the Court, was merely to reserve to the former his rights and claims for damages theretofore sustained through the defendants' trespass and in addition those which Gillie & Walker might recover through continuing trespass.

It was not really disputed that the agreement was ineffectual to reserve the casements in the street. They were appurtenant to the abutting property; were incapable of being separated therefrom, and passed upon a sale thereof to the purchaser with the right to any remedy for invasion thereof. What was there to affect this plaintiff's ownership in the land and its appurtenant street easements, or to prevent him from bringing this action? He was not a party to any of the antecedent transactions between his predecessors in the title. Nothing of record gave him notice of such an agreement. Upon what inquiry was he put when he purchased the property? The presence of the elevated railroad in the street was not notice of anything to him. It was a trespasser, for whose unlawful acts the law afforded remedies, available to the abutting owner.

The West End Association.

At its usual monthly meeting, held on Monday evening last, the West End Association re-elected the following Executive for the coming year: Cyrus Clark, president; James Van Dyck Card, William C. Stuart and John C. Coleman, vice-presidents; J. Edgar Leaycraft, treasurer, and George B. Sheppard, secretary. New members were admitted as follows: Wm. Fox, No. 327 West 75th street; Antonio G. Gonzales, No. 258 West 71st street; John E. Hillary, No. 264 West 71st street; H. C. Senior, No. 11 Boulevard; Frank B. Hurd, No. 32 West 75th street; John Jurgensen, No. 9 West 81st street; Wm. M. McCord, No. 223 West 70th street. The House Committee was empowered to arrange for the annual dinner of the association in January next. Messrs. Batcheller, Deeves, Stanton, Leaycraft, Hunt and the President were appointed a committee to wait upon the Mayor to urge upon him the propriety and desirability of appointing Killiaen Van Rensselaer a Commissioner of Charities and Correction.

The Committee on Local Improvements was instructed to request the Park Board to construct an entrance to Central Park on the West Side, between the 64th and the 72d street entrances for the use of pedestrians and bicyclers. On the motion of Mr. Richard Deeves, a resolution was adopted empowering the appointment of a committee to agitate the question of providing a viaduct or tunnel on the Riverside Drive at 79th street for light carriage traffic. It will be remembered that this is one of the points where the Street Cleaning Department has been permitted to construct docks. That will bring a great deal of heavy traffic and interfere with the Drive as a place of recreation at that point. There is some doubt whether this objection can be best got over by a viaduct as at 96th street, but practical men think that a tunnel is quite feasible.

The association also authorized the appointment of a committee of five to prepare a history of the work of the association in connection with the location of the New York and New Jersey bridge.

Report of the Real Estate Exchange.

The Directors of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room, Limited, at their meeting on Tuesday last, approved the report and balance sheet for the year ending November 15th last. The revenue of the year amounted to $36,758.02, made up as follows: Income, exchange and auction room, $5,126.41; rents, 28,179.16; membership subscriptions, $2,062.50; income bureau of information, $1.389.95. There was a balance on hand at the date of last report of $8,490.71 and $1,859.07 was received for interest on various balances, etc., making total resources $47,107.80. Expenditures were: Dividend, $7,500; account of principal of mortgage, $2,000; interest on mortgage, $3.290.25, expenses of real estate, etc., $26,787.86; total, $39.578.11. The balance carried forward was $7,529.69. The directors in their report say:

"In estimating the result of the past year it should be borne in mind that the period covered by the report and balance sheet, has been one of only partial recovery from the depressed times of 1893 and 1894. The Exchange while it has suffered slightly in its rentals from the competition of new buildings in close proximity, has no vacancies in the building, all the offices being rented to good tenants.

"The 14th day of April last was the tenth anniversary of the opening of the Exchange. The present is, therefore, an opportune moment to review, not merely the past year, but the first decade of its existence. Commencing with a period of fair business activity, from 1885 to 1888, it has seen, during the years 1889, 1890, 1891 and 1892, four years of unusual activity, succeeded by the present, a period rather of quietude than depression. The following table shows the dividends paid by the Exchange during the past ten years:

1885.	1886.	1887.	1888.	1889.	1890.	1891.	1892.	1893.	1894.
1½%	2%	3%	3½%	4%	3¼%	5%	4%	3%	1½%

"It is well to remember that this Exchange was not founded as a money-making scheme for its stockholders, but was founded to provide certain facilities to real estate brokers, auctioneers, owners, dealers, builders and others interested in real estate, and your directors are bound by the limitations of its charter. The Exchange, however, in making an average dividend of 3 per cent. per annum during the ten years of its existence, has paid to its stockholders during that time the sum of $153,750.

"While the auction sales during the past year show a decrease, sales at private contract have amounted to over $100,000,000, a large proportion of which have been effected by the members of this Exchange. This activity in private sales has resulted in a more general use of the records of the Bureau of Information. Over 9,000 requisitions have been filed with the Bureau during the past year, on which information has been furnished as to 27,238 ownerships. The maps and other modes of reference have been improved and rendered more easy of access and many new maps added.

"At the last meeting of stockholders, attention was drawn to a proposal for the establishment of a Brokers' Board in connection with this Exchange. This proposal, as formulated by the originators, contained some propositions which were contrary to the law under which this Exchange is organized. It was proposed to abolish the system of cumulative voting which enables the minority to place a member on the board. It does not rest with the board to alter the manner of voting prescribed by law, and your directors were advised by their counsel that the only way in which the result could be reached would be to reorganize under a later act, a proposal which might affect the limited liability on the shares, as the same is defined under the act of 1875.

"The proposal filed with the Board also involved the limitation of the membership in the Brokers' Board to a section of the members of the Exchange. This, your directors were advised by counsel, could not be done, as every member of the Exchange is entitled to equal rights. Subject practically to these two points, your directors, by a circular dated April 10, formulated and endorsed the scheme as suggested to them, and requested those members who were willing to aid and take part in it to send in their applications for membership in writing. The necessary space for the proposed Board was set aside and a room held vacant for their use for six months. The number of applications for membership, however, was not sufficiently large to warrant, in the opinion of the directors, the additional expense which would necessarily be involved, and therefore no further action was taken in the matter.

"During the past session a bill was presented to the Legislature, both in the Senate and in the Assembly, providing for the return of the legal sales to the Real Estate Exchange. The bill was presented in the House by Assemblyman Pavey and in the Senate by Senator Lexow. It was referred in the House to the Committee on Cities and was reported favorably by that committee. It passed the House by a vote of 71 to 18. The bill was never favorably reported in the Senate, a motion to report it favorably having failed by a vote of four to four in the Judiciary Committee.

"The accounts of the Exchange, although audited semi-annually by the Finance Committee, had never been submitted to an expert. During the past year the accounts have been submitted to an expert who has rigidly examined the same and reports them correct in every particular.

"We have to regret the decease, during the past year, of the following members: Frederick Schroeder, Philip Kissam, Frank L. Fisher, Jeremiah B. Johnson, James Cruikshank, Julius Lipman and Henry R. King. Appropriate action has been taken in each case."

The Architectural League and the Building Law.

At the regular meeting of the Architectural League, of New York, held on the 3d inst., there was quite a warm discussion upon the subject of the amendment of the Building Law, and the relation of the department to the building law and the relation of architects to the building law and the Department of Buildings.

There was no motion passed or definite action taken, but it seemed to be the general opinion that the amendments to the law should be made by architects, assisted by the engineers; and that the law, as it stands to-day, applies and was made for buildings on a lot 25x100 feet, not more than five stories high. That the Department should be a department of surveillance, superintendence and the prosecution of violators of the law, and not translators of the law. The present system of translating law before the buildings are built is but causing the public to feel that the services of an architect can be dispensed with, and that the employment of any one who can merely draw out a building for application to the Department is all that is required. The members of the League thought the law should be more elastic; it should specify the limit to which one could go in building, but not specify the details of construction; in that way leave intelligent architects and builders free to do the best possible to advance the mode of construction, the free use of new materials, and the responsibility of the owner should be put upon his shoulders. That the Department should be composed of good and capable men, able to properly inspect and intelligently substantiate the truth of any disapproval before an intelligent jury.

The Committee on the Eleventh Annual Exhibition of the League, which will be open to the public from February 15 to March 7, 1896, reported a very interesting programme. It has been finally decided, after many years of opposition, to throw the exhibition open to the public free, except on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week. Many interesting features were discussed, which were referred back to the Committee to report on at a later date.

The Committee on Competition and Awards reported the programme for the gold and silver medal of the year, a competition for a prize offered by the President and one for a prize offered by Mr. Samuel P. Avery. Announcements for the exhibition and the three prizes above named will, it is expected, be distributed to the members in a few days.

The Long Island Nuisance.

Mr. Andrew H. Green has, pro bona publico, taken up the matter of suppressing what is known as the Long Island nuisance by a caustic letter to Dr. Daniel Lewis, President of the State Board of Health. He states that he does this as no one else seems inclined to inaugurate a campaign against this nuisance, and it will now be in order for residents and property owners on both sides of the river who are injured and annoyed by the stenches that come from Newtown Creek, or from any other direction, to follow the lead thus given and press home their complaints on the State Board of Health until a remedy is provided. Mr. Green's statement of the case is strong, but none too strong. It is:

The stench that comes, not occasionally, but very often—almost daily and nightly—from across the East River, permeates the inmost recesses of dwellings on the east side of the city, affects by its nauseousness a hundred thousand of our citizens, and has already become a serious consideration in dealing with real property in the neighborhood affected.

There is no excuse for the continuance of this perennial offense, and though its sources and origin are without, yet its baleful effects and pernicious consequences are within the limits of the jurisdiction of the Board of Health of this city. It is amazing that this Board, with an appropriation of $160,680 for sanitary purposes and an army at its command, seems unable to exert sufficient energy to find out what establishments foul the air with malarious odors, where they are situated, why they are allowed to exist, and to cause the abatement of this wholesale disgusting, poisonous outrage upon a whole community.

Perhaps that board may have already taken some steps in this direction, of which I am not informed; if so, doubtless to its disappointment they have proved miserably ineffective. while everything concerning the public health is important it is not well to be so busied about trifles that the greater evils are left unremedied. To drive in the spigot and pull out the bung, to strain at the gnat and swallow the camel, is scarcely the most approved method of dealing with matters concerning the public health. No need of lawyers, doctors, experts, or delays in court, to establish the fact of the existence of this nuisance. It is all around and abroad, and its sickening influences are a pervading abomination.

High Buildings.

The Chamber of Commerce has adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, That the committee on internal trade and improvements be requested to report at the next meeting of the Chamber whether, in their judgment, the construction of buildings in this city without limit as to height and without reference to the width of streets is consistent with the public health and welfare."

New Dwellings.

Builder P. J. Brennan has completed three attractive American basement houses on the east side of West End avenue, 50 feet north of 98th street, a block which is fully improved. They are each five stories high, 16.10 front by 54 in depth, with two-story extension 9x12.6, lots 100 feet. The arrangement and finish of the houses are in keeping with the construction, which is first-class.

A Superb Residence.

THE HOUSE OF MR. FRANK TILFORD ON WEST 72D STREET.

Aristocratic West 72d street has been enriched by the erection this year of a palatial residence for Mr. Frank Tilford, the elegant front of which is illustrated herewith. As may be seen from this photographic reproduction, the design is one of the nicest pieces of architectural work in the West Side residence district, and great credit is due to Lamb & Rich, the architects, for the chaste and dignified results produced.

The location of this house is on the north side of West 72d street, between West End avenue and the Boulevard. It has a front of 30 feet and a depth of 102 feet. Its special exterior features are the circular porch, with its columned arcade and classic entablature and cornice, and the attic, composed of three windows in pure Italian style, with circular wreath cartouches over them filled with veined Italian marble. The interior is as superb as the exterior. It is impossible to go into all the details. Some characteristics more than usually striking may be mentioned with profit. The main hallway, for instance, is quite wide and extends 60 feet to the dining-room; a high mantel with broad and mosaic tilings is one of its features. A private stair lighted by open grilling leads to the billiard-room below. On one side are private elevators and a back staircase running to the top of the house. A large oval, circular colonial stairway, surmounted by a stained glass dome-light, gives the communication to the upper apartments.

Generally, the interior decorations are in Renaissance style. The parlor lighting comes not from the centre but from a point above the picture moulding. Stately columns divide the parlor, salon and music-room. The two latter have oval domes, from the edges of which spring electric lights without protecting globes. Beyond the music-room is the library in Moorish style with cusped and bracketed cornice and columniated screen and jambs. Light comes from through a circular bay and dome playing upon rich yet subdued hangings, and bright lamps suspended by chains from a ceiling of raised decoration after the method of the Alhambra. The mantel is a Moorish arch of mosaic, modelled on the Mihrab of Cordova. This is 7 feet high and perfectly simple, except for the design of the mosaics. Set in over the mantel is an inset panel of Moorish ornamentation. The dining-room is entered from either the hall or the library. At the communication with the latter are two large columns bearing a wide frieze with dentilled cornice, which runs completely around the room and is supported at the farther end by four columns which form the more prominent feature of the mantel. Upon the frieze are mottoes of a geniality appropriate to the apartment and its purpose. The ceiling of this apartment is formed of large carved beams meeting on a central panel about 8 feet square, in which is a dome of pieced plaster work running up 4 feet and relieved by leaded glass insertions.

In the upper floors are suites of four rooms each, the finishing, fitting and decoration of which are works of art in their several lines. The kitchen is peculiar in that it is completely walled with white glazed brick and has opening from it a refrigerating-room similarly treated. From this brief mention of some of the features of this house it will be seen that it is unique.

Torrens System in Brooklyn.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the Torrens system of land title guarantees recently adopted in Cook County, Illinois. Some of the leading brokers, who are always on the alert for anything new that may possibly benefit Brooklyn real estate, are discussing the subject and exciting the curiosity and interest of the trade generally. So far the discussion has not developed any intimate knowledge of the system it favors, information thereon being decidedly superficial, if not vague. It is promised, however, that the subject will be introduced at a meeting of the Exchange before long. Should the discussion develop favorably to such action it is not improbable that the Exchange will obtain the introduction of a bill in the Legislature to establish the Torrens system in Brooklyn.

Rapid Transit.

The Assembly special committee on railroads has been sitting in this city all week, but without extracting much information that was not known before. Yesterday the examination of officers and members of the Rapid Transit Commission brought out the fact that the position of the commission toward extensions of existing transit facilities has undergone considerable modification. Mr. John C. Inman said the commission stood ready to give any reasonable consent to the elevated for the purpose of increasing rapid transit. He added: "It is their business to make application to us. I am willing to see a third or fourth track on the 3d and 9th avenue lines, where they can be put up, and an extension from the foot of West Broadway to the Cortlandt street ferry, and other reasonable things, which the commission is inclined to grant if there is application for them, but the elevated seem to have no desire to make application. There is no reason why the elevated should not build to Fort Washington and give us additional facilities. I don't think the underground road five or six years from now will hurt or interfere with the elevated."

Correspondence.

THE SOCIALISTIC PROPOSITION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

The editorial entitled "Our Millionaire Arjstocracy" seems hardly worthy of your usually thoughtful periodical. Surely it is not among people of "rabid instincts," nor among the "morally and mentally irresponsible," that dissatisfaction with present conditions is most prevalent. I myself am personally acquainted with more than one man whose income is above $20,000 a year (a fact which may entitle them to rank, in your estimation, among our "best" people, if your title, "Our Millionaire Aristocracy," expresses your feelings), who are yet deeply dissatisfied with things as they are.

The proposition that is at the bottom of all socialistic and anarchistic theories is one which appeals most to a mathematical mind, rather than to the "inflammable" or "incendiary." Briefly and clearly as may be it is this: Money makes money at a geometrical rate, doubling itself at successive periods of a certain number of years. In the same periods production increases at an arithmetical rate only. A dollar invested at 6 per cent. will amount in 300 years to about $27,000,000, while if a man produces $1,000 a year he will have produced in 300 years only $300,000.

So that no matter how small the rate of interest is, nor how large production, interest is bound to overtake and swallow up all that is produced.

Consequently interest is impossible; and a civilization based upon practices which assign all that is produced to those who live without producing cannot be permanent. ELEUTHERIA.

STEEL CEILINGS.

Beauty, utility and safety so seldom combine in any new building appliance that the steel ceiling is attracting general and deserved attention. It consists of sheets of thin steel, stamped with ornamental designs appropriate to the room in which it is to appear, the general effect being that of elaborate decoration in plaster. It has already been used in hundreds of the most costly residences in many churches and other public buildings, and in the single city of Brooklyn it has recently been applied to the ceilings of more than thirty-seven schoolhouses. Aside from its great beauty, this ceiling commends itself through its service in preventing the spread of fire. Flame cannot affect it, nor can fire work downward through it, as it has done through many thousands of lath-and-plaster ceilings. It is an absolute preventive of falling plaster from cracked or strained ceilings—an accident not unusual and one which has destroyed much valuable property and some lives. When it is added that the cost is ridiculously low, if the beauty and safety of the appliance is considered, it would appear that the stamped steel ceiling has come to stay and to be widely welcomed. It will add beauty and safety to thousands of rooms and public buildings which heretofore have been unsightly and dangerous, despite much money which has been expended upon them. Its many valuable qualities in the construction of new buildings and the repairing of old ones has suddenly caused the stamped steel ceilings made by H. S. Northrop to become so popular that the designer has been compelled to seek much larger quarters, and has put up a new building with improved machinery specially prepared for the business. Mr. Northrop's new place of business is No. 40 Cherry street, next to the corner of Roosevelt street, where he may be at all times consulted.

A REMOVAL.

Levering & Garrigues, manufacturers of iron-work for buildings, have opened offices in their new building, Nos. 552 and 554 West 23d street, which will be their headquarters hereon. In making announcement of this change this well-known firm calls attention to their greatly increased facilities for handling all contracts, great and small, for structural and ornamental iron-work. They court invitations to submit estimates on work in contemplation.

NATURAL GAS GLASS.

An important announcement of interest to the Building Trades and others has been made to the effect that the sale in the Middle and Eastern States of the entire product of American window glass manufactured by natural gas by the celebrated Chambers McKee Glass Co. has been confided to Vanhorne, Griffen & Co., the well-known dealers, Nos. 13, 15 and 17 Laight street, and 52, 54 and 56 Varick street. This firm have received a large consignment of glass and are in a position to fill orders promptly and at the lowest market rates. It will pay our readers to consult with Vanhorne, Griffen & Co. before placing orders for their requirements elsewhere.

Brooklyn Notes.

BUILDING WORK IN NOVEMBER.

The completed returns of the Building Department for the month of November reduce very considerably the decrease shown in the figures for the first twenty-seven days published by us last week. The total number of permits issued in the month was 365, and the total estimated cost of the buildings, $835,601, making the money decrease as compared with November, 1894, $384,671, as against $458,567, shown in the earlier report. This difference is particularly satisfactory, inasmuch as it was made in three days only.

The reported purchase of the property adjoining the Real Estate Exchange, on Montague street, by the Manufacturers' Trust Company, a newly-organized corporation, although strenuously denied by the principals, is believed by people who ought to know. The property in question is a four-story brick building arranged for office purposes, with stores, and has a frontage of 25 feet, with a depth of 100 feet. The price paid is reported to be about $100,000.

THE LAST OF THE SUPERVISORS.

The Kings County Hospital project has received what will probably prove its death blow by the veto of Supervisor-at-Large Fitchie. The message in which is embodied the veto for this and other projects, is a most scathing arraignment of the conduct of the Board of Supervisors. The board passed the plans in a hurried manner and without affording opportunity for competition. It will be remembered that the same board recently voted to award the contract for the construction of the Newtown Creek Bridge at an exorbitant figure in the opinion of experts. The scandal created by this lasted until Mr. Fitchie vetoed the business. The Board of Supervisors goes out of existence with the closing of the year, and as the debt of the city is so near the legal limit, the Common Council, on whom will devolve the task of making such improvements, is not likely to undertake the hospital or any other project involving a large expenditure in a hurry.

TROLLEY LINES IN KINGS COUNTY.

An Albany dispatch yesterday states that four of the Kings County railroads filed extensions of routes with the Secretary of State. The Kings County Electric Railroad of Brooklyn filed the following extension plan: From junction of Rockaway and Canarsie avenues, along the latter to Sea View avenue, thence to Skidmore avenue, thence to Pardegat avenue, thence to Avenue M, thence to East 75th street, thence to Avenue U, to East 76th street, to Avenue X, all in the town of Flatlands; also from East 76th street and Avenue U, along the latter to Avenue N, to boundary line of Gravesend; also from Rockaway and Schenck avenues, along the latter to East 92d street, thence to Denton avenue, and thence to Rockaway avenue. The other extensions are by the Brooklyn Heights Railroad, Brooklyn City Railroad, and Brooklyn City & Newtown Railroad, and are over the numerous routes granted by Brooklyn authorities. The extensions include some 200 miles of new road.

Real Estate Market.

The spell of wintry weather experienced this week is said to be responsible for the reduced number of sales reported by brokers. Several rather important transactions have certainly gone over unexpectedly and the same statement would not unlikely be true if made in reference to sales of property of smaller value. The week's investment by private contract, as far as it has been made public, amounts to about $2,000,000 and includes seven purchases that will involve considerations reaching into six figures each and amounting to more than one-half of the above total. Building lots have been in good demand and a number of sales of vacant plots, in addition to those given below, have been negotiated without the particulars being disclosed. Dwellings bought for occupancy have been perhaps the most disappointing feature, notwithstanding that the active selling season for that class of realty is about ended. The usual midwinter weekly reports have always shown a more satisfactory inquiry and sale.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding week of 1894 and 1895.

On Wednesday the attendance at the Broadway Salesroom was all that the auctioneers could have desired, but notwithstanding that the bidding was brisk on the most desirable of the properties presented the result was very much the same as on an ordinary day, owing to withdrawals at voluntary sales and purchases by interested parties at the legal sales. John N. Golding's partition announcement was the star attraction for many of the speculators present, but their idea of the value of the respective properties, No. 20 West 18th street and No. 25 West 17th street, running through, and No. 58 Walker street, failed to meet the expectations of Thomas C. Chalmers one of the interested heirs, and he became the buyer in each instance. It was said in the auction room that a private offer of $95,000 had been made recently for the parcel on 17th and 18th streets, knocked down at $85,500.

The most interesting sale on Monday was that of property owned by Michael A. Kane, consisting of villa sites and cottages at Larchmont Manor, Westchester County. The auction buyers were F. B. Bassett, Walter B. Manny, Peter Kane, Samuel Cohen and Harry Mahnken. Out of twenty-four parcels offered nineteen were sold, and later in the day four of the five plots retained were sold by Mr. Ryan in his capacity of brker to Samuel Cohen, together with three properties that had not been offered. The result of auction and private sales combined was that out of the twenty-seven parcels catalogued twenty-six were disposed of for a total of $28,840.

On Tuesday two out of the four parcels offered in the auction rooms at voluntary sale or by order of executor secured buyers The withdrawn properties were No. 59 Grand street, by Peter F Meyer & Co., on a bid of $31,500, and No. 330 East 74th street, by William Kennelly, on a final offer of $14,650. An unimportant foreclosure sale of 176th street and Worth avenue property required the services of two auctioneers, John S. Mapes and William Kennelly, to dispose of the property. The sale of two of the three parcels was conducted by the former in accordance with the allotment of the referee and the sale of the other by the second auctioneer. The three brought a total of $10,990, which is nearly $2,000 less than they realized at a partition sale in June, 1892.

Wednesday's withdrawals were Nos. 226 to 236 West 32d street at $79,000 and No. 316 West 31st street on a bid of $13,900. Both were offered at public sale in the Broadway Salesroom. In the Real Estate Exchange Auction Room nothing was sold. The outcome of a so-called "absolute sale" of Manhattan avenue property was that No. 121, southwest corner of 105th street, and No. 113 were bid in, one at $13,000 and the other at $10,750, and Nos. 115 to 119 were not up as intended. R. M. Montgomery was the auctioneer. Richard V. Harnett & Co.'s voluntary offer of No. 225 East 127th street failed to elicit a bid. Yesterday Philip A. Smyth adjourned a foreclosure sale of a parcel on Hoffman street until the 17th inst., and William Kennelly postponed until the 27th inst. a similarly advertised sale of No. 65 East 107th street.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. announce the auction sale on Tuesday next, the 10th inst., at the Real Estate Exchange, No. 59 Liberty street, of a plot of ground on Kingsbridge road and Naegle avenue, of which particulars will be found in our advertising pages.

Bryan L. Kennelly, it will be seen by an announcement on another page, will offer three valuable parcels at auction in the Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, on Wednesday next, the 11th inst. These are No. 340 East 80th street, No. 212 East 77th street, and No. 494 Hudson street. Maps and full particulars of all three can be obtained of the auctioneer at No. 66 Liberty street.

BROOKLYN ANNOUNCEMENT.

James L. Brumley has issued a handsome book-map descriptive of the properties that he will offer at auction on the 16th inst. at the Real Estate Exchange, Nos. 189 and 191 Montague street. These book-maps can be obtained at the auctioneer's office in the Exchange building. This sale will comprise about 150 parcels, the holdings of the late Anthony McNeely, which are to be sold by order of the Supreme Court, in partition. The occasion, both by reason of the value of the property offered and its extent, will be one of great interest to dealers and investors in real estate.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

Martin & Bro. have bought of Jacob Rothschild the four-story brick dwelling, with lot 26x100, No. 438 5th avenue, southwest corner of 39th street. The seller accepted it in a trade with A. Duane Pell in October at a valuation of $275,000. The price at which it has just been disposed of is far below that sum.

Geo. R. Read has sold for Martin & Bro. the five-story business structure and former dwelling No. 293 5th avenue with lot 24.7x100 to General Lloyd S. Brice for $155,000. Like the southeast corner of 5th avenue and 31st street, sold through the same broker last week, No. 293 is part of the Charlotte M. Goodridge property, but is separated from the former by a parcel owned by other parties.

James Kyle & Sons have sold for Thomas Dooner (Martin & Bro.) the five-story brick flat, with lot 26.8x98.9, No. 143 East 30th street. It was last sold in March for about $45,000.

Barnes & Weinstein have sold for Eliza M. Snively the five-story tenement, lot 25x75, No. 61 East Broadway, to Mrs Rosa R. Stratton.

The same firm has sold in conjunction with H. H. Cammann & Co. to Builders Kidansky & Fine, at about $35,000, for improvement, the old buildings, Nos. 85 East Broadway and 73 Henry street, with plot 25x175, running through The sellers are Reuben Sattenstein, who bought the East Broadway parcel, 25x75, in 1885, for $12,000, and James Shea, who took title to No. 73 Henry street 25x100, in April, 1892, for a consideration of $21,000.

H. V. Mead & Co. have sold for Mrs. Sarah T. Wetmore the plot, 50 x about 117, with old buildings, Nos 253 and 255 West 28th street, to Charles A. Winch, for improvement, at a price not much under $35,000.

Charles E. Runk has sold the six-story brick store and loft building, 25x100, No. 246 Mercer street, southeast corner of West 3d street, for about $130,000. The property was transferred to Mr. Runk in October, subject to a mortgage for $100,000.

B. Altman & Co. have finally acquired the entire ownership of the five-story brick tenement, with lot 25.10x100, No. 110 West 19th street, an interest in which was purchased in July. The cost of the parcel is said to have been $65,000, which would indicate the existence of a feeling of indifference on the part of the purchasers with respect to existing realty values in their vicinity. Joseph C. Boese, as agent for the same firm, has taken title to Nos. 131 and 133 West 18th street.

The Washington Life Insurance Company has sold the plot 125x 84 with the old brewery and stables, Nos. 135 to 143 West 18th street. The contract buyer is not a member of the firm of B. Altman & Co., but in view of the purchases mentioned above it is not unlikely that he may prove to be their agent. The insurance company as plaintiff, acquired the property at a foreclosure sale in June, 1893, on its bid of $90,000. The amount due for mortgage loan, accrued interest, etc., was about $94,000.

The following additional purchases of land lying within the boundaries of the new City College site have been made by the Executive Committee, subject to the approval of the Board: From the Young estate, 125x99.11, on the south side of 140th street, 125 feet east of Amsterdam avenue, for $25,500; from Jacob M. Newman, 99.11x150, on the southeast corner of Amsterdam avenue and 139th street, for $48,000; from John O. Baker, 99.11x100, on the northeast corner of Amsterdam avenue and 138th street, for $40,300; and from the same owner, 75x100, on the east side of Convent avenue, 99.11 north of 138th street, for $19,500. The following estimate by Engineer E. E. McLean, of the Finance Department, of the value of the additional land required has been submitted to the Board by Comptroller Ashbel P. Fitch:

"Eight lots on Amsterdam avenue, between 139th and 140th streets, $80,000; one lot on 140th street, south side, $5,100; six lots on 139th street, north side, $27,000; four lots on 139th street, south side, $18,000; six lots on 138th street, north side, $24,000; six lots on Convent avenue, west side, between 139th and 140th streets, inside lots, at $6,500, $39,000; two lots on corners on 139th and 140th streets, Convent avenue, at $8,500 each; six lots on Convent avenue, west side, between 138th and 139th streets, inside lots, at $6,500, $39,000; one lot corner 139th street, $8,500; one lot corner 138th street, $8,000; three lots on Convent avenue, east side, between 139th and 140th streets, $19,500; one lot on Convent avenue, east side, corner 139th street, $8,500; one lot on Convent avenue, east side, corner 139th street, $8,500; three lots on Convent avenue, east side, between 138th and 139th streets, $19,500; one lot on Convent avenue, east side, corner 138th street, $8,000; three lots on 139th street, between Convent avenue and Pentz street, south side, $9,000; three lots on 138th street, between Convent avenue and Pentz street, north side, $9,000; six lots on Pentz street, west side, between 138th and 139th streets, $18,000; two lots on Pentz street corner lots, $8,000; three lots on St. Nicholas terrace at 140th street, $12,000; one lot on triangle on St. Nicholas terrace, $3,000. Total, including the lots secured under contract, $577,400.

"This amount deducted from the $600,000 leaves for the lots facing on St. Nicholas terrace $22,600.

"These are short lots, the deepest being only 73 feet. They may be considered of special value on account of their location and outlook. For the purpose of this estimate I would place the six full lots, 73 feet by 25 feet, at $2,500, $15,000; the five smaller lots I would place: one at $2,400; one at $2,300; one at $2,000; one at $1,800; one triangle, $1,000; $9,500. Total, $24,500.

"If the figures I have given should prove correct, the value of the whole property would be $1,900 in excess of the $600,000 allowed by the law.

"If the $600,000 limit of the law is to be adhered to the margin is very small. Some bargains may be made at figures less than I have given, and, in other cases, the demands may be greater, so as to swell the amount very considerably."

Personal.

John H. Shipway is enjoying a vacation at Atlantic City. He expects to return to active business about December 15th.

Short, simply-worded, accurate, sufficient, well printed legal blanks are very desirable adjuncts in all real estate transactions. THE RECORD AND GUIDE has undertaken to supply these. A POINTER

TO THE BUILDING MATERIAL TRADES

YOU are spending money, directly or indirectly, to obtain news as to who is in the market (Architects, Builders and others) for your goods.

Some firms spend a great many hundred dollars annually for this information, others $300 a year, others $200, others $150.

This expenditure is quite as unnecessary as to pay out one or two thousand a year in salary and expenses to somebody to hunt up "credits" when Bradstreets, with thoroughly organized machinery, will do the same service for you for a fraction of the amount.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE Building News Bureau is:

The Largest Piece of Machinery in Existence

For collecting and disseminating daily, in special verified reports, all news as to who is in the market for every kind of building material.

All other methods are secondary and incomplete.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE will give you a service for $50 a year excelling anything you can get or do for yourself at from four to twenty times the cost. This is GUARANTEED. Any greater outlay than $50 is a gratuitous gift on your part—a bonus which you donate for nothing.

Don't Take Anything for Granted

Not even our assertions. Facts can be tested. Buy your service as you buy your goods—upon inspection, and under guarantee. We claim that THE RECORD AND GUIDE Building News Service

IS THE BEST.

IS THE CHEAPEST.

IS THE MOST ACCURATE.

Is supported by the long experience of THE RECORD AND GUIDE.

ABUNDANT CAPITAL.

The largest and completest piece of machinery for collecting Building News in the world.

Call to see us and learn the facts for yourself. We guarantee you satisfaction. We will delegate reporters to look after your work until your requirements are fully met. Don't listen to puff, but investigate. If we cannot demonstrate that we can give you more for we do not want your business. Be up to date. A majority of the large building material firms are now using THE RECORD AND GUIDE Building News Service.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE:—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BRICKS.—We get reports in somewhat better shape this week regarding the market for Hards. Business has continued good, the supply less plentiful and for all the cheaper grades there is an advance of about 25c. per M. The location of the advance is easily enough understood as being due very largely, if not wholly, to the very magnificent average of quality which enables buyers to ignore the fancy makes when such are not specially called for in building contracts and take stock probably in every way as good and costing less money. The current arrivals have embraced very little "Up River" stock, and came principally from Newburgh Bay and Haverstraw, with a sprinkling of Jerseys. The best makes from the latter section, however, are offered with less freedom, and manufacturers are quite generally holding for an advance. Pales do not find much direct demand, and if poor in quality would probably bring little more than enough to cover expense of getting them here, but occasional custom can be found for really first-class parcels at about old figures. It is understood that although a considerable quantity of the stock taken this week was for current consumption, there has been an increase in the amount put into stack where buyers had facilities for piling. So far as known no barges are as yet moored here for covering and holding, but a great many have gone up the river to take on last load of the season, and it is pretty well understood that when they return here winter quarters will be sought and the cargoes held to await later developments.

LATH.—The market remains one of expectations, so far as receivers are concerned. Every time matters appear to be shaping about right for some little rise in value demand either falls off or arrivals slightly increase, and the best result obtained is holding the market steady. The business consummated this week has been at $1.85@$1.90, with fair arrivals finding about a balancing amount of custom, some of it local and some of it outside, and the close stand steady. Slight irregularities in quality are occasionally shown, but nothing of serious character.

LIME.—In accord with remark of a prominent receiver it seems to be "the same old story." Demand fluctuates somewhat, but rarely gets up to point of any special force and always seems to meet a waiting offering with a little to spare and holders very ready to secure custom. There is no chance under the circumstances to obtain a grip through which an advance in cost can be insisted upon, and although at the moment the position is easy. It is understood that manufacturers will control shipments.

LUMBER.—There has not been much if any improvement in the general run of business this week except in the way of small routine sales. Operations at the yards are confined in the main to deliveries on old contracts or taking care of such stock as may come to hand under engagement. It looks as though pretty much all deliveries would be completed this season in consequence of the continuous open weather that has made comparatively free navigation if land and coastwise until this week. Traveling salesmen representing producers and large dealers at interior points are commencing to disappear rapidly as they would not be likely to pick up much trade even in car lot orders for a while, and most of the negotiations in a wholesale way at the moment are confined to offerings from the Eastward and Southward or to figuring over specifications for special cuts.

White Pine of fine quality remains firm, a tone frankly admitted even by buyers as the search for supplies simply serves to reveal their scarcity. It is thought quite likely a number of small lots may be placed during the winter, and sellers speak confidently of getting higher rates. Common box may possibly be called steady as no lower rates can be obtained by any class of buyers, but efforts to raise the line of value do not succeed. There is evidently too much stock either in the hands of custom here or where it can be reached with becoming promptness.

Yellow Pine is believed to be steadily shaping for a better general market. Some local operators still grumble a little over the method of manufacturers in doing too much direct business with consumers, but that fault is less pronounced than ANOTHER issue of bonds for the protection of the Treasury gold-reserve is a certainty because of the apparent intention of Congress to do nothing to amend our currency conditions, and the issue may come sooner than most people expect. Should this loan also be for $50,000,000 it will make $200,000,000 borrowed in less than two years, involving an annual interest charge of between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000 to indulge the luxury of a false position. So far as the Treasury as now constituted is concerned, although it has not handled the currency with ability or tact, as its duty requires it to protect the reserve and as it is doing its best, its want of ability to grasp the situation ought not to be too severely blamed. But with Congress it is a different thing; its lapse is deliberate. There cannot be a doubt that, but for paltry party feelings and differences, a measure would be framed to meet the emergency. A mere sign that Congress intended to take up the subject with something like the seriousness it deserves and in a spirit removed from the petty influence of party brag and strife would go a great way toward reassuring the public. The refusal of the Republicans in the House to commit themselves to currency reform, is unwise, even as a political expedient. It is already making business men ask whether their failure in this important respect will not only compel the renomination of Mr. Cleveland, but his re-election also. The business element will demand that there shall not be the slightest doubt of the intention of the President to maintain the gold standard, and to stand in the way of financial and currency heresies, that might otherwise be forced on the country through a change in the personnel of Congress, or by a sudden alteration in its views. The intimations of a new bond issue, however, are not hurting business—on the contrary, they serve to renew the courage that the last issue created. In the stock market, too, there is a better feeling in expectation that the publication of the Reading plan of reorganization, to be followed at no distant date by one for Northern Pacific, will create an activity favorable to higher prices. Possibly, too, the last sixty days of hesitation and doubt have created a large short interest, and this, with the wholesome liquidation that has been forced in the Industrials, favors higher prices for the immediate future. There is, on the other hand, a danger of large gold shipments in the coming week, but an active and rising market would do much to check them.

STAGNATION has followed the excitement of the "Kaffir" liquidation abroad, because speculation is awaiting a new incentive. Mines have had their day for a time, and business in them will be more prudent than it has been; Americans are avoided because of the currency situation affecting them, and the political outlook, while exciting enough, does not encourage operations in Government bonds. The powers still sit awaiting the pleasure of the Porte in what appears to be ridiculous inaction, but a little consideration will show that they could do little else. When people talk about coercing the Turk they seem to forget his brilliant fighting abilities and his inability to be awed by the power and strength of his opponents. If there can be ever such a thing as an agreement of the Powers on the dismemberment of the Turkish empire in Europe—which, so obviously seems to be the right thing—the Turk will still fight not only for his home but for his religion, which he would consider attacked the moment troops were landed in Constantinople. Any attempt at coercion without an agreement of the Powers means a war of such proportions as would for horrors put the whole Armenian trouble into the utterest insignificance. Ample justification for avoiding such a conflict can readily be found. For these and many other weighty reasons, there will be no division of Turkey now. Armenia will be pacified, if not permanently, for some time at least, through reforms wrung from the Turk by persistent diplomatic pressure, and the Turk will stay in Europe to stand between Russia and the Mediterranean until the Powers that desire to keep that barrier between the Sclav and the sea south of him are no longer able to buttress it. While there have been so many prophecies of the serious outcome of political differences in Europe and Asia, there has been in existence all the time one argument on the other side that is conclusive, and that is that the prices of commodities have been falling for some time. This would not have been possible had there been any expectation of war in the official mind. This movement of prices is a reaction from the continuous advances of the spring and summer, and therefore perfectly natural and legitimate.

IN forming an association of builders for the State of New York, as was done this week at a convention whose proceedings are recorded in another column, the hope may be permitted that a beginning was made in consolidating certain forces now scattered, and in large part wasted, which can be employed in the profitable and beneficial work of raising the standard of the building trade throughout the State. There are a great many ways in which such an association, properly directed, can be useful. Securing united effort in promoting necessary measures before the legislature is one of them. Giving encouragement in the various trying emergencies that only too frequently and unfortunately beset this trade is another. The interchange of important suggestions for expediting business is a third, and there are many others. One to which we have not yet referred, is perhaps the most important of all, and that is the elevation of the moral tone of the trade. Owing to facts that are only too notorious, the mere description, a builder, does not carry with it the significance it ought to do, and unless the hearer has acquaintance with the bearer of the title, he may conceive it to mean something not very complimentary. As a matter of personal pride as well as of business prudence the newly formed association ought to keep continually before it the duty of removing this stigma upon the trade. There is no doubt it will do so, because the gentlemen who have identified themselves with it most prominently, are those who have for years, with much labor and self-sacrifice, given the trade whatever outward signs of prosperity and respectability that it now possesses in the way of exchanges, clubs and kindred institutions. Moreover, the new State Association is affiliated with the National Builders' Association, whose objects are worthy of all support and which has undertaken to see that the State Associations, neither in the manner of their organization, nor in the composition of their membership, shall retard or embarrass its own work. New York has the credit of being the first State to avail itself of the amendment of the Constitution of the National Association enabling the formation of affiliated State associations. Massachusetts, we understand, is to be a close second, and Pennsylvania and Illinois are taking steps to follow their example. These are encouraging facts, especially in view of the avowed object, equally of the offspring as of the parent association, to directly promote the moral as much as the material progress of the trade.

WHILE the foolish strike of the housesmiths and bridgemen in New York City was being prolonged in the face of a certain defeat, there was an appropriateness, even though it was accidental, in the publication of the twelfth annual report of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor of this State. A table contained in this report epitomizes the financial results of the strikes that took place in New York from 1885 to 1893, both inclusive, and it is these results we would recommend to the thoughtful consideration of the men who have been out of a good living now for about four weeks, and many of whom, owing to their places having been filled by skilled substitutes and the passing of the season of building activity, must suffer further pecuniary loss, with its attendant discomforts, for some time to come. These figures show that in the years mentioned the loss by strikes in wages alone was $11,681,376.78, to which must be added the cost of the strikes to the labor organizations, amounting to $1,896,165.64, or a gross loss of $13,577,542.42. From this there has to be deducted an estimated gain in wages of $10,324,588.76, leaving a net loss of $3,252,554.66. It is true that the estimated loss to the employers is about twice that sum, $6,496,410.08, but any workman who can find satisfaction, or compensation for the loss he personally endured from knowledge of that fact can hardly be capable of logical reasoning. The Bureau of Labor Statistics was created in the interest of the working people, and may be said to sympathize with them. Its opinion on the wisdom of strikes may be gathered from the prominence it gives to the figures, previously quoted, in its report, and also from the satisfaction it takes occasion to express in seeing a growing tendency to settle labor disputes by friendly arbitration. Every workingman may think over these things in the quiet of his own home with profit if he will.

A Study of Millionaires.

IT is a little remarkable that none of our labor bureaus have undertaken to study the lives of rich people with the same patient thoroughness that has been bestowed upon the habits, conditions of life and expenditure budgets of the laboring classes. It is a reflection on the ingenuity of labor agitators that this has never been urged. The nearest approach to such urgency was the heated declaration by a Knight of Labor leader that we ought to have social settlements in the wealthy districts as well as in the tenement house regions. Perhaps, owing to the expense of such an undertaking, his suggestion has not been acted on. Of course millionaires are not plaintiffs in the case of The Miserable vs. Society, but they may become so should graduated income taxes be pushed far, and even if they remain defendants simply, they are the beneficiaries of our social organization and ought not to think it an impertinent thing for society to ask if they are giving good value for what they receive. With increasingly high social organization society must become increasingly inquisitive about all its parts, because social diseases may originate in any member and are increasingly acute. In a city many of the conditions of life which, in a rural community, may be left wholly to individuals, must be subjected to close public scrutiny and regulation. So, with social differentiation must go an increasing anxiety about the health of all the members of the body social.

Many of our sociological novels have dealt with the millionaire, but these are hardly what is wanted. Fictional studies in social science have great popular effect, but they are always open to the suspicion of being biased. Should a novelist like C. D. Warner or Mrs. Humphrey Ward desire to prepare for the writing of a new novel by studying in blue-books and official reports about the habits and expenditures of various industrial classes, they would find much concerning the poor, but almost nothing concerning the rich. There might be something about employers as employers, or land owners as land owners, or about benevolent people as philanthropists, but about these various classes as consumers—their most constant function—there would be nothing at all. How great fortunes are got and how they are spent, is an uninvestigated subject.

In the matter of the acquisition of property a daily paper did make a list of American millionaires, but it was done for a party purpose and hardly reached the dignity of investigation. On the side of expenditure hardly anything has been done more serious than what we suggested regarding the use for anarchist propaganda of the material contained in the number of the Architectural Record, describing the interiors of millionaire residences at Newport. When Mr. George's Standard was in existence it had column of "Society Notes," which consisted of clippings from the daily papers giving alternately cases of extreme luxury and of extreme destitution. An account of a two thousand dollar manicure set would be followed by a case of death from starvation, and so on. This style of attack on luxury is common enough and cheap enough. It reaches much inflamable material in the community, and may yet, together with other forms of agitation, raise such a fire that the rich will welcome impartial investigation as willingly as the victims of the sweat shops now do. Mr. Edward Atkinson, in one of the few remarks he has ever made capable of being wrenched into opposition to his general view that this is the best possible world, says that the rich need to know how the poor live and the poor need to know how the rich work. We should like to know. We should like to have it made so plain that all could see the real value of rich men, for they have the very highest industrial value, and as Mr. Atkinson says the poor ought to know how the rich work, and especially how many of them work.

We need to have some rough but reliable statement of the cost in money of good breeding and disciplined intelligence. Mr. Atwater and others have given long and patient study to the problem of the cost of living for laboring people. Mr. Atkinson's efforts to show how it can be lessened without reducing industrial efficiency have got him well hated by the classes he would instruct and serve. Let him or some one else turn his attention to the necessary cost of maintaining the rich people of the world and see if there is no possibility of reducing the cost without lessening their industrial efficiency, or even their influence for good, in the advancement of civilization. A first attempt would of course be crude, but the mere fact that it was undertaken would be reassuring to the discontented classes.

Some years ago President Eliot of Harvard wrote a paper for one of the popular magazines on "The Forgotten Millions." He described a community of very ordinary and contented people along the Maine coast. His point was that students of social science have given too much attention to the distressed classes, and that the great body of modern industrial society is made up of people who are fairly successful and well satisfied. We are inclined to think that the millions that have been most completely overlooked in recent zeal for the inductive study of social science are the millions belonging to millionaires. Marx, George and others have philosophized as to how these great accumulations have come into the possession of their present owners, but no one has undertaken an inductive study of them and their owners. An inductive study of the causes and consequences of great riches ought to be as possible and profitable as a similar study of the causes and consequences of great poverty. Many of the latter have been attempted. Why not one of the former?

THE Assembly Committee on Railroads has finished its open sittings and is, presumably, engaged in the preparation of its report, a document that will be awaited with interest by the public. Whatever may be its conclusions as to the exactions that should be put upon the carrying companies in the interest of the public, one fact was brought out very clearly in the testimony submitted to it. That fact is, that if the state should insist that incrementary profits arising from the operation of street railroads should accrue to it, it will have to be prepared to either assist the building of such roads by guarantees or assuming ownership from the beginning. It is the prospect of large profit that has induced capital to accept the attending responsibilities of building these roads, a profit that is represented in advance by what is infelicitously called watered stock. If the state imposes burdens that will have a tendency to remove the expectation of those profits, and to limit them to a small investment-return on the capital invested, the main incentive to such undertakings will be gone. That the development of our cities has been due to the increase of facilities of transit is a proposition on its face so true, that it does not admit of a moment's argument. Nor can it be denied that the continuation of this development is awaiting the amplification and extention of those facilities. The condition of New York City at the present moment is the best illustration of the truth of that statement. It follows, therefore, that any measure that would shut off the spontaneous use of private capital as now engaged in this work will have to be accompanied by others providing for public guarantees of principal and interest, or the expansion of the population and commerce of our cities, and of this city in particular, will be seriously embarrassed.

Mechanic's Lien.

Two interesting decisions relating to mechanic's lien have been recently rendered. The Common Pleas, Special Term, sustained demurer for insufficiency of complaint raised by wife, although it was alleged she had agreed to pay for the improvement. The case was that of John R. Johnson et al. v. John Vinton Dahlgren et al. The action was brought to foreclose a mechanic's lien. Judge Bookstaver held that a wife's inchoate right of dower is not made subject to a mechanic's lien is obvious from the language of the act (ch. 342, Laws of 1885.) Section 1 provides for a lien to the extent of the right, title and interest at that time existing of such owner, whether owner in fee or of a less estate, or whether a lessee, for a term of years, or vendee in possession under a contract existing at the time of the filing of said notice of lien, or of the owner of any right, title or interest in such estate, which may be sold under an execution under the general provisions of the statutes in force in this State relating to liens of judgments and enforcement thereof. An inchoate right of dower is not, according to the settled theory of the law, an estate or interest in land at all, and obviously cannot be sold under an execution. Even a widow's right of dower before assignment is not subject to such sale.

A case of considerable interest to material men was recently decided by the Supreme Court—General Term. The title of the case was Daniel Mahoney v. James McWalters and others, in which an order was obtained in the lower court setting aside a mortgage, which order the General Term on appeal has recently confirmed. The facts were that Michael Riddington owned land on Washington and Vernon avenues Long Island City, and gave a contract to James McWalters, his brother-in-law, to erect a building for the sum of $6,000, on which he paid $2,000 in cash. The contractor in failing condition got owner to give his wife, and sister of owner, a mortgage for $4,000 and give receipt in full. The mortgage was assigned to a bona fide lien creditor, John C. Orr & Co., to secure a claim of $1,100, and further assignments of the same were made to other parties not creditors. Subsequently liens were filed, and plaintiff, the plasterer, brought suit for foreclosure and to set aside the mortgage and assignment. It was held that the transaction would have been valid as between the parties if the rights of creditors had not intervened, but it operated as a fraud upon other creditors, and as to them it was void. Plaintiff's attorney was Robert J Mahon.

Opening of 181st Street.

The Board of Street Opening and Improvement yesterday ordere the opening of 181st street, from Kingsbridge road to the Hudson River, 70 per cent. of the cost to be paid by owners of property within 250 feet of the street. The city will pay 30 per cent. The property owners wanted the city to bear the whole expense.

The Metropolitan Traction Company's New Building.

AN IMPOSING COMMERCIAL STRUCTURE ON EAST 25TH AND EAST 26TH STREETS.

The building which has just been completed for the Lexington Avenue Cable Road, to be known as the Lexington Building, is a monument of strength and beauty, and marks the era of a new departure in modern and progressive building for that vicinity.

The plot of ground on which the building is located extends from 25th to 26th streets, immediately east of Lexington avenue, with a frontage of 200 feet on each street. The basement and street floors are designed exclusively for the motive power of the Road. The six floors above the Power House are to be let for warerooms, offices, or manufacturing purposes, affording a rare opportunity for enterprising firms to secure the highest grade of building in a centrally located and accessible neighborhood, with great abundance of light and ventilation.

In erecting the building, the architects, Messrs. William Schickel & Co. present an inviting facade as nearly perfect as the combination of stone, brick, steel and other fire-proof material would permit.

The engines and machinery are placed in a position which precludes all possibility of transmitting vibration or noise to the upper floors.

Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Streets, East of Lexington Avenue.

Architects, Wm. Schickel & Co., 111 Fifth Ave. Builders, M. Reid & Co., 18 East Twentieth Street.

The construction throughout is unusually massive, the floors having been calculated for the exceptionally heavy live load of over 325 pounds per square foot, this being considered of particular importance in view of the great demand at the present time for rigidly constructed and substantial buildings capable of carrying heavy weights and machinery.

The fronts are finished with speckled Pompeiian bricks of a rich, warm color, with fire flashed terra cotta and pink New England granite trimmings, handsomely moulded and ornamented, and in designing the building, it has been the aim of the architects to combine correct proportions with graceful and refined features, the style adopted being the Italian Renaissance, which, with its broad treatment, is in striking and pleasing contrast with other structures in the neighborhood.

The interior of the building has been carefully arranged to meet the requirements of large manufacturing firms, special attention having been given to the matter of light and ventilation. A large court faced with white bricks, is carried through the centre, which, with the openings on the streets and sides, afford perfect light to every part of the 30,000 square feet of floor surface contained in each loft.

The stairs are constructed of richly ornamented iron, and the machinery and even a loaded truck. It is reached by an alley opening into 26th street, and, consequently the loading and unloading of trucks need not be done in the street amid obstructions from the passing traffic. There are, besides, at the several entrances four other elevators—two freight, one 7.0x9.6 and one 8.0x8,0, and two passenger, 7.6x8.0 each.

The location is in a neighborhood which is being fast adopted for business purposes. There are nearby a number of new office buildings and many establishments devoted to manufacturing, and also within a comparatively short distance a large working population.

A fact that will, no doubt, have great weight with possible tenants is that this building is not put up for the market, to be sold any day to the first buyer who will pay the builder his profit, but is an indispensable part of the permanent plant of a great company, as well as one of its investments. This fact guarantees a perfect construction, with the best of materials and skilfullest workmanship, careful protection against damage or loss by fire, and in the future constant care to keep the building in a condition of the highest efficiency.

Inquiries for space will be answered on application to H. S. Beattie, treasurer of the Metropolitan Street Railway Co., No. 621 Broadway.

The Amendment of the Building Law.

With the reports that have been published in these columns of steps that have been taken to secure amendment of the building law it is, of course, only natural that the subject should receive a great deal of attention outside of the conventions which have been called under differing auspices to deal directly with it. The opinions that have been formed as a result of this informal talk vary all the way from that of Mr. John O'Rourke, who holds that the law ought to definitely regulate the use of everything in a building that has to bear stress and strain as well as to elaborately classify the buildings themselves, to that of not a few men, particularly among builders, who hold that outside of the correction of several obvious mistakes in the tenement-house building law passed last spring there ought to be no interference with the law at all.

The latter view has not received attention yet in the loud outcry that is being made for modification of legal requirements affecting structural work, but it is likely to receive more favor as time goes on, and as it is seen how fundamentally sound the existing law is and how difficult it will be to obtain a better. The view expressed by a practical man, who modestly refuses to accept the credit for his ideas beyond the circle of his acquaintances, are not unlikely to be those of many builders who have gone through the experience of seeing building laws passed or amended. He says: "Builders, at any rate, are unwise in raising the question of the amendment of the law, because they never get what they want. Whenever the Legislature acts upon this matter it makes the conditions more onerous to the builder. While this in the long run affects the owner chiefly, its immediate result is to create confusion in the building trade and to obstruct theregular course of business. Last spring on the passage of the Tenement House Building law, the builder of tenements and apartments did not know whether he was on his head or his heels, and he has not quite settled that point yet. A general revision of the building law will throw the builders in every class of buildings into as great a condition of uncertainty and be a great injury to trade, because unfortunately time lost in this way is never regained. This results from the fact that the builder is never allowed any voice in the making or amendment of the law. He has to accept whatever conditions are imposed upon him in the interest of iron men, brick and stone men and the insurance companies, who always manage to see that they are properly represented in any conference for the amendment of the law and who take care that their voices are distinctly heard at Albany when the bills are considered in the Legislature. The experience of the builders last spring ought to show them what they have to expect if the present movement to amend the laws takes the shape of a bill in the Legislature. Wherever they presented their views they were discredited and credence given only to slummers and statisticians, theorists and cranks, while the practical man was as one speaking in the wilderness. At this moment the architects and engineers are claiming that they alone are entitled to deal with the amendment of the law, one conference of builders has been snubbed by the architects, and the other is too unweildy to give promise of producing any satisfactory result."

The foregoing views have much force and are likely to fall into sympathetic minds when they reach the minds of builders, if they are not already there. As to the law regulating the building of tenements, flats and apartments, the records of the plans filed lately show that builders are not now deterred by it from taking new ventures although they would like to see some of the most objectionable of its features abolished. Mr. John Hauser, who, as an architect, has a large experience with two, three and four family flats, said recently: "The Department has removed some of the obstructions to building these houses by a more liberal construction of the law than it first permitted itself, though I think there is still room for improvement there. If the double-acting swinging iron doors on the second floor were done away with and an ordinary wooden wainscot, in the lower halls anyway, was permitted I would have little to complain of. I do not see why the first are necessary if they are not required on the floors above, and I think the second may be safely allowed now that the hall partitions are no longer lath and plaster, but are built in solid. If further protection against fire were wanted I would suggest that all kitchen floors and all fore and aft partitions be filled up solid with fire-proof material of some kind. I think, too, it would further remove the danger from fire if all stud partitions rested on the plate above as well as below."

Messrs. Neville & Bagge, whose business is mostly the drawing of plans for the superior class of flats, had several objections to make to the law as it stands and to its interpretation by the Department of Buildings. For instance, they said, the Department insist that it has no discretion to allow more than twenty five per cent. of openings of bearing wall in horizontal section and includes flues and chimneys in the openings. It is impossible to plan tenements or flats under this ruling and give them the light and ventilation demanded by the law. What we maintain is, that if the pier is sufficiently strong to carry the weight imposed upon it, according to the rules specified by the department there is no necessity for limiting the percentage of openings to twenty-five per cent. There ought to be a better classification so as to divide flats and apartments from tenements, and the area of the lot to be covered ought to be graded according to the class. There is no reason why a single flat on a 25 foot lot should only cover the same area of the lot as a four family tenement on the same sized lot. We suggest that the percentage of area to be covered should be the same as now in three and four family tenements or flats, but 78 per cent. in two family and 80 per cent. in one family flats. Surely the same light and ventilation is not required for a house containing only five families as for one containg twenty. There is no danger that we will not give them light and ventilation enough, because we have to look after those things to make the better class of flats rentable. The law ought to be made more specific as to wire-lathing of beams over cellars in dwellings. While this may be wise in a four family flat, it is nonsense as applied to a private dwelling, yet there is a difference of opinion as to whether it applies to dwellings of every kind of five stories in height. On examination there will be found many other objectionable features and inconsistencies which ought to be removed."

Some time ago we presented the main objections engineers make to present requirements as applied to high buildings. The following statement by Mr. Thos. E. Brown, jr., summarizes these objections in a very clear and forcible manner: "The present Building Law I think good when applied to the type of building it is mainly intended for, but in its relation to the more modern skeleton building, I think there are opportunities for improvement. One of these relates to brick curtain walls, which, following the law, we make thin at the top, increasing the thickness toward the bottom. The walls in such buildings are simply enclosures intended to keep out the weather and protect the iron frame of the building. I see no reason why they should be any thicker at the bottom than at the top. Thickening of these walls simply increases unnecessarily the weights to be carried by the iron frame, and the load on the foundations adds to the cost of the building and decreases the rental area in the lower stories. I think it probable that the increased thickness toward the bottom is required with the idea of giving stability to the walls in case the interior supports are destroyed by fire, but as buildings of the skeleton type are usually, and ought always to be, as nearly fire-proof as it is possible to make them, this precaution seems needless. The system in use in Chicago of building walls of uniform thickness seems to be quite reasonable. There the thickness of the walls is from 12 to 16 inches throughout, while in this city we start at the top with a similar thickness and increase four inches every 50 feet down, until, as is the case with our taller buildings, we have walls at the bottom nearly or quite 3 feet thick. In high buildings it is always difficult to keep the pressures under the foundations within reasonable limits, and this extra thickness of wall, and consequent increase of weight, simply adds to the difficulty.

"The law leaves it open to the Architect or Engineer to use either steel or cast-iron as he may prefer, but it favors cast-iron by allowing a lower factor of safety on cast-iron columns than most engineers would deem advisable. I think this should be corrected and a larger factor of safety be required for cast-iron in view of the possible defects and flaws in cast-iron columns, which are difficult to discover. The factor of safety in cast-iron columns should be increased to eight. It is far preferable in my mind to make the entire skeleton construction of steel, and with rivetted connections and I believe it desirable to make the use of steel rivetted construction compulsory in all buildings of the skeleton type over a certain height, especially if on narrow lots, or say all buildings above eight or ten stories.

"The building law requires that the pressure under the footings of buildings shall not exceed four tons per square foot. This is a fair average requirement, but there are cases where the material will stand with perfect safety a larger load than this, and again there are cases where such a pressure would not be warranted, and in fact might be dangerous. As far as my knowledge goes I know of nothing in the law, or no precaution in the Building Department, which prevents any one from building a building on any soil in the city with a pressure of four tons under the footing, whether the soil be capable of properly sustaining this load or not. It seems to me that provision ought to be made in the law to insure the boring and examination of the soil and determination of its sustaining power at least in the case of important buildings. Provision should also be made for the adjustment of interior foundations properly to the exterior foundations, that is to say, an adjustment between those piers which carry mainly an assumed live load, and those which carry an actual dead load. If the foundations are proportioned strictly in accordance with the law, interior piers, supporting floors only, will have footings of such size that the actual pressures will be very considerably less than those under the exterior walls, tending to unequal settlement. I think the law should provide for proportioning interior foundations with only a percentage of the total assumed live floor load.

A general meeting of that body, recently and voluntarily formed, known as the Committee or Commission on Revision of the Building Laws, met on call of the Superintendent of the Building Department on Monday last, and was joined by a committee from the Employers' and Builders' League, thus uniting all effort to frame a new law. Mr. Constable was elected chairman of the General Committee and Mr. Wm. Fryer secretary, both to be ex-officio members of committees. It was decided to divide up the work before the Commission by the appointment of fourteen committees, which, preceded by the subject submitted for the consideration of each, were as follows the first named gentleman in the case of each committee is to be its chairman:

New York State Builders.

The first annual Convention of the New York State Association of Builders was held on Wednesday last, the 11th inst., at the Building Trades' Club, No. 117 East 23d street. The delegates and the places of their nomination were: New York, Isaac A. Hopper, Edmond A. Vaughan, Elliott Smith, Stephen M. Wright, Frank C. Conover; Brooklyn, B. C. Miller, G. Franklin Stringer, Wesley C. Bush, Ellis H. Baillie, Wm. Lamb; Buffalo, Harry Schaefer, J. E. Almerdinger John Ferst, R. E. Burger; Rochester, J. J. L. Frederick, J. H. Grant John Luther, F. P. Stallman; Batavia, Wm. Hornelius; Utica, John F. Hughes.

Committees of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange and Building Trades' Club met the delegates to the convention and provided for their meeting in the handsomely decorated meeting room of the club, and bestowed upon them further hospitalities in the way of lunch, etc. The proceedings of the convention, which were presided over by Mr. John J. Hamilton, Mr. J. E. Almerdinger acting as secretary, were opened by prayer by the Rev. S. B. Rossiter. Addresses of welcome were delivered by Mr. John Jeroloman, President of the Board of Aldermen, on behalf of the City of New York, and Mr. Isaac A. Hopper, President of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange, for that institution. Mr. Chas. A. Rupp, President of the National Association of Builders, and Mr. Wm. H. Sayward, its secretary, also spoke.

Mr. Jeroloman, in the course of his remarks, pointed out the wisdom of united and harmonious action of interests, such as those represented there that day. There was much in this State that such an association could do. For instance, there was the lien law; scarcely anybody knew what it meant; it was unsatisfactory to builders, material men and to laborers. But if the builders of the State got together and applied their minds in a spirit of harmony to the work, a law might be evolved which would benefit all. The trouble was that when they wanted a law passed they engaged a lawyer to draft a bill which was sent up to Albany without being maturely considered by those who were best qualified to give opinions and consequently they got bad laws. By acting in harmony and giving the matter full and thoughtful consideration a better law might be placed upon the statute book which would stand there for a generation and not as now for a year or two only. The matter of compensation for labor was also a question that could be treated better by a united trade. He held that it was better for both employer and men that wages should be fixed. The City had just had experience of the trouble occasioned by want of a proper understanding on that hand. They wanted to make contracts for the final disposition of garbage and refuse, but feared they could not make one of any value because the bidders were uncertain of the conditions relating to the payment of labor for such work. He complimented the trade on its importance in the community and the New York builders on their enterprise.

The most important business before the convention was to consider the advisability of forming a permanent State association in affiliation with the National Builders' Association. It will be remembered that a temporary association was formed at Baltimore last October, immediately after the National Association had empowered the organization of such State associations, with Mr. Hamilton as president and Mr. Almerdinger as secretary.

Mr. Stephen M. Wright submitted a preamble and resolution reciting the facts of this amendment of the constitution of the National Association, of the temporary organization and concluding as follows: "Believing that a State association will be of inestimable service to the building craft of the entire State, and that through such an organization matters of legislation can be carefully observed and investigated, and what has heretofore been no man's business shall, through proper channels, receive careful and watchful attention, therefore be it Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that a permanent New York State Association of Builders be now formed and that we proceed to consider and adopt a constitution and by-laws to govern the same."

The motion was seconded and adopted after Mr. Wesley C. Bush had stated that the Brooklyn delegation was not authorized to vote for the formation of a State association, but only to learn what was proposed and report back. He had no doubt, however, that the Brooklyn Exchange would approve the State association, but it reserved the question of membership until after the association should have been formed.

The form of constitution for State associations prescribed by the National Association of Builders was adopted for the new association in this State. This constitution sets out that, the purpose of the association is to unite the various bodies of employers of workmen, in the building business, located in the cities or towns in the State of New York, so that objects of importance to such employers, and having special significance within the said State, may be unitedly considered and harmoniously acted upon, and so that greater emphasis and a more complete following of the principles and recommendations of the National Association may be secured.

In connection with this matter it should be understood that the formation of the State Association does not change the basis of representation in the National Association, which remains with the city associations. As before explained by THE RECORD AND GUIDE, the national body recommends the formation of State associations to supplement the city associations because it was found that there was certain work which could be more conveniently accomplished through an intermediate State body than through either the national or city associations.

A committee on by-laws, consisting of Messrs. Stephen M. Wright, New York, chairman; F. P. Stallman, Rochester, and John Feist, Buffalo, was appointed, and subsequently their report adopted and a recess taken. During this recess the Board of Management met and elected officers as follows: President, Isaac A. Hopper, New York; Vice-President, J. Herbert Grant, Rochester; Secretary, J. C. Almerdinger. These, by virtue of the constitution and by-laws, became the officers of the new association. When the convention was reconvened the election of officers was reported. The membership fees or dues were fixed at $1 per annum per man in each exchange affiliated with the association. A vote of thanks was passed to the retiring President, Mr. John J. Hamilton, and the rest of the session spent in advancing methods to make the association effective with particular reference to coming legislation. A careful watch is to be kept at Albany to prevent pernicious and to assist beneficial legislation.

Labor Troubles in the Building Trade.

The housesmiths and bridgemen who have been on strike for four weeks at last learned that they were fighting a hopeless battle and laid down their arms unconditionally. In the announcement from the striker's headquarters there is an attempt to create the idea that the strike was declared off as a result of an agreement with the employers, but there was no such agreement and intimations to the contrary were only made to keep up the absurd bluff by which this movement was carried on from the beginning. As we stated last week the Iron League had taken no notice of the strikers for some time and such was their indifference to what was going on outside of their work that an ordinary meeting called for Thursday last did not have a quorum and, of course, no business was done. The results of this strike were, that work on a number of buildings was tied up for two weeks or so, the strikers lost $60,000 to $80,000 in pay and many of them their jobs, because they will now only be taken on to fill vacancies, all the competent non-union men who have been engaged during the progress of the struggle are to be retained. Per contra the men have gained a piece of experience which will be very valuable hereafter, if they regard it properly.

Two things have been particularly noticeable in this struggle which ought to tend to increase the better feeling which is growing up between master and man considered in the collective way. One is the generally good behavior of the men, which was only broken in one or two instances, and the other the judgment and patience of the employers in the very trying circumstances of having men, who were well paid and treated, stop operations at a season of the year when every moment was precious. Notwithstanding the way in which the men behaved, their places were held open to their re-acceptance for quite two weeks, and the engagement of new men was not pushed as far as it might have been even after that time. Probably there cannot be found another instance of such tolerance in all the strike records. The employers evidently made a distinction between the men individually and the union, and reserved all their condemnation for the latter. It will not trouble them again for some time. Another feature that ought not to escape attention, and especially the attention of discontented workmen, is that this movement met with no favor with the general public, and it is probably due to that fact that the strikers were unable to secure action of other trade organizations in their favor.

The report was in circulation last evening that the steamfitters' strike had been settled by the men agreeing to return to work on Monday and to thereafter arbitrate their demands. The report lacked confirmation, but it deserves notice because it is so in the line of what might naturally be expected to be the result of this strike.

A strike for $3 pay for an eight-hour day declared by an Italian union of stonemasons was successful, the employers yielding to the demand after the men had been out three days.

Damages For Loss of Life.

Judge Pryor, in the Court of Common Pleas, has added another to the recent decisions on the question of the change in the limitation of damage for loss of life caused by the adoption of the amended Constitution. The case was that of Sarah Emily Smith, as administratrix, etc. v. Metropolitan Street Railway Co. In the progress of the trial defendant moved to reduce the claim of damages from $20,000 to $5,000. This motion was denied, Judge Prior saying: "It appears that the injury was sustained by the intestate on the 30th December, 1894, and that his death occurred on the 2nd January, 1895. The question is, whether the recovery be limited to $5,000, as by the law in force on the 30th December, or be unlimited by virtue of the Constitution of 1895. That Constitution went into effect the 1st January, 1895. The law limiting the recovery does not apply, because the cause of action did not accrue while that law was in operation. The cause of action is not the injury, but the death of the intestate; and that death occured after the new Constitution went into effect.

The 125th Street Station.

The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Co. having abandoned its elevated station at 125th street, a mass meeting of Harlem citizens was held on Tuesday evening last at the Opera House on 125th street, which passed resolutions condemning the action of the Railroad Company as a violation of its promises by which the Legislature was induced to give it power to build an elevated road.

The position of the Railroad Company was explained in a letter to the secretary of the Harlem Club. It was: The Company was not obliged to build this station, the station would not pay, yet the Company was ready to spend $175,000 to build it to oblige Harlem: the station could not be built without carrying the supports beyond the elevated railroad of the Company. This made them liable to damages to adjoining property owners, some of whom had begun suit, the claims aggregating $500,000, which the Company did not care to run the risk of having to pay. Mr. Depew's letter concluded with the following remarks:

I submit to the fair-minded men of your club the question, should this company build a station at a cost of $175,000 for the benefit of the people of Harlem, and not of this company, and at the same time pay $500,000 for the privilege of putting it up?

The difficulties confronting us are:

First—The law does not permit us to cover the space required for a station. This can be overcome by the consent of the property owners and legislation.

Second—The enormous damages claimed by the property owners if the station is built.

Third—The injunction granted by the Supreme Court restraining us from building.

The following are the resolutions passed by the meeting:

Resolved, That the following preambles and resolutions be presented to the mass meeting for adoption, to wit:

Whereas, This mass meeting has heard that at the time of the passage of the act, Chap. 339 of the laws of 1892, the representatives of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company made a solemn pledge to the citizens of Harlem that said company would construct and maintain a station at 125th street, at which all express and other passenger trains should stop, going to and from the Grand Central Depot; and,

Whereas, This meeting has also heard, with much regret, that the pledge thus made is about to be violated, and that the railway company has recently decided not to maintain such a station at 125th street; and,

Whereas, This meeting believes that such abandonment is without justification or excuse in law or morals; is destructive of the best interests of the citizens of this section of the city, is highly reprehensible, and such abandonment calls for immediate action on the part of the citizens of upper New York, through this citizens' movement:

Resolved, That the "Finance and Executive Committee with power" be and it is hereby empowered and instructed to adopt such ways, and to take such means and measures as may be necessary and proper to be taken, to bring about a redemption on the part of said railway company of the pledge thus made.

Resolved, That subscriptions be solicited by the "Finance and Executive Committee with power" from those willing to contribute, to defray the necessary expenses of this movement.

New Officers of the Real Estate Exchange.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Real Estate Exchange, held on Monday, was the briefest in its history, and passed off without incident. President George De Forest Barton presided. The annual election of directors followed. There was no opposition to the regular ticket. The following is a list of the new directors, with the number of votes cast for each: Richard V. Harnett, 2060; George De Forest Barton, 2720; Douglas Robinson, 1930; Frank Yoran, 2180; Samuel F. Jayne, 1930; Hermann H. Cammann, 2440; Alfred E. Marling, 1930; Irving Ruland, 1930; Frederick Zittel, 1930; J. Edgar Leaycraft, 1930; Thomas S. Walker, 1920; Augustus H. Carpenter, 1930; Augustus W. Cruikshank, 4400.

The inspectors chosen for the next annual election were: William M. Cruikshank, Henry H. Elliott, and Christopher Heiser.

The new Board met on Thursday, and unanimously elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Douglas Robinson; First Vice-President, Samuel F. Jayne; Second Vice-President, Frederick Zittel; Secretary, Irving Ruland, and Treasurer, Augustus W. Cruikshank.

The following committees were appointed: Finance, Messrs. Cammann, Barton and Leaycraft; Exchange and Auction Room, Messrs. Marling, Harnett, Jayne, Yoran and Walker; Membership, Messrs. Carpenter, Zittel, Cruikshank, Ruland and Yoran.

The selection by the Board, of representatives of what has been called the reform element to fill all the offices, presents the opportunity for the addition of new facilities in the Exchange that many of the brokers have long claimed to be indispensable to the future success and usefulness of the organization. It now depends on the brokers themselves whether the reforms so urgently demanded by them some months ago will be effected. It is their duty to formulate a feasible plan for the accomplishment of their wishes, and if such is agreed upon and presented to the directors there is no doubt that its efficacy will be at least submitted to a practical test.

Twenty-third and Tweny-fourth Wards.

The North Side Board of Trade met on Monday last and adopted resolutions for securing a new building to be erected at 175th street and 3d avenue for the courts and city offices above the Harlem. A bill is to be drafted and presented to the next Legislature authorizing the expenditure of $150,000 for this purpose. The Board also deputed Messrs. John de Hart and Albert E. Davis to wait upon the Fire Department and request that a fire-boat be assigned to patrol the Harlem River. These gentlemen have since seen the Fire Department and will also attend a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on Monday next at 11 A. M. to urge that the appropriation of the Fire Department be increased to the extent of $35,000 in order that it can provide this most necessary protection for the valuable property that is constantly increasing on the Harlem River front.

The Auctioneers Elect Officers.

The New York Real Estate Auctioneers' Association at their annual meeting held yesterday afternoon at No. 111 Broadway elected the following officers: President, James L. Wells; Vice-President, Morris Wilkins; Treasurer, William M. Ryan; Secretary, D. Phœnix Ingraham; Executive Committee, Philip A. Smyth, Peter F. Meyer, Jere. Johnson, Jr., William F. Redmond and Louis Mesier. The only changes made in the list of officers that have served for the past two years are the substitution of Mr. Ingraham for his partner James S. McQuillen in the secretaryship and Mr. Mesier as the successor of Mr. Ingraham on the executive committee.

IMPORTANT TO REAL ESTATE BROKERS.

To the Real Estate Brokers of New York:

The management of THE LAWYERS' TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEW YORK desire to call your attention to the value to you of cordial co-operation in its work in New York.

It offers you a direct inducement to transact your business with the company; it affords you at a great saving of time a medium of communication with the principal individuals, estates, and corporations having money to loan, who are represented by its counsel, and it promises the same fair dealing that has always marked the relations between brokers and the real estate bar.

The company confines itself strictly to the business of examining and insuring titles, and is not competing with brokers in the business of renting or taking charge of real estate.

The company will furnish to brokers its lithographed signs, together with a full list of its examining counsel for the information of their customers. E. W. COGGESHALL, President.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

As the Grand Boulevard is the continuation of Broadway, I agree with many citizens in a movement to change the name of that avenue to Broadway or Broadway Boulevard. We are all proud of our Broadway, and every visitor to New York is familiar with it. Therefore the change of name would add to the length of Broadway, and I firmly believe would increase the value of the land, as Broadway lots bring more than Boulevard lots. Hotels, apartment houses clubs, theatres, etc., are already covering that section, and the increase of value, by reason of the change of name, will contribute to the city's income in taxes. Agitate the matter and oblige

Personal.

John N. Golding, who for many years has been prominently before the public as a broker, agent and auctioneer, and Worthington Whitehouse, of the firm of Mills & Whitehouse, will become partners on January 1st, under the title of Golding & Whitehouse. The present office of Mr. Golding, at No. 9 Pine street, will be retained by the new firm and a branch office opened at the northeast corner of 5th avenue and 44th street.

Manager Benjamin Hardwick of the Real Estate Exchange will complete on the 29th inst. the twelfth year of his incumbency of that office. He has served under six presidents: E. H. Ludlow, H. H. Cammann, E. A. Cruikshank, George H. Scott, Geo. R Read and George De Forest Barton.

The Warren Chemical & Manufacturing Company, whose card appears on page nine, is one of the oldest concerns in the manufacture of coal tar and asphalt products, having been established in 1835 and incorporated in 1858. This company is the manufacturer of Warren's Anchor Brand Natural Asphalt Roofing, which has been in use on the United Bank Building, New York Tribune Building, the Union League Club House, the Seventh Regiment Armory, Mr. Henry G. Marquand's Madison avenue residence, and many other well-known buildings in New York for the past twelve or fifteen years. The Warren Chemical and Manufacturing Company apply these materials themselves. They also apply brick, tile and gravel roofing, and lay asphalt floors, sidewalks, driveways, etc. In addition to their contracting business, they are extensive manufacturers and dealers in roofing and paving materials. They are also large importers and refiners of Trinidad asphalt and distillers of coal tar. Their main offices are at 81 and 83 Fulton street, New York, and their refinery and works at Long Island City.

Removal.

Fleming & Co., late of No. 23 Liberty street have removed to the Liberty Building, No. 123 Liberty street. This firm deals in Portland, Roman, Keene's, Vicat and Rosendale Cements, glazed bricks, fire bricks and fancy front brick, mortar colors and roofing tiles. The adamantine clinker stable brick, for stable flooring and carriage ways, is also one of the important adjuncts of their business. They also make great claims of superiority for the Vicat cement, which is specially desirable for work on stone fronts. They will be pleased to furnish estimates to architects and builders on application.

The Howard Mercantile Building.

THE NEW COMMERCIAL EDIFICE ON THE NORTHEAST CORNER OF BROADWAY AND HOWARD STREET.

Messrs. Boehm & Coon have just completed and opened for the inspection of intending tenants their nine-story store and loft building on the northeast corner of Broadway and Howard street, which they have named the Howard Mercantile Building. Being their latest work this building represents all that is modern and advanced in mercantile construction. Boehm & Coon have had a long experience in the erection of commercial buildings, and this may be confidently called their best work.

This is the first of the modern fireproof mercantile buildings put up in the section in which it is located. Having a front of 64 feet 10 inches on Broadway and 98 ft. on Howard street, the building has an imposing appearance, and is a distinct addition to the neighborhood. Much of this is due to the freedom and elegance of the design as can be seen from the illustration accompanying this article. No cost has been spared to obtain a building in which merchants and manufacturers can locate themselves with pride in their accommodations and surroundings.

The Howard Mercantile Building.
Northeast corner Broadway and Howard Street.
R. S. Townsend, Architect. Boehm & Coon, Owners and Builders.

The interior is equal to the exterior. When passing through the handsome portico the halls are found to be light and airy, containing staircases of ornamental iron-work, with marble or slate treads. Two swift-running electric elevators, having a speed of 400 feet per minute, supplied with all the latest safety appliances, carry freight and passengers rapidly from one floor to another. Light in the basement is unusually good, because of the use of the illuminating tile light in the areas. The lofts are spacious, and lit not only on the Broadway and Howard street fronts, but also from an interior court; each has a separate toilet room, etc.

The building is fire-proof throughout, finished with handsome cabinet trim. The plumbing is complete and elaborate and embraces every sanitary improvement. There are, besides other conveniences, gas and electric light, wires for telegraph and telephone service, and steam-heat on every floor.

Broadway is now attracting back to itself the business it lost a few years ago by its want of enterprise when the side streets were being rapidly improved. It has itself been in the past two years the scene of great building enterprise and, given the same accommodations, of course Broadway will always have the preference of tenants even at higher rents. The mere fact of being on this historic thoroughfare is money in the pocket of the merchant. It will soon see a commercial activity unprecedented even in its own remarkable history. It need hardly be said that this has a very important bearing on realty values there. They have already advanced substantially and will continue to advance with the demand for building sites and for rented accommodations.

THE EMPIRE VENTILATOR.

One of the best recommendations that can be mentioned on behalf of any article on the market is the repeated use of such article by persons whose requirements lead them to invest therein. The Empire Ventilator, illustrated on another page, and manufactured by Herman Doerge, whose claim that it is a sure cure for smoky and faulty chimneys and without a rival for sanitary purposes is supported by such houses as the Armour Packing Co., who use the Empire Ventilator in their refrigerators and smoke houses; New York Fresh Tripe Co., William Van Twistern, Mr. Richards, of Coudert Bros.; Geo. Bickelhoupt, the well known skylight manufacturer, and innumerable others. Mr. Doerge's office is at No. 556 11th avenue, near 42d street, and the Empire Ventilator can be secured through such firms as Hull, Grippen & Co., of No. 310 3d avenue; M. Abbot's Sons, 137 8th avenue and Columbus avenue and 90th street, and C. A. Field Co., 164 East 129th street.

Real Estate Market.

It is necessary to include the purchase by the new Manhattan Athletic Club of its club house, to enable the transactions of the week by private contract to make a showing at all presentable. Adding that somewhat irregular sale to the more legitimate purchases of the last few days, a total investment of about $1,650 000 is indicated. With the first touch of winter the speculators who for many weeks have been the mainstay of the market have apparently gone into temporary seclusion, and the result is an utter absence of reports of sales in the sections that they have been operating in. The fall market, which ends with the arrival of Christmas week, is on very weak last legs. More active trading cannot now be looked for until the year has passed, though it is possible that one or more of the important transactions reputed to be in abeyance may, if closed, help out the totals of the remaining weeks of 1895.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding week of 1894 and 1895.

The auction record shows the customary preponderance of sales of a legal character over those of a voluntary description, and it must be admitted that the properties offered pursuant to decrees of court during the week have been much more attractive and desirable than were the few disposed of for the account of individuals. Of the latter kind there were eight sold and two withdrawn, but as two of the three parcels disposed of at the Real Estate Exchange were bought in by part owners, their sale can hardly be classified as public auctions, notwithstanding that interested parties have the same right to purchase as outsiders. The aggregate weekly investment at auction sales for the past seven weeks has, with remarkable regularity, shown an increase, very large as a rule, over the sales during the same weeks of last year. The bigger totals are anything but encouraging, however, as being derived mainly from legal sales they simply show that a greater number of properties have gone by the board under foreclosure.

At the Broadway Salesroom, on Tuesday, Peter F. Meyer & Co. adjourned until the 24th inst. a foreclosure sale of Nos. 336 and 338 East 98th street, and William Kennelly, for one week, a voluntary offering of Nos. 148 and 150 West 53d street. On Wednesday Bryan L. Kennelly sold two parcels for an estate and withdrew No. 494 Hudson street on a bid of $22,000. At the Real Estate Exchange on the same day No. 12 West 129th street, offered by Geo. R. Read, with two other properties, in accordance with a friendly partition agreement between heirs, was bid in by their attorney at $29,000. Yesterday an adjourned foreclosure sale of property on Brook avenue, announced by Strong & Ireland, did not take place, and it will probably be re-advertised for a future date.

William M. Ryan should have been credited with conducting the auction sale of Larchmont Manor property referred to in last week's review of the market. Mention should also have been made of Bryan L. Kennelly's sale on the 4th inst. by order of administrator of the dwelling, No. 35 East 31st street, for which the excellent price of $32,500 was obtained.

By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that William Kennelly, auctioneer, will sell, by order of the Supreme Court, on Friday next, at 12 o'clock noon, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, thirteen five-story stores and single and double apartment houses in 10th avenue and 52d and 53d streets. The properties will be sold separately and to the highest bidder. The occasion offers an unusual opportunity for investment.

BROOKLYN ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Jere. Johnson, Jr., announces the sale of a number of valuable pieces of improved and unimproved Brooklyn property for Tuesday next, the 17th inst., at the Real Estate Exchange, No. 189 Montague street. These consist of a plot of six gores on Penn street, near Broadway, suitable for factory purposes, the brownstone dwelling, No. 51 Park place, the frame dwelling, No. 343 Pacific street, and the fancy brick-front dwelling, No. 389 Jefferson avenue. The last and the Park place properties are to be sold by order of executors. Maps and full particulars can be had of the auctioneer, at No. 60 Liberty street, New York City, or 189 Montague street.

The sale of the property of the late Anthony McNeely, which is to take place on Monday next, is attracting even more attention than the recent Hamilton sale did prior to its occurrence. It comprises the long list of properties which will be found in our advertising pages and which deserves the attention of investors. There is no doubt of a large gathering at the Real Estate Exchange, No. 189 Montague street, where this sale is to take place. Those who have not already done so should supply themselves with the book-maps which the auctioneer, James L. Brumley, has prepared and which can be had in his office in the Exchange building.

People who are desirous of making a residence in St. Augustine have, as will be seen from the announcement of W. B. Northrop in our advertising pages, an excellent opportunity of doing so now. This is a privilege that was much and vainly sought hitherto owing to the scarcity of suitable sites, and as a consequence cottages owned by private parties are not as numerous in this delightful Florida town as they would otherwise have been. It will be seen that two large plots are now offered for sale, and as they are in the immediate vicinity of the Ponce de Leon hotel, the Flagler Cottage and the justly celebrated memorial church, there is very little doubt that they will soon disappear from the market through rapid sales. The address of Mr. Northrop is No. 22 Gramercy Park, this city.

The Eureka and Excelsior Gates and Guards are manufactured only by the Excelsior Elevated Guard and Hatch Cover Co., 139-141 Charles street.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

William A. White & Sons have sold for Frederick Gerken the four-story brick and stone building, 30x60, on the southwest corner of Madison avenue and 27th street, to the Andrew Gilsey estate, for $115,000. The upper stories are now occupied as bachelor apartments, the first by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, and the basement as a cafe. The building was formerly the headquarters of the American Jockey Club, and was sold by the late Judge A. C. Monson to Mr. Gerken in March, 1891, for $80,500.

Streeton & Lowry have sold for Judge Samuel A. Blatchford and others as trustees, the old four-story brick building with lot, 24.6x100, No. 154 Sullivan street to Rev. Father Anacletus, of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church, for $19,000. The property adjoins in the rear the St. Anthony parochial school, and is not unlikely to be utilized for its enlargement.

Jesse Wasserman has sold at about $110,000 the six-story "Park View" flat with lot, 50x100.5, Nos. 222 and 224 West 59th street. The property was acquired by the seller in April, 1886, for a nominal consideration, said to be a much larger sum than $110,000, subject to a mortgage for $95,000. It has probably deteriorated in value since, owing to the notoriety occasioned by newspaper references to the adventures of some of the occupants.

Broker Frank B. Starr has sold the lot, 21.10x92.7, with old frame and brick buildings, No. 70 Grove street.

The Frank L. Fisher Co. has sold, conjointly with A. M. Bauman, the four-story brick tenement, 44.2x92x100.5, Nos. 209 and 211 East 44th street, for W. R. Bronk, who acquired the property in January last for a consideration of $42,500.

Matthias N. Forney, the owner of the adjoining corner residence, has bought of David W. Bishop the four-story dwelling, with lot 25x80, No. 252 Madison avenue, just north of 38th street, for about $80,000.

The New Manhattan Athletic Club has bought of Adrian Iselin the club house it has occupied since its formation, on the southeast corner of Madison avenue and 45th street. Mr. Iselin held a mortgage for $465,000 on the property when the original owner, the defunct Manhattan Athletic Club, went into the hands of receivers. A foreclosure resulted, and at the referee's sale in July, 1893, the mortgagee bought the property for $456,000. This week's sale is said to have been made at about $500,000, a consideration that will doubtless be largely in the shape of a new mortgage to the seller.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Richard V. Harnett & Co have sold for Edward F. Cook the five-story American basement dwelling, 25x60x102.2, No. 312 West 72d street. Although not a party to the contract, it is said that a member of the Havemeyer family is the actual buyer. Mr. Cook has now only one house left out of his new row of five.

R. Pehlemann & Son have sold for Potter & Bro. to a client the five-story apartment house, 27x109x113, on the southeast corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 159th street, for $60,000.

S. Walters & Co. have sold for J. S. Lindsay the five-story double flat, with lot 25x80, No. 1088 Park avenue, between 88th and 89th streets.

Tim & Co. have sold for M. A. Loyd the five-story flat, 36x90x100.8, No. 92 West 89th street, to Rosa Kahn and another for about $63,000.

H. H. Bliss has sold for Wm. Broadbelt the four-story dwelling, No. 759 St. Nicholas avenue, between 148th and 149th streets, for about $30,000, to a Mr. Hutchings.

Hall J. How & Co. have sold for Lambert Suydam a plot, 100x99.11, on the south side of 137th street, 275 feet west of Lenox avenue, to Judson S. Todd for $24.000, and for the estate of Robert Orr two lots on the north side of 76th street, 360 feet west of 1st avenue, to Schnatz & Massett for improvement.

S. De Walltearss & Co. have sold for the estate of George Rudd a plot, 75x135, on the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 133d street, at a price close to $50,000, to Louis Wirth & Co., for improvement. The late Mr. Rudd bought the property in July, 1864, for $5,640.

Louis A. Sevestre has sold to a builder for improvement the lot, 20x100.11, on the southwest corner of 103d street and Madison avenue.

John P. Leo has sold the three-story stone front dwelling, 20x43x99.11, No. 580 West 146th street—the third house disposed of out of a new row of five—to D. D. Lawson for $13,500, and the three-story dwelling, 20x45x95, on the north side of 187th street, 80 feet west of 11th avenue, to Louis Pfingstag for $10,200.

Mr. Leo and Thomas Charlton have sold the three-story brick dwelling, 20x55x99.11, No. 416 West 149th street, to ex-Alderman Thomas Shiels for $20,000, and the similar stone front house, 19x55x99.11, No. 412 West 149th street to Paul O'Neill for $19,200.

E. H. Ludlow & Co, have sold for Benjamin F. De Klyn the four-story brick dwelling, 21x55x102.2, No. 332 West 77th street.

John Van Dolsen will exchange the five-story flat, 25x90x100.11, No. 11 East 112th street, with Mrs. C. P. Hooks for the vacant plots described under the head of "North Side."

Max Simon has sold for William C. Oesting to J. Walsh the five-story flat, 25.6x88x100, No. 2202 8th avenue, between 118th and 119th streets; for William J. Rodenbach the five-story flat, 27.3x88x100.11, No. 139 West 100th street, and for W. Brown the similar buildings, 25x90x100.11 each, Nos. 109 and 111 West 100th street, to two separate purchasers who buy on speculation.

The Frank L. Fisher Co. has sold for Clarence True the four-story American basement dwelling, 25.8x56 on the southwest corner of West End avenue and 93d street, and the two similarly built adjoining houses, Nos. 302 and 304 West 93d street, with lots 24 and 20 respectively x 50.8. The same firm has sold for Mary F. Peckham the three-story stone front house, No. 258 West 88th street.

T. E. D. Power has sold for William H. Jacob the lot 20x100.8 on the south side of 90th street, 80 feet east of Amsterdam avenue to A. & S. Bloch, who will erect a stable thereon for their own occupancy.

NORTH SIDE.

W. F. & C. H. Smith have negotiated a trade between Mrs. C. P. Hooks and John Van Dolsen, by the terms of which the latter will acquire, at a valuation of $15,000, two vacant plots, one 130x150 on the northeast corner of Tremont avenue and Lebanon street, and the other 66x150 on the east side of Tremont avenue 200 feet north of Lebanon street, giving in exchange at about $35,000 the five-story brick flat 25x90x100.11 No. 11 East 112th street.

Stumpf & Alard have sold for the Twenty-third Ward Land Improvement Co. a plot 50x100 on the west side of Hoe street 150 feet north of Jennings street, to A. Kaber for about $2,500.

J. Clarence Davies & Co. have sold for Franklin A. Wilcox, Nos. 3055 to 3059 3d avenue, two frame buildings with plot, 47x100, to Adelaide H. Levy for $22,500, and for George E. Robinson, 100x106, on the south side of 149th street, 300 feet west of Courtlandt avenue, to Dr. J. F. Meyer for about $16,000.

LEASES.

Streeton & Lowry have leased for William M. Martin the six-story building, No. 69 Cortlandt street, to Francis E. McAllister for a term of five years from May 1st next at a gross rental of about $35,000; for C. F. Benton, of Perth Amboy, the seven-story building, No. 470 Greenwich street, to Duryea & Co. for three years and five months, from January 1st at $3,000 per year, and for a like term the five-story building, No. 50 Dey street, for Mr. Lent, of San Francisco, to the Metropolitan Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Sypher & Co. have leased of Mrs. Julia L. Butterfield the four-story house, No. 400 5th avenue, and after alterations, to cost about $5,000, are completed, will occupy it as a branch of their establishment. The rental is understood to be $7,000 per annum for the first two years, $8,000 for the next three and $9,000 per year thereafter until the death of the lessor, who has only a life interest in the property. The James heirs, to whom the property will revert on the termination of the life interest, have given their acquiesence to the five year's lease.

Coudert Bros. have leased for a term of years the entire seventeenth floor of the new American Surety building at Broadway and Pine street. The second floor has been rented to the State Trust Company.

Real Estate Notes.

Jacob Hirsh, Emil Bloch and Alfred Gutwillig each took title last week to property acquired in the interest of the Hirsh-Gutwillig combination. The members of the latter are probably the heaviest speculative buyers of the year, and it is understood have for associates in their enterprises several well-known merchants who are taking their first lessons in real estate manipulation.

What a generous lot builders, who make a specialty of flat houses, must be? When plans are filed with applications for permits to build, the estimate of cost is in nearly every instance considerably more than $20,000 for each house, and when subsequent sales are made the prices obtained not infrequently indicate that if the estimate was correct the builder must have donated the lots to the purchasers without cost.

Judge Andrews, of the Supreme Court, has granted permission to Augustus D. Juilliard and James G. Cannon, two of the receivers of the firm of E. S. Jaffray & Co., to institute an action against the executors of the will of Edward S. Jaffray to determine the question of title to Nos. 350 and 352 Broadway, northeast corner of Leonard street, 60.11x175, and the property 85.4x128.2 on the northeast corner of Leonard and Benson streets, now in the name of Edward S. Jaffray, the former partner of the firm, who died on April 23, 1892. The receivers allege that the title to the property was held in trust for the partnership, and they want it sold to meet the debts. The two parcels are connected by a bridge over Benson street, and the buildings have for many years been occupied by the firm whose affairs are now in the hands of the receivers. They are valued at over $1,000,000.

The broker's sale for $52,500 recently reported of a property at 6th avenue and 52d street that was bought at auction seven months ago for $55,000 has an ominous look as regards values on that thoroughfare between 42d and 57th streets. Only one transfer in addition to that of the property resold has been made this year of an avenue parcel between the points mentioned, and that was of the notorious old hotel buildings on the northwest corner of 44th street at a price much less than they were valued at two years ago. Stores and probably other accommodations between 43d and 57th streets are in poor demand, and were it not for several imposing looking restaurants of the oyster and chop house variety and the corner saloons, all evidence of trade would be confined to the limited business of the small shopkeepers that line the avenue in a go-as-you-please fashion. Even they are loud in their complaints of the hard times, and their dissatisfaction must be taken as presaging lower rents or none at all when leases expire. Dr. Parkhurst struck the upper end of the avenue a blow that paralyzed its vitality when he carried on his successful crusade and that it will recover from it for many years, if at all, is exceedingly doubtful.

An extensive owner of old style tenement houses, acquired in the days when the present modern flat house was a novelty, states that he has lost more rent in the last two years through the inability or failure of tenants to pay than he had lost for the same reasons during the previous thirty years. It is undoubtedly true that the working classes occupying what are known as cold-water tenements have been the greatest sufferers from the financial depression not yet ended, and it follows that owners of that class of realty have had to be satisfied with smaller returns. Our informant's statement, however, indicates a condition much more serious than was hitherto supposed to exist, and it may be that his experience is exceptional owing to his being of a philanthropic disposition. Outside of the large estates, Weil & Mayer, the well-known real estate investors and operators, are, or were a year or so ago, the most extensive owners of flat and tenement property, and were credited with the ownership of 130 such buildings. For the last twelve months or so their former policy of adding to their tenement possessions has undergone a change, and they have been parting with them whenever possible at reasonable prices and giving their attention to investments in business property. Largely reduced tenement incomes are said to have been the cause, and it certainly must have been that or some other equally vital reason that induced so radical a change in their ideas. The tenements and cheap flats will again have their day, probably, but at the present time there are unquestionably many owners who would be only too willing to follow the example of Weil & Mayer, and be relieved from what have proved unfortunate investments.

The element of luck is no less influential in real estate investments than it is in other lines of business into which speculation enters, but it is seldom that luck plays so important a part as it did in two comparatively recent transactions. A plot of land, not on any well defined line of improvement, became about 20 years ago the property of three heirs, each of whom inherited an equal interest. After holding it intact and paying taxes for the period mentioned, two of the three owners concluded that the lots were of the kind that never gain much in value and that they could employ the capital the land represented to far better advantage. They consulted their co-heir as to the advisability of beginning partition proceedings, and he insisted that the wiser course would be to wait a few years longer on the chance of a demand for the property being developed with the constant northward growth of the city. His argument did not prevail, however, and rather than consent to a partition sale he agreed to purchase the interest of the dissatisfied owners. The property was appraised and a price agreed upon, which, at the cost of great inconvenience to the third owner was paid, and he became the sole proprietor of the apparently unpromising plot. Six months afterward he received an inquiry, the first in 20 years, as to the price the lots could be bought at. Here was a beginning, thought the courageous possessor of the land, and the inquirer was met with a refusal to name a price. Another representative of a possible buyer came along in due time and still another, and the upshot of it all was that he sold at about $100,000 the lots that had been appraised at $50,000 less than a year previously when the interest of the other owners was purchased. The lots have since gone into the hands of builders for improvement, and represent a much larger value to-day than that at which they were sold in one plot.

Had Buddensiek, New York's prince of jerry builders, desired only the perpetuation of his name he could not have accomplished it more surely than by the adoption of the mud-mortar method of building that caused the collapse of his row of tenements a number of years ago, and led to his imprisonment for a long term. Men of national reputation, who largely occupied the public eye in Buddensiek's time and had apparently made their names so popular that they would be remembered for ages, are now all but forgotten, while the builder's name is one that is almost as well known to-day as it was at the time of the collapse and his subsequent conviction. Since his release he has been lost to view, but his disrepute had been so well established that the houses built by him, usually in rows, have had to share his bad reputation, and to this day are publicly known as Buddensiek houses. We have in mind a row of pretentious brownstone flats in an East Side street uptown that has long been a mystery to the passerby owing to their being almost continuously three-fifths vacant while similar adjoining buildings have had nearly their full quota of tenants. The explanation that is given by everybody familiar with the neighborhood is "they are Buddensiek's." The interiors are faulty in every respect, the prevalence of sewer gas is one of many disagreeable features, and unless a tenant is disposed to disregard the chances favorable to ill-health and even death he rarely occupies an apartment longer than a month or until his family can be removed to less unhealthy quarters. Shortly after Buddensiek's conviction and sentence the man's fate was frequently referred to by persons who should have been better informed as having been due to public clamor. The present condition of the many buildings erected by him, or at least those that have not undergone complete renovation, is good evidence that the law got no more than its due through his conviction. Probably not less culpable if luckier were the members of the Deane crowd that flourished for several years previous to 1882, and during that period succeeded in spoiling many large plots of land in the Harlem and Yorkville districts. Their mortar was perhaps no less muddier, their brick and other material may have been just as poor, and the building inspectors under whose supervision they conducted their enterprises as venal as were Buddensiek's official acquaintances, but circumstances did not combine to bring their faulty methods before the public.

Messrs. Whann & Schlesinger, dealers in high-grade municipal investments, have taken fine offices on the second floor of the United Bank Building, No. 2 Wall street, this city.

Among Brooklyn's young and enterprising firms is that of Story & Hatfield, general roofing contractors. Starting in about five years ago, just prior to the great business decline, they have steadily forged ahead until at the present time they are certainly handling as much, if not more, business than any other Brooklyn concern in the same line. Messrs. Story & Hatfield conduct a general roofing business, with supply yards, at Nos. 22 and 24 Gwinnett street, where the trade can obtain everything in the way of roofing materials at the lowest prices. They make specialties of gravel and composition roofing, slate and corrugated iron-work, and, besides extensive operations in New York and Brooklyn, have executed many of the largest contracts throughout Long Island and New Jersey. Among numerous contracts upon which they are engaged at present are the new Wallabout Market buildings, where out of nearly one hundred separate contracts by separate individuals they have secured over 90 per cent. of the work. In reply to our inquiries they state that their business has steadily increased, that for the present year it will be more than double that of 1894 and that they have no occasion to complain. In view of the fact that this result has been achieved during a period of general depression, THE RECORD AND GUIDE extends its congratulations and wishes them continued success.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

NEW YORK CITY.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the Deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, DECEMBER 14, 1895.

Brooklyn Notes.

TO SIMPLIFY LAND TRANSFER.

A correspondent suggests that if Brooklyn real estate interests want to simplify the process of transferring title to realty, before accepting the Torrens system, they ought first to investigate the system in force in the Province of Quebec, which he says has the merit while giving satisfaction to the purchaser, of not involving the State in a guarantee. The suggestion is very timely and will doubtless receive attention when the matter of reforming the New York laws relating to transfer and sale of real estate are taken up. For the information of any one interested in knowing, it may be stated that the Quebec plan is based on the principle underlying the block system which has been adopted in New York for the purpose of taxation; only in Quebec it applies to every claim and obligation that can stand against real property, and is carried out not to the block but to the lot. For instance, if a man buys a lot in Montreal the lot number will be given to him, and on going to the Registrar and asking for information regarding that lot a register will be handed to him in which he will find the record. This costs twenty cents. If he is satisfied with the record, he and the seller go to a notary, who for ten or twelve dollars draws a deed, which if need be is also a mortgage, of which an attested copy is filed, and the transaction is completed. We understand that this system has been in operation in Quebec for twenty years and has given satisfaction. It may be as well to state, though it should hardly be necessary, because without it no such system could have stood, that the act under which the system was organized set a date within which claims against title and property could be filed, and when that passed title rested within the then registered holder.

WHY THE REALTY MARKET IS DEAD.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I notice in your issue of Nov. 23d, in reference to the realty market of Brooklyn, you state that not even in the dullest months of summer was the market duller than it is now and that the brokers have now to find a reason for the stagnation prevailing. Some attribute it to the coming holidays others to the fact that next year is a presidential election year, while others say it is on account of the late election. All the reasons mentioned by you are incorrect.

The cause is simply that Brooklyn has certain obnoxious laws which are detrimental to its interest, to-wit: First, Its unjust arrearage law; second, charging in these times a penalty on all unpaid taxes and assessments of 9 per cent. when 5 per cent. would be ample and sufficient. When these unjust laws are repealed or modified real estate in Brooklyn will revive. There are many operators and investors who would be willing to deal in Brooklyn real estate as well as in New York were it not for the existence of such laws.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25, 1895. MAX MOSES.

Questions and Answers.

UNDERPINNING.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following question in your next issue if possible? Two property owners having a dispute about their adjoining property. The property on street is higher than property on avenue. The party on street is ten feet below curb with his building. The party on avenue is also to go down ten feet below curb. This would make a difference of five feet between two curb levels. Who has to pay for the underpinning of house which has to be underpinned to build a house on avenue ten feet below curb?

Answer.—The person who is going to build on the avenue.—LAW EDITOR.

ADVERSE POSSESSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

An adjoining property owner in rebuilding has a survey made and from it claims 2½ inches of our ground. Does not undisputed possession of property since 1854 establish our title?

Answer.—Yes.—LAW EDITOR.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—There is a gradual hardening of tone in the general market, and prices are pulled up again a fraction since last writing. The demand direct from consumers seems to have fallen off somewhat, probably just enough to balance a diminution in arrivals, and the latter have in consequence sold reasonably close to receipt again. Many of the parcels, it is known, are to be piled away, either in front of jobs in such localities where that course is possible, or in specially provided storage room, and there is an impression that the quantity of brick held here in stock this winter will be greater than for many years As to the amount on barges there is as yet uncertainty. Some have already been put into slips, tied up and covered, and others will likely follow right along, but to what extent will depend greatly upon condition of market when stock arrives. In quoting prices we find no reliable authority admitting anything less than $5 or claiming more than $5.50, and, as a rule, even mentioning the latter rather doubtfully, as it hardly seems fully established. These figures are remarkably low for the season, but nevertheless there are still some grumblers who consider them a little full, possibly because they may have waited a little too long to lay in stock. No Pales are wanted, and quotations on them remain nominally as before. At the present writing the condition of the weather and reports from along the river indicate the possibility of a pretty general shut off of supplies at any moment.

DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS.—The local trade is slow and unimportant with no new features, and conditions appear very unsatisfactory at the big manufacturing centres in the interior. The Northwestern Lumberman says: Cold weather has put a damper on trade, for the time being, at least. With more favorable weather conditions demand may pick up again temporarily before the end of the month, but no great increase in activity is looked for until the middle of February. With heavy stocks on hand lower prices are a natural result of such conditions, and the semi-official announcement that discounts will be increased next week is therefore not surprising. Not only has it been found impossible to advance prices on glazed sash, in view of the prevailing high prices of glass, but this item is to share with others in the proposed cut. The reduction, it is said, will amount to between 8 and 10 per cent., and will be general throughout the northwest. The feeling that business is to be good next spring has not been weakened, however, though a very light trade is looked for during the winter.

Curtailment of output appears to be the one hope of placing the market in a position where advantage can be taken of the spring demand as soon as it shall develop. If the present heavy stocks can be worked off in the interim, there will be little trouble in restoring prices early next year, but to meet the opening trade with a heavy surplus in the warehouses would probably mean a low market all season. Realizing this fact preparations are being made at the stock factories to shut down either next week or the week following, for a period of from three to six weeks. Where any of the larger factories continue to run it will be on short time and short handed Many of the salesmen have been withdrawn from the road until after the holidays, and everything is being sifted down to a winter's basis.

GLASS.—In the local market the demand for window glass has been moderate, and confined mainly to small parcels wanted for immediate use. For a week or two there has been quite a little deal in ornamental and picture glass but this now appears about supplied. Prices on window glass remain about as steady as hitherto, and conditions of market are healthy. A trade journal reports a rumor current to the effect that the intention is soon to consolidate the two central selling agencies, one of which is located at Pittsburg, Pa., and the other at Muncie, Ind. The agencies have given so much satisfaction to the trade, that it is believed their efficiency can be greatly increased by combining them under one management. The following sensational item was wired from Anderson, Ind., during the week: "The announcement that the great Depauw Window Glass Company would put its plant into oneration the first of the year has put the Window Glass Trust on edge, and the shut down of all window glass plants in the country, which was to have taken place January 1, to continue for an indefinite period, has been declared off. The Depauw and the Alexandria and New Albany plants, which are not members of the trust, it is said, would be put in operation January 1, are large enough to force down the prices of the trust" Plate glass is very dull, with no improvement expected during balance of the year.

LATH.—There is no use talking the lath receivers are having a pretty tough time of it, and just now at a juncture when it is the most natural thing in the world to expect an advance the market takes a small slump and $1 75 has been accepted during the week. To be sure it was a sort of forced sale that made the price and some operators claim that while the stock was good enough it came outside the regular line of offering. The position is also now 5 cents better, but of course that is not entirely satisfactory and sellers seem fully justified in grumbling because the market is not much higher. Cargoes are still occasionally dropping in coastwise and keep the position fully supplied in face of rather indifferent demand.

LIME.—The market has been in an unsettled condition out of which buyers seem to have extracted most advantages. Not that buyers took any special pains to force matters, but mainly because the supply and the manner of its offerings was not in accord with the natural waiting outlet and sellers had to show favors to secure custom. The quotations given generally are 75@80c. for common and 85@90c. for finishing, with outside figures exceptional, and, indeed, so much so that some operators think they should not be named at all, and it is claimed that even the inside rates have been started through percentage allowances for quick settlements. Advices at hand from the East report manufacturers gradually shutting down and very few kilns now burning.

LUMBER.—Trading generally is getting into pretty narrow compass, and it is a difficult matter to draw out information of a particularly noteworthy character. Indeed, beyond the closing of two or three previously pending negotiations on stuff to come forward by rail during the winter, and the handling of coastwise offerings, there has been nothing doing except a routine car-lot trade, and both buyers and sellers appear content to let matters drift along slowly for the present. In general the position may be called steady. Seasonable influences of reduced offerings lead to that development, and there is a renewal of expressions of faith regarding fine lumber of both coarse and hardwood production, based upon evidences of scarcity in both first and second hands. The stuff bought to arrive here for winter stocks has pretty much all come to hand, and some of the large concerns have made a very respectable accumulation of standard lines of stock.

There is continued hopeful talk over the possibilities and probabilities for Yellow Pine. For both yard stock and special use there is more demand, and, while the call hardly reaches a competitive point, it seems to be sufficient to make sellers feel in a more independent mood and refrain from urging trade in the old reckless manner. Of course, such action has to be backed by manufacturers, and they are said to be more generally disposed to render the needed assistance. Something is doing all the while in f. o. b. export orders for shipment from the South.

White Pine box, etc., meets with very little direct demand, and could not be pressed for a market with any great success at the moment, as most lines of custom are pretty well supplied Cost remains about as for some time past, and there are no predictions of an early advance. Fine quality, meanwhile, is commented upon in comparatively strong and hopeful mood, and there is much confidence that the advances already made this season will be increased with the opening of the new year.

Hemlock, if cut suited to this market and in well seasoned condition, continues exceedingly scarce, and the very few concerns who can offer that kind of stock command full former rate without difficulty, and sell their supply about as soon as they are ready to negotiate. Joist are most popular, but there is a fair proportionate call for boards.

Carolina Pine gets fair attention, including demand from some lines of custom not ordinarily heard from until this time of the year. Other grades of stock have been bought and brought forward as usual in anticipation of the close of inland navigation, and now the Southern product is taken up with an idea of finally completing assortments. It costs about as before, as manufacturers are getting enough business to make them feel comparatively confident, and there is no abatement in transportation charges from the primal markets for delivery here or eastward.

Spruce is steady and tending toward greater firmness if anything, especially are standard grades of stock. The supply of Eastern to come forward is reported very limited, with chances for further production this season greatly curtailed and transportation charges advanced. There cannot be said to exist any specially anxious demand, but the chances are in favor of sale of any but very poor stuff without much difficulty.

Hardwood may fairly be written steady, as the traveling salesmen have gone home and the offering by local houses is moderate and careful. At the moment there is no great demand for bulk parcel of stock, but it is calculated that after the opening of the year the car lot trade will pick up materially in all the leading grades, such as oak, poplar, cypress, birch and maple. Advices from interior points indicate a strong general feeling among manufacturers, with comparatively small stocks of desirable quality to offer.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

CANADA.

Lumbering operations in New Brunswick are reviewed by the St. John Sun as follows:

Owing to the unusual lowness of the river during the summer months, some thirty million feet of last winter's cut on the Upper St. John and its tributaries were hung up, and until mid-November it seemed that the entire lot would be frozen in, only to be carried down river by next spring's run of ice. Exceptionally heavy rains, however, in November raised the river rapidly, and all the lumber, with the exception of about half a million feet, was successfully driven into the Fredericton booms, where it remains in safety, ready for early rafting next spring.

It is estimated that the booms now contain between fifteen and twenty million feet, with some three million feet more rafted since the rise of water. The failure to get this large quantity of logs down the river during the summer materially affected the cut of the St. John mills, which were, in consequence, compelled to shut down sawing some two months earlier than usual.

The improvement in the prices of lumber is having a stimulating effect, and from all directions come reports of preparations for lumbering on a more extensive scale during the coming winter. While American prices are now a dollar a thousand better by car load than during the summer, the great stimulus is the cheering news from the British market of higher prices and smaller stocks of spruce lumber.

Another factor in producing the better feeling that now prevails is the practical test to be made this winter of St. John's merits as a Canadian winter port by the Beaver and Donaldson lines of steamers from Liverpool and Glasgow respectively.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

The movement on the great lakes is practically at an end for the season. A few cargoes are afloat on Lake Michigan, and a few belated ones are working toward the foot of Lake Erie. By the close of another week the winter seas will be unvexed by bottoms carrying lumber. In the wholesale yards at the lake markets there are generally good stocks, much larger, in fact, than conditions and prospects seemed to warrant last August. Yet there is the usual amount of lumber at the mills, especially those on Lake Superior. The accumulated product, however, is largely coarse stuff. Yet we hear complaint from eastern markets that there is a lack of the better qualities of western pine, and that inquiry for good stock is still pronounced. This report comes especially from Albany and New York. A similar condition prevails in the western markets, leading to the inference that the supply of white pine better than flat common is scarce all over the country, and suggesting the query as to whether the per centage of high grade stock has not already fallen be-

THE act of Mr. Cleveland of last Tuesday and the joy with which it has been approved by so many has checked business in all lines and provoked a panic in Wall street, the end of which it is impossible to foresee. Prices cannot go on tumbling at the rate of five to ten points a day, with the market closed to many good securities because buyers have disappeared, for very long, but still such is the seriousness of the situation that, despite the decline, no one would advise buying with any confidence. Ordinarily when such a sharp break has been experienced, securities are a buy for a good rally, but this is not an ordinary occasion, and consequently the rule may not work. Without reference at all to the rights of the matter in dispute between this country and Great Britain, and looking at it purely from the commercial point of view and its influence on trade and on the quoted values of securities, it must be admitted that the outlook is a very gloomy one. With the Commission, which is to say whether we have a good cause for taking the position we have already taken, appointed, there will be an anxious wait of some months for its decision, during which no one will want to take any business risks for fear that the conditions may be worse at the end of the Commission's deliberations than before. It may be that the opinion that is growing among business men, that the matter has gone too far, and the influence they may be able to exert will do something to relieve the situation; but, so long as it remains what it is the results to business are too clearly indicated by the events of the past few days to need detailed description.

PRIOR to the President's message, which has electrified all Christendom, European markets were quiet in almost every direction as if they were waiting some change in the general conditions before deciding on the next movement. The outlook for spring was not a discouraging one, provided, of course, there was no infraction of the world's peace. A few days have seen a condition of great disturbance, particularly in financial circles, take the place of the calm. Recent advices bring some interesting items of news. One that will particularly interest the wheat growers of this country is that reports for fifty European governments of Russia show a wheat crop for 1895, though about equal to the average for 1883-92, 120,000,000 bushels, below either that of 1894 or that of 1893. The enormous Russian surplus has kept wheat prices down for two years, and, if now there is to be a falling off in the contributions of wheat from Russia to the Liverpool supplies, as there has been already a falling off in the contributions from Argentina, prices will have a chance to revive. There is also a falling off in the rye, oats and barley produced in Russia, and a deficiency of rye also in Austro-Hungary and Prussia. Statistics relating to the payment of succession duties in France of late years confirm the opinion expressed by many economists, that the expansion of private fortunes in that country has ceased from the diminution in the revenue and the increased taxation. The correction of the lower Danube is to be completed in six months. Hungary has decided to spend 54,000,000 florins on the central portion of the river and Austria 24,000,000 florins on that portion flowing through her provinces. For some time there has been an idea current that Great Britain's trade with her Australian colonies was being encroached upon by other nations. Statistics just published do not bear out that view. The ten years from 1883 to 1893 saw the imports from Great Britain fall from 50 per cent to 41 per cent of the whole, and exports to Great Britain from 49 to 46 per cent of the whole, but these differences were not accounted for by increased trade with rival nations, but by an enlarged exchange of commodities between the colonies themselves.

WHEN the thermometer was threatening to go to zero last week and the mind called up the vision of New York carpeted with half a foot of snow, it was pleasant to find that the Department of Street Cleaning was already preparing to cope with such an event. Hitherto it has been the official custom to await until the traffic was impeded and the city one huge home of discomfort before taking any steps whatever to remove the snow. Such steps as were taken were always inadequate, if indeed they amounted to more than fervent prayers offered up daily in the responsible department for a thaw and succeeding rain storm. The arrangements that have been made have more the character of business than of sentiment. They include the purchase of snow-plows and the organization of the street cleaning force to deal with the light snow falls, and in addition a contract to supplement the exertions of the regular force, which the public is given to understand will put five thousand men and twenty-five hundred carts at work in clearing the streets within three hours of a heavy fall. If these arrangements can be carried out they will make New York City as comfortable a place of winter residence as can be found in these latitudes. Of course, a doubt of this possibility arises to mitigate the beauty of the prospect. It is not, however, a question as to whether these provisions to meet what is always a serious emergency can be carried out in the ordinary course of things. It is whether the extraordinary provisions of law, relating to the pay for labor for street cleaning work, will not be invoked to prevent the execution of the contract previously mentioned. It is not probable that the contractor's bid was based on the rates the city pays for such work, but rather upon the rates in the open market. A doubt as to whether the law fixing the wages of employes in the Department of Street Cleaning does not apply to wages paid for work done by contract with that Department, has prevented bids being made for the disposal of garbage and may account for the fact that there was only one bid for the removal of the snow. Should labor agitators raise this question when the snow is on the ground and thereby prevent its removal, the citizens will be reminded in a very unpleasant but wholesome way, that there is on the statute-book a law that is contrary to all business principles and they may be incited by the inconvenience they will suffer to seriously seek its repeal.

NIAGARA FALLS, which have been the wonder of the world since their discovery by civilized man, are, we are told, in danger of contraction through the drawing off of the waters above them for commercial purposes. While the State of New York is anxious for its industrial development, it is not likely that it will care to sacrifice this majestic natural phenomenon to secure it, especially as it can be obtained without such a piece of generosity. Everyone has admired the enterprise which has put the waters of the Niagara River into harness for the benefit of industry, but it is doubtful if anyone supposed for a moment that this would contract the Falls themselves, and consequently lessen their majesty and beauty. But the State Commission which has the Niagara Park and Falls in its care sounds a note of warning which ought to be heeded. Its president, Mr. Andrew H. Green, in his annual report, just issued, says: "The great increase of projects to take water from the Niagara River that have already received legislative sanction, added to the enterprise to utilize the more distant waters of the lakes, which waters are essential to the Falls, has become the occasion of a general apprehension that the spectacle of the Falls is likely to be impaired." If this is so, and, coming from such an authority as the State Commission it may be accepted as fact, steps ought to be taken without delay to prevent it. Any injury to the Falls is to be condemned on practical as well as sentimental grounds. About half a million of people visit the Falls annually, and of that number seventy per cent. travel through the State of New York to do so. The failure of the Falls to attract would therefore cut off a very large sum of money annually paid to carriers, hotel keepers and others. Ten dollars a head would be a small sum at which to estimate the expenditure within the State of these three hundred and fifty thousand people on a visit to the Falls alone, and yet on that inadequate basis the direct loss to the trade of the State would be $3,500,000 a year. There is even a weightier consideration, and that is whether this State wants to earn the odium of allowing one of the wonders of the world to be destroyed for merely mercenary reasons.

FEELING against the erection of more high buildings in St. Louis has taken shape by the introduction of a bill into the City Council which proposes that no structure shall be erected within the corporate limits which shall be of a height exceeding two and one-half times the width of the widest street upon which the building is to stand. An exception is made in the case of church spires. This bill is also intended to compel all first-class buildings to be thoroughly fire-proof with, the use of wood limited to upper and under floors, window and door frames, sashes, doors, standing finish, hand-rails, necessary sleepers bedded in concrete and for isolated furring bedded in the plaster. Should these wholesome provisions become law, St. Louis will be the third great city in the United States to limit the height of its buildings, Boston and Chicago having already done so. In New York, while the high buildings are universally condemned on artistic and sanitary grounds and because of the awful risks involved in case of a serious fire, no direct steps have been taken to prevent their erection. The difficulties in the way of such a move are, probably, greater in New York than in the other cities of the Union. If a limitation based upon the width of the street should be proposed it would meet with very strong opposition from owners of down-town sites, because it would prevent the erection of the highest buildings in the very places where they have the best prospects of being successful. A limitation that would apply very properly to upper Broadway and not be an injustice on the owner of abutting property, would be an unfair discrimination against Nassau street for instance. To meet this objection a rule will have to be devised which will permit building to a height, if not exactly in inverse proportion to the narrowness of the street, at least which will allow such discrimination that the permission to invade the air shall not apply only to thoroughfares where it would be of doubtful value. A rigid limit of a certain number of feet as in Chicago and Boston, while, perhaps, the easiest way out of the difficulty and, probably, the solution that will be finally reached, is sure to create dissatisfaction because a, restriction that may be eminently right and proper as applied to a narrow street cannot have the same propriety of application to a wide one. This is one of the hard nuts that the revisers of the building laws may be called upon to crack, and their struggles with it will be watched with interest. The question they will find is a very difficult one to decide, because in New York City it really requires and ought to receive more scientific treatment than there was occasion for, or it received in any of the other cities that have dealt with it.

The Venezuelan Hubbub.

ONLY the "man in the street" takes the Venezuelan outburst lightly, or minimises its possible consequences. We wish we could safely prophesy that for a few days the world will wonder at this sudden adoption on our part of a sparring attitude; our splendid catch-penny newspapers will flare with warlike head lines; politicians will play their parts according as party interests are affected by Cleveland's coup d'etat; and then, the noisy business will subside, unless (and this is a great danger) some of the parties concerned in the pother lose, either their heads or their tempers, and commit a rash act that will precipitate the real conflict.

Cleveland's message, in tone and in substance, is only one step removed from a declaration of war, and the extraordinary point about the business is the suddenness with which we have been thrust into this really very serious and lamentable position. It is almost without precedent for two friendly nations to find themselves without any preliminary bad feeling at the point of exchanging shots.

The explanation, of course, is an obvious one. The jingo talk of our newspapers and of politicians has had upon the national mind an effect similar to that which the reading of highwaymen stories frequently has upon the juvenile mind. The "influence of literature" is registered on the raw intellect of the boy by his departure to the nearest pawn-shop for a cheap revolver. The President has been forced by popular noise to out-jingo the jingoes. Something had to be done for the coming campaign, and nothing on the cards offered quite the capital that a real vigorous twist of the lion's tail offered. In viewing the matter, one is forcibly reminded of Johnson's famous remark, which seems to become truer every day, that "patriotism is the last refuge of the scoundrel."

The public, the masses everywhere, are seldom in a mood for sober thought, for patience, for moderation, for justice and dignity, but are always ready to respond clamorously to the mere brute cry to "rally round the flag." It is this prize-fighter instinct that is the source of British bullying, of German military insolence, of French chauvinism. Alas that American jingoism has to be added to the list; that the one country of the world, whose traditions have been essentially traditions of peace and justice, should depart from the higher path. But this is the inevitable consequence of annexation schemes, of new navies, of big guns and of newspaper bombast, which glorifies war as a legitimate pursuit of civilization. Indeed, all manner of swagger is very "fetching" to the popular imagination everywhere. The pot-house brute with the chip on his shoulder or his coat trailing behind him will always be a hero of the crowd who will despise the man of peace who shuns force and relies for the success of his cause upon its justice, and the earnestness and nobility of his intentions.

The newspapers that are talking at present so glibly about war, as though it were a sort of larger international yacht race which the country could view comfortably at the cost of one dollar a head in excursion steamers, with the accompaniment of sandwiches and beer and unlimited "extreys," ought to publish as an antidote to their poisonous stuff a moderate statement of what war—the real, bloody, savage struggle—would actually mean. Viewed broadly, even a successful war would cause a sudden arrest of all the peaceful activities of the present generation. Whatever fruits our children might reap from the conflict, all the material successes which full grown men of the present day are struggling for would be lost to them. The better fortune in the hope of which farmers are sowing and reaping to-day, manufacturers calculating and building, mechanics and others toiling during laborous hours, would be snatched away irrevocably. All the bright promises which the future offers at this moment in this country above all others to men of thirty or forty years of age would be suspended for at least a decade, perhaps, nay probably, for longer. The prices of all agricultural products would go to pieces, factories would be shut down, the labor and machinery of the country dislocated. The extension of railroads, the erection of new factories and so forth would cease, and, of course, we should be cut off from the immense assistance which we now receive in the development of our resources from European capital. As to real estate, in which our readers are particularly interested, it would suffer intensely; for the value of real estate is in so great a degree the creation of the general prosperity of the land. New York realty wouldn't fetch fifty cents on the dollar long before the actual outbreak of nostilities. Of course, the Uniied States might come out of the struggle in good shape; but who wants to pay the fearful bills that would have to be met during the continuance of the conflict? And for what?

It is the duty of every reasonable person to raise his voice to remove the mere possibility of war. We are going through one of those newspaper crises which an ignorant, irresponsible press inflicts upon us from time to time. There is nothing in the present situation serious enough to warrant the extreme position into which the President has put this country. His message was evidently written for the newspapers. Sober reflection must yet show him that the country's desires and interests, so far as the Venezuelan boundary is concerned, could have been expressed and verbally protected in a softer tone than he adopted. Our proper interests on this continent and elsewhere must, of course, be safeguarded, but why declare war, as it were, beforehand? We now stand committed to an arbitrary position. Venezuela will, naturally, become, as the boys say, "cockey." The act of any lunatic is sufficient to set fire to the powder barrel Cleveland has opened. It is to be hoped that the English won't meet us with our own spirit. A few insolent remarks from them, and the fat would be in the fire. Yesterday's events on the stock market indicate what is in store for us unless the war scare be quickly abated. Under any circumstances the country has a big bill to pay, and has commenced to pay it.

The New East River Bridge.

The New East River Bridge Commission has decided upon two important things: The first, the location of the bridge which it is empowered to build; and the second, to purchase for the sum of $200,000 certain parts of what is known as the Uhlman franchise, or the franchise that was obtained from the legislature of 1894, to give the Brooklyn elevated roads control of a bridge across the East River and which is owned by the East River Bridge Company. Mr. Jefferson M. Levy, as an owner of property, in both New York and Brooklyn, opposed this purchase before the Commission. Mr. Stephen M. Hoye of Brooklyn, was also heard in opposition to the proposed purchase, and subsequently threatened to invoke the aid of the courts to prevent its consummation. The resolutions passed by the Commission were as follows:

Resolved, That the line of the bridge to be constructed by the Commission leave from a point between South Fifth and South Sixth streets, in the city of Brooklyn, to a point near the foot of Delancey street, in the city of New York.

Resolved, That the New York terminus and approach be located North of Grand street.

Resolved, That provisions be made in the construction of said bridge for two tracks for the exclusive use of elevated roads, with suitable terminal facilities in New York city.

Resolved, That the substance of the offer of the East River Bridge Company, dated Nov. 18, 1895, to sell its franchise and so forth for a sum of $200,000, be accepted subject to the approval, as to all matter of form and detail, of the counsel of this Commission, in a written agreement prepared pursuant to this resolution and subject to the express consent of the Mayors and Comptrollers of the respective cities of New York and Brooklyn.

Two conditions accompany the offer to sell on the part of the East River Bridge Company which deserves consideration. The second of these seems to give the owners of the franchise all they ever wanted without going to the expense of building a bridge. These conditions are:

Should the Commissioners fail to obtain the consent of the Federal authorities within six months from the date of said agreement, the said agreement shall, at the option of either party, become and be null and void.

This offer is made with the express understanding that the bridge to b constructed by the Commissioners shall, among other features, contain the following: Space for two separate and independent railroad tracks, for the use exclusively of the elevated railroads, with gradients to be determined by the Commissioners, to be practicable and consistent with the motive power used by such railroads; suitable and ample terminal facilities are to be constructed, which need not, however, extend beyond the approaches for the bridge to be constructed by the Commissioners.

Mr. Richard Deeves, one of the members of the Commission and of the Committee which recommended the purchase of the East River Bridge Company's franchise, said on being questioned, that the purchase did not bind the commission to build railroads or to give extraordinary privileges to any particular line. As a matter of course, lines across the bridge would be constructed to let the elevated railroads cross, and other lines to accommodate the trolley cars. The purchase of the franchise was justified because it would enable work to be begun so much quicker and also enabled the Commission to secure the best practicable site. Other sites than the one chosen would involve interference with the valuable sugar plants on the Brooklyn side, which would cost much time and money to condemn. The Committee were informed, for instance, that the American Sugar Refining Company valued its plant at $10,000,000, and while that was no doubt an extreme figure, a weighter argument was adduced to make the Commission unwilling to take that property; that was that a disturbance of the plant would compel the company to change the scene of its operations to Philadelphia. The most the East River Bridge Company could make out of the sale of the franchise was $50,000; they had satisfied the Committee that they had spent at least $150,000 in organization, legal expenses and the acquisition of a small amount of property. The benefits resulting from the prompt acquisition of a suitable site and the avoidance of the obstruction that would certainly follow the refusal to treat with the company, far outweighed the comparatively small sum to be paid for the franchise.

West Side Wants.

Messrs. Cyrus Clark and James Van Dyck Card waited upon the Park Board at its last meeting, to request on behalf of the West Side Association the assistance of the Board in getting legislative action to secure the removal of the elevated railroad piers at 72d street, the better lighting of the Riverside Drive, a tunnel for trucks to pass under the Riverside Drive at 79th street, a pedestrian entrance to the Central Park between 64th and 72d streets, and the enclosure of Manhattan square. The Park Board took the request under advisement.

Consolidation.

The bill which the Municipal Consolidation Commission will submit to the next Legislature will be almost precisely similar to the one submitted by it last winter. This bill is comparatively brief. Section 1 effects consolidation; section 2 keeps the local administration and governments of all the territories included in the consolidation the same as now until changed by specific law; section 3 appoints the Commission, with the Mayors of the cities of New York and Brooklyn added, a Commission to draft a charter for the consolidated city and bills for attaining equal and uniform taxation and of valuation for the purpose of taxation; section 4 provides $25,000 for the purposes of carrying out the act, raised proportionately on the assessed valuations of the cities of New York and Brooklyn; section 5 preserves the county rights, privileges and liues, and section 6, and last, gives effect to the act immediately on its passage.

There has been some newspaper talk of an intention on the part of a certain political machine to prepare and pass a measure of consolidation that will best serve the well-known ends of a party machine; that is, increase its patronage. The general scope of this measure are said to be the establishment by law of a great metropolitan district to comprise the territory known as the Greater New York, and this district to be governed chiefly by commissions. The corporate existence of the cities and villages in the territory would not be interfered with. There would be a Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of New York, and the corporate name of the city of Brooklyn would be retained. This would be necessary until another corporate body could be established to take their place permanently. But for the metropolitan district referred to there could be established a government by Commissioners to run the Police, the Fire, the Parks, the Public Works, the Health, School and other Departments.

The answer made to this by eminent lawyers who have made a scientific study of consolidation as effected in other places, both at home and abroad, and of the requirements of greater New York under consolidation, is that the task of preparing a suitable measure is one too great to be undertaken by professional politicians. The delicate and sensitive nature of the manifold interests involved makes it dangerous for them to meddle with them. But the idea that the professional politician will be restrained by any such fine considerations ought not to be relied upon. His natural temerity is too well known. It will be much better to watch legislation closely to prevent the passage of any bill that would encourage jobbery and create confusions from which the city would find it difficult hereafter to extricate itself.

One well-known authority on consolidation is quoted as saying in reference to the intentions of the machine: "Fortunately they cannot do anything quickly. After a bill to empower the consolidation is passed, they may pass other bills to extend at once over all the territory some of the departments which are somewhat similar in all the cities and towns, and which do not have separate corporate existence. Such departments as those of education, which can sue and be sued, cannot be consolidated till the hundreds of petty pending suits are settled; such departments as those controlling taxes, which are so complicated and different in detail and in principle, cannot be united quickly because of the mere clerical labor necessary to their identification. But the Police Department, Street Cleaning Department and the Fire Department can be reorganized and extended from here to all the territory, and the further work could be put in such hands and given such a direction that the politicians would have to the end the moulding of the new and reorganized municipality."

Rapid Transit.

The Commission which is to pass upon the routes and plans for an underground railroad laid down and designed by the Rapid Transit Commission began its sittings, as previously announced, on Wednesday last. This Commission consists of Messrs. Frederic R. Coudert, George Sherman and W. H. Gelshener.

It developed as soon as the Commission opened its proceedings that the routes were to be attacked from every side, beginning with the competency of the engineer, W. B. Parsons, to lay them out and to estimate the cost of the work. The question of legality is also to be raised, although Mr. Coudert expressed the opinion that the Court had reserved such questions for its own decision. The Rapid Transit Commission is represented by Edward M. Shepard and Alfred B. Boardman, President Orr, Secretary Delafield and Engineer Parsons being also in attendance. On the other side are several well-known lawyers representing property owners on Broadway from the Battery to 40th street, including Messrs. George G. Dewitt, George Zabriskie (who represents the organized Broadway property owners' opposition referred to in these columns on several recent occasions) and Ezra A. Tuttle and James Bushby, in the interest of Park avenue property owners.

The testimony of Messes. Orr, Delafield and Parsons was taken to show how the plans and estimates were prepared, and the last witness was subjected to a severe cross-examination as to his professional experience. This testimony referring so closely to recent action of the Commission, recorded from time to time as it occurred, does not require repetition now. The important fact for the moment being the vigor with which the opposition has begun operations in attacking the competency of the Rapid Transit Commission and its selected assistants. Yesterday afternoon the cross-examination of Mr. Parsons was still going on.

While the point above referred to is being urged on the Commission of Reference as it may be called, for the sake of distinction, a new attack has been made on the constitutionality of the Rapid Transit Act itself. This is a suit brought in the Supreme Court by Franklin Bartlett as trustee under the will of Henry Mason, deceased, and Mason Carnes against the city to restrain it from making any more payments to the Rapid Transit Commission or its employees. The grounds of the suit are the alleged unconstitutionality of the Rapid Transit Law, and it is brought under chapter 301, Laws of 1892, entitled "An Act for the Protection of Taxpayers," in order to prevent waste and injury to the property of the municipality. The summons was made returnable before Judge Beekman, but when the matter came before him on Wednesday last he declined to hear it on the ground that he had drafted the act whose constitutionality is impugned. The case was then adjourned until Monday. It will be remembered that the question of constitutionality was first raised on the appointment of the Commission of Reference, but was reserved until that Commission should have made its report.

Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards.

Messrs. Albert E. Davis and John De Hart waited on the Board of Estimate and Apportionment as a committee from the North Side Board of Trade, to urge that a fire-boat be provided for the protection of the Harlem River fronts. It was shown that the lumber interests there alone amounted to $2,000,000, and that there were besides large stores of building materials and a number of important manufacturing plants which were all inadequately protected against possible destruction by fire. The Board admitted the justice of the request but suggested that resort should be had to the Legislature for power to issue bonds to provide the necessary protection. This will be done.

The Taxpayers' Alliance, which is composed of about twenty property owners' associations of the North Side, met on Monday evening in Protection Hall, 152d street and Courtlandt avenue, with about 200 delegates present and listened to a number of interesting addresses bearing on property interests across the river.

The Department of Buildings Appropriation.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment granted the Department of Buildings $269,700 for its maintenance during the coming year. This was $60,300 less than was asked for by Superintendent Constable, but $65,000 more than was allowed for this year.

Defective Title.

The Supreme Court, Special Term, has dismissed the action of John H. Heller, Jr., and Wm. S. Heller, executors of John H. Heller v. William Cohen, to compel defendant to accept title to No. 245 Grand street, and which defendant refused to accept for defect in title. Contract was made in February, 1893, for the sale of the property at $100,000, $5,000 being paid on account. The lot is described as beginning on the south side of Grand street, at a point distant 75 feet 11½ inches westerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the southerly side of Grand street with the westerly side of Chrystie street; running thence southerly 125 feet 1 inch; thence westerly parallel, or nearly so, with Grand street, 25 feet 1 inch; thence northerly 125 feet 3 inches to the said southerly side of Grand street; thence easterly, along said southerly side of Grand street, 25 feet to the point or place of beginning. One of the principal objections of the defendant was that all the deeds from 1810 to 1867 described the lot as commencing 75 feet from the northwest corner of Grand and 1st (now Chrystie) streets instead of beginning at the southwest corner of those streets. It was contended on the other hand that the original deeds were corrected in 1867 by the referee who sold the premises in a partition action, by the substitution of the word "southwest" for the word "northwest," but this was not done by order of court. Another serious objection was that if defendant was compelled to take a deed of the land embraced in the contract it would include nearly a foot of land on the western boundary for which no title was shown. Adverse possession was not sufficiently proved. The Court was of opinion that the title to the land was so defective that it would be very doubtful whether the trustees of any savings bank or insurance company acting with reasonable prudence and caution would take a mortgage thereon as security for the loan of money and that, therefore, the title did not come within the definition of a marketable title. Great injustice might be done to defendant if he were compelled to take title, and the case was dismissed with order for the return of the deposit of $5,000 with interest.

Settlement of the Steamfitters' Strike.

The striking steamfitters have returned to work under, it is said, an agreement, the terms of which neither party will divulge. The principal of these terms, it is easy to surmise, is the surrender by the men of all their important claims, because it would be impossible for the employers to accede to them and carry on their business. However, the settlement is a happy settlement for all parties concerned, because while the contest lasted the men lost money, business was interrupted, and there was always a danger of others being drawn into the dispute.

Trade Notes

A SATISFACTORY RECORD.

John Haas, No. 1048 Flushing avenue, Brooklyn, manufacturer of galvanized iron cornices, skylights and awnings, and tin and slate roofing, whose advertisement appears on another page, reports that he has had a very good year. Some of the buildings for which he has furnished his specialties are: Four four-story brick buildings on 26th street and 4th avenue, two four-story brownstone flats on Jefferson and Bremen streets, and four three-story brick flats on Halsey street and Ralph avenue.

A FAMOUS PIANO MAKER.

An important part of the indispensable furnishings of a home in civilized communities is a piano. New York is the great world-centre of the piano industry. One of the oldest and most renowned of the manufacturers is R. M. Walters, manufacturer of the celebrated Walters' piano. This piano has for years been in use in the public schools of this city and in many other public institutions throughout the country. Mr. Walters' warerooms are at 27 Union square West, where there is a large assortment of cabinet, upright pianos of rosewood, mahogany, French walnut and maple, for rent or sale on easy terms.

Real Estate Market.

With some material assistance from belated reports of transactions that should have figured in the business of the earlier part of the month, the last week but one of the expiring year is enabled to make a passably good showing. The reports appended of sales by private contract will involve an aggregate investment of about $2,400,000. Business property and unimproved lots share the honors of the week, while an improved demand has been experienced for residences. Real estate has not yet been affected by the aggressive position assumed by President Cleveland in his latest message on the Venezuelan boundary question nor the nonsensical warlike talk and newspaper articles that the message has induced. Later on, should no amicable settlement of the question be arrived at, realty will suffer from a tighter money market. In the meantime, a ready-made excuse is at hand for failure to sell important properties that have been under negotiation and the war talk, if continued, will have to do great service as a scapegoat.

Foreclosure sales have been this week as usual, the feature of the auction business, and until William Kennelly's sale yesterday of tenement property on 10th avenue, 52d and 53d streets, the parcels offered merited and received hardly any attention. Two sales by order of executors, one at No. 111 Broadway, and the other at the Real Estate Exchange, were the only offerings of a voluntary character presented. On Monday a sale first advertised for that day of the northwest corner of 9th avenue and 44th street, had been readvertised for the 31st inst, and therefore did not take place. On Wednesday there were two withdrawals, one of No. 211 East 14th street under foreclosure, and the other of Nos. 148 and 150 West 53d street, an adjourned voluntary offering that had to yield precedence to a foreclosure sale of the same property announced for the 30th inst. On Thursday a sale of Nos. 203 and 205 East 102d street was adjourned sine die by Philip A. Smyth.

S. D. Walltearss & Co. make the important announcement that they will sell at auction, in the Real Estate Exchange, No. 59 Liberty street, on Wednesday, the 15th of January next, several business parcels belonging to the estate of the late Louis C. Hamersley. These consist of No. 536 Broadway, No. 736 Broadway and Nos. 170-172 Crosby street. To people acquainted with New York realty it is hardly necessary to point out that these are very desirable properties located in the business section of the city, and that when S. D. Walltearss mounts the stand to dispose of them he will have a substantial gathering of buyers in front of him. The terms of sale permit 70 per cent of the purchase price remaining on mortgage. Those who desire full particulars should apply to the auctioneers at No. 171 Broadway for them.

BROOKLYN ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Wm. Cole will sell at auction on Monday next, the 23d inst., at the City Salesrooms, Nos. 7 and 8 Court square, the four-story frame dwelling and lot, 25x100, No. 111 North 6th street. This property will be offered by order of the Supreme Court in partition.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

J. Romaine Brown & Co. have sold for Dr. Marvin D. Hubbell his four-story stone front residence, with lot 25x98.9, No. 108 East 36th street, for $55,000.

J. N. Kalley & Son have sold for the Tuttle & Bailey Manufacturing Co. the five-story business building, with lot about 31x110, No. 83 Beekman street, to a Mr. Ogden, for about $100,000.

N. Brigham Hall has sold for the estate of John G. Hicks, to W. S. Patten, the four-story brick dwelling, with lot 27x105, No. 103 Waverley place, near Washington square.

L. J. Phillips & Co. have sold for Dock Commissioner Edwin Einstein the six-story iron front hall, business structure, etc., about 81.6x84.4x66x74.9, on the northeast corner of 2d avenue and 1st street, to Herman Wronkow. This is the building that was the subject of a recent controversy owing to one of the floors being leased to the city for use as a court-room. It has been occupied as such for many years, and Mr. Einstein on accepting a commissionership under Mayor Strong was not aware that it was contrary to law for a city official to make or derive financial benefit from a lease of that character. He has found a way out of the dilemma by selling the property.

William J. Merritt has purchased from the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Mary the Virgin the old edifice and rectory, with plot 75x100.5, Nos. 226 to 230 West 45th street, for $75,000. The buyer will improve the property. Builder William J. Merritt states that he is not the purchaser, his first knowledge of the sale being obtained from a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE yesterday. The trustees of the church have, however, secured permission from Judge Andrews to make the sale to a Mr. Merritt, as stated.

Louis M. Jones has traded with James Clinch Smith, one of the Stewart heirs, the seven-story business building, with plot 60x76.8x87.6x20x27.6x56.8, on the southwest corner of 4th and Greene streets, valued at about $250,000 and subject to mortgage, for the plot, 50x100 with old buildings, Nos. 112 and 114 Bleecker street. Mr. Jones will also take title from Mrs. Devereux Emmet to the adjoining parcel, 24x100, No. 116 Bleecker street, and it is his intention to improve the entire property in the spring. The trade referred to was agreed upon two weeks ago, at which time rumors were rife regarding it, but it was impossible until a day or two ago to obtain any confirmation of them.

L. Napoleon Levy has sold the two four-story brick tenements, Nos. 331 and 333 East 39th street, with plot 50x98.9, for about $29,000.

Geo. R. Read has sold for Mrs. Charlotte M. Goodridge, the old five-story buildings, with plot about 46x80.2x45.11x80.9, Nos. 151 and 153 Fulton street, east of Broadway. The property adjoins on the west a parcel owned by the Park National Bank, and in the rear the Broadway and Ann street properties, owned by the same corporation, and that fact has led to the circulation of a false rumor that the bank is the buyer. How the alleged purchaser would be able to utilize the property without securing the Knox building on the Broadway corner the rumor mongers fail to explain.

Newbury H. Frost is announced as the buyer of the southeast corner of 5th avenue and 31st street, two buildings and lots with an adjacent parcel on the street, recently sold through Mr. Read for Martin & Bro.

Maclay & Davies have sold for William F. Havemeyer the plot about 85x100x63.8x77, with old buildings, Nos. 43 to 49 Bleecker street, to Builder Harry Chaffee for improvement.

George Bliss has sold the five-story brick factory, with lot 25x100.5, No. 510 West 53d street, which was bought by him for $13,800 at a foreclosure sale in June, 1894.

William G. Vander Roest has sold through S. B. Goodale & Son the three-story dwelling, with lot 22.6x98.9, No. 342 East 30th street, to Mrs. Alfred Wagstaff for $15,000. The seller paid an additional $500 for the house in July, 1883.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

S. De Walltearss & Co. have sold for William Hayes the lot 24.11x110, on the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 135th street, to Pauline Aaron, and for James W. Bell, to the same buyer, the plot, 150x110, adjoining on the avenue. The purchases have been made for immediate improvement by the erection of flats.

Alexander Wilson has sold for George F. Johnson a lot, 25x100.11, on the south side of 99th street, 175 feet west of Central Park West, to Builder James McWalters, for improvement, and for Herbert McL. Johnston, the similar lot adjoining on the west, to the same purchaser, also for improvement.

A. L. Mordecai & Son have sold for the estate of William H. Lee a plot, 200x100.11, on the north side of 118th street, 125 feet west of Lenox avenue, at $66,500, to Edwin B. Stanton.

John P. Stoecker has sold for the same estate the plot, 100x225, on the southeast corner of 7th avenue and 131st street, for $104,000, to Leopold Kahn, who will improve the property.

Francis M. Jencks has bought of the estate of George N. Lawrence, through H. H. Cammann & Co., the plot, 112x135.7x100.5x189.1, on the southwest corner of the Boulevard and 67th street, for about $140,000. The late Mr. Lawrence purchased the property, together with a street lot adjoining, in December, 1865, for $30,000.

The same brokers have sold for Frederick Schuck to C. M. Higgins the three-story brick dwelling, with triangular-shaped lot 9.9x64x23.6x65.4, on the north side of 153th street, extending from St. Nicholas place to St. Nicholas avenue, and for the same owner and builder the adjoining three-story brick house, No. 15 St. Nicholas place, with lot 69.10x16.4, to J. H. Kennedy.

George Herold has sold for Builder William Ueckermann the two new five-story brick flats, Nos. 4 and 6 East 112th street, to Mrs. Kate Knoblock, for $46,000.

L. J. Phillips & Co. have sold for George C. Edgar's Sons & Co. the new five-story American basement dwelling, 23x60x100.5, No. 23 West 69th street, to Wm. Moore for something over $50,000.

The flat reported sold last week by Mr. Simon for William C. Oesting to J. Walsh was erroneously described by him as No 2202 8th avenue. The report should have read No. 2102 8th avenue, between 113th and 114th streets.

President William H. Gelshenen, of the Garfield National Bank, has bought of Terence Farley's Sons the plot, 100.5x125, on the northwest corner of Central Park West and 70th street. The contract price, it is understood, is close to $160,000.

John S. Huyler has bought of Mrs. Rosa W. Strauss the four-story stone front dwelling, 25x65x102.2, No. 8 West 72d street, at a price exceeding $80,000. The seller acquired the house in March, 1889, for a consideration of $75,000.

The Reading Reorganization.

In another part of THE RECORD AND GUIDE will be found the plan of reorganization of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company presented to the security-holders in this city by J. P. Morgan & Co. A perusal of the plan will show that an earnest endeavor has been made to put the property on a good basis by providing for floating obligations and working capital through assessments on the income bonds and stock. Payment of the assessments has also been spread over a considerable period to make them press with as little severity upon the security-holders as possible. It is unnecessary to go into the details of the plan, because they are set out with remarkable clearness in the official notice to which we have previously referred. But it may as well be pointed out that, with the acceptance of the plan, the new company will start out with fixed obligations at once reduced by about $500,000 per annum, to be effected further through the refunding or extension of various bonds shortly to mature; it will have no floating debt and be relieved from car trusts which have absorbed $4,500,000 of net earnings in the past five years, and which, unless otherwise provided for, will absorb $7,500,000 more in the next five years. A syndicate underwrites the plan and guarantees cash requirements of $28,000,000 and the extension or payment of some $20,000,000 Improvement Mortgage bonds and Coal and Iron Company bonds.

Security-holders are also told that: "Unless the acceptance of the plan shall be so general as in the opinion of the Managers to obviate the necessity of foreclosure, the properties of the existing Reading companies will be sold and successor companies will be organized under the Laws of Pennsylvania; and the stocks and securities of these successor companies will be vested in a new company, formed or to be formed under the Laws of Pennsylvania or of some other State." Securities may now be deposited with Messrs. J. P. Morgan, this city; Drexel & Co., Philadelphia, or Messrs. J. S. Morgan & Co., London, who will furnish any other information as to the details of the plan. Securities not so deposited will not be entitled to participate in the benefits of the reorganization.

A "New York Real Estate Board."

Another movement is on foot for the formation of a Real Estate Board, the purpose of which, as announced, is to promote the interest of brokers, agents and the public by raising the tone of the profession, and by taking "effective measures in dealing with agents and brokers who are dishonorable in their dealings with their clients or their brother brokers and agents." Other steps, it is said, are to be adopted to increase the business of members of the new board. The preliminary programme of the promoters of the proposed organization has been outlined in a circular letter signed by Louis R. Berg, which has been issued this week.

Obituary.

CHARLES B. ATWOOD.

News was received from Chicago yesterday of the death of Mr. Charles B. Atwood, who was for many years a prominent figure among the practicing architects in this city. Among his important works are the David Dows, W. H. Vanderbilt, H. McK. Twombley and Dr. Seward Webb residences, and the Columbia Museum at Chicago, the latter having been the Art Palace of the World's Fair. Mr. Atwood's efforts are spread all over the country. For some time after the Fair he was in partnership with D. H. Burnham, but withdrew a short time ago because of ill health.

Mr. Bagge will remain abroad about seven or eight weeks, visiting points of interest, and will return in time to take care of an increased business in the early spring.

Questions and Answers.

Correspondents who do not find answers to their communications in this paper must please refer to future issues.

BROKER'S COMMISSIONS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Your reply to the following question in your next issue will much oblige a subscriber: If a contract is drawn by my lawyer for the sale of a house and lot and worded in the usual way and when handed to the buyer for signature, he (the buyer) adds in writing that "the agreement does not hold good except a certain title company insures the title," and supposing I decline to agree to this while I am willing to give a good marketable title, is the broker in the transaction legally entitled to a commission, no sale being consummated?

Answer.—No. The broker did not bring you a customer "able, ready and willing" to make the purchase.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Being a subscriber to your valuable paper for many years I take the liberty to submit to you the following questions: A, B and C are executors of an estate. C gives to a broker a certain property belonging to the estate at a specified price and terms. The broker introduced C to a purchaser. They agree on terms and price. After a few days C tells the broker that the other executors will not consent to the sale as they have been offered a higher price. Has the broker any cause of action against the executors of the estate or against C individually, or against either?

Answer.—If C informed the broker that he was acting in his representative capacity, or the broker was aware of it, the broker, under the circumstances, has no cause of action.—LAW EDITOR.

JOINT TENANTS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

When two parties own a piece of land as joint tenants is it required in selling to insert the clause, tenants by the entirety, and not as tenants in common?

Answer.—No.—LAW EDITOR.

LANDLORD AND JANITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly let us have your opinion on the following: An agent hires a janitor, and in consideration of services agrees to allow him apartments rent free. It is understood that thirty days' notice was necessary to terminate the contract. The janitor notifies the agent, but through sickness fails to vacate. (1) What remedy has the agent? (2) Can he invoke the aid of a police magistrate? (3) Can the janitor's effects be dispossessed without a warrant?

ANSWER.—(1) Get a precept to dispossess the janitor for holding over after the expiration of his term without the permission of the landlord. (2) Not unless the police magistrate has jurisdiction to issue such a precept. (3) No.—LAW EDITOR.

DUTIES OF NOTARY PUBLIC.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please answer the following question: Is there any publication giving instruction as to the duties of Notary Public in New Jersey, and what does it cost? Also is there a publication for a Commissioner of Deeds for New Jersey, and the price? Any enlightenment you can give me on these subjects will be much obliged.

Answer—Inquire of a law bookseller; Banks & Bro., of Nassau street, or L. K. Strouse & Co., or any others.—LAW EDITOR.

CONVEYANCES.

Wherever the letters Q. C., C. a. G. and B. & S. occur, preceded by the name of the grantee, they mean as follows:

1st—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed in which all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants or warranty.

2d—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no express covenants, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the Insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the Deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, DECEMBER 21, 1895.

Brooklyn Notes.

THE ASSESSOR'S REPORT.

President Harkness has presented his report to Mayor Shieren. The assessed valuations of the several wards were given in our issue of August 3 last. Regarding the building record he says: "A still further decline in the number and valuation of the new buildings erected and assessed during the year covered by our records, from the notable decrease returned in the annual report of this department for the year 1894, must again be recorded. The total assessed valuation of the new buildings erected and assessed during the year ending June 1, 1895, is but $7,808,920, which is the lowest in new valuations, from this source, since the year 1883. This sum includes $839,000, which is due to the valuation of structures erected in the new wards during the year, and also $1,372,300, which latter is contributed by the enhanced assessments for improvements to existing structures and the completion of new buildings which were assessed as unfinished in the previous year. The total decrease for the year is 28 per cent."

CONSOLIDATION OF THE TAX DEPARTMENTS.

The proposal of Mayor-elect Wurster to consolidate the tax departments is not acceptable to the incumbent of the office of Registrar of Arrears, who makes this very forcibly known in his annual report to the Mayor. He says: "To save $5,000, I am satisfied that a million at least would be imperilled. At this time probably much more, by reason of the critical condition of certain large matters of which the Litchfield litigation is one, and the incoming of the county towns with their heterogeneous and irregular records is another." Certainly no one wants to save the paltry sum of $5,000 at such a cost, but if it can be demonstrated that the present clumsy and burdensome tax laws and regulations relating to Brooklyn can be improved by the consolidation of the departments charged with their execution without such a sacrifice, every property owner in the city will approve it. Generally the payment of money is one of the easiest of tasks if set about wiilingly, but here to any one owning property in several wards it may be a matter of some difficulty, although the responsibilities of the debtor are not lessened on that account. Mr. Hinrichs himself has drawn attention to some things about the collection of arrears which embarrass the several tax departments. This and a recent letter in these columns on the causes for the depression in Brooklyn realty, besides the complaints that continually arise about the clumsy and arbitrary processes affecting tax collections show that the whole matter is one requiring immediate and competent attention.

THE M'NEELY SALE.

The results of the auction sale of the estate of Anthony McNeely on Monday, which will be found in our auction record, have been gratifying to all parties concerned. The 143 parcels offered brought $192,565. There was a full attendance during the five hours the sale lasted, and the bidding in many instances was quite spirited. Mr. James L. Brumley, the auctioneer, was congratulated on the success of the sale at its conclusion. It is natural that comparisons should be made with the conduct of another recent important auction sale, where the outcome was not nearly as good as in this case. The notoriety given to the coming event was not in one case what it was in the other, and the differing results show how it pays to make full and judicious announcements.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

CONGRESS has again displayed its ignorance in the measures it has proposed for the relief of the financial situation. Neither the revenue bill nor the bond bill finds approval in financial or trading circles. The first will disturb trade even if it does produce more revenue, and the second is only another way of perpetuating the evils which threaten the Treasury with bankruptcy from time to time. They are only two more examples of what the cowboy can do with difficult and delicate subjects. It is said that if these measures reach the President they will be vetoed. Wall street is, therefore, looking for another issue of bonds to make good the Treasury gold reserve. For that reason the stock market is strong, and ought under the stimulus of such an issue go back to the prices that existed before the war scare. It is too much to expect that a rise similar to that that followed the issue of March last will take place now, because whatever the Treasury does is a make-shift because of the laws that tie its hands, and, while the business community will be glad of the temporary relief occasioned, it will not forget that it is temporary, or that so long as Congress is so obstinate in its refusal to apply the proper remedy, it is only a matter of time when the Treasury will be as badly off again as ever.

THE interruption to business occasioned by President Cleveland's message on Venezuela and the consequent disturbance in financial circles is not confined to this country. It is having, also, a marked effect almost everywhere else. This is particularly the case in Great Britain, which takes so large a part in both our import and export trade. We have as yet only got a small part of the story. Engagements that could be avoided have been promptly cancelled, and will only be renewed, if they ever are, when all possible danger of a rupture between the two governments is absolutely removed. In Germany, too, where by reason of the extensive relations with this country much trade originates, the same doubt and hesitation exists. The same is the case, though in lesser degree, in all other countries with which we do business. Anything better depends upon a change in the political situation, which will take time. One, and only one, fortunate feature of the situation is that trade and speculation were not extended when this unfortunate check arose; had they been there would have been a disastrous collapse. Somehow a continuous chain of threatening events has kept the entire business world in a conservative frame of mind since the panic of 1893, and, although flurries and depressions on the bourses have been only too frequent, in the channels of legitimate trade there has been much caution. It is somewhat bitter to think that signs of returning confidence were making themselves apparent in many practical ways when this trouble came to throw everything back, and to recall the timidity and suspicion which have been the more prominent characteristics of capital too long for our good. However, there is nothing to do but to wait for good sense to undo the mischief that has been done with what patience is possible. It is appropriate to immediate considerations to point out that British imports in November increased by about $18,750,000 over those of November, 1894. Imports of wheat increased 31.5 per cent with a rise in value of 50 per cent. Of the increase nearly a third was taken from this country. The imports of corn were double what they were in the same month last year, but one-third of the total importations came from Argentina. The United States sent more bacon, hams and fresh beef. The differences that have arisen between this country and Great Britain cannot fail to stimulate the production of food products among our rivals in this trade with Great Britain, as well as to suggest a remedy for the agricultural depression in that country itself.

IN making their attack upon the Atchison reorganization plan counsel for the Atlantic and Pacific bondholders have struck at the very root of all such efforts to lift insolvent companies out of the mire. The claim set up in the pleadings is that a company cannot reserve any equity for its stockholders to the exclusion of the rights of its creditors. If this position is sustained it would have the effect of wiping out most junior securities in reorganization, and in addition cut off a valuable source from which necessary cash is drawn to make rehabilitation possible. The Atchison plan of reorganization was not prepared by the company, but by its senior creditors who gave the stockholders of the company the privilege of taking new stock in a new company to be formed under certain terms. This is the course usually followed, and any decision that would interfere with the Atchison plan would have a similar effect in every other reorganization to whose benefits stockholders were admitted and any creditor excluded. But it is hard to see how such a claim can prove acceptable to the courts, or if acceptable how it can be of service to the complaining creditors. In the first place, it is always open to a creditor to purchase the insolvent's property when offered at auction, one of the essential processes of reorganization, for the prior liens, and these are always direct mortgage liens, far exceeding the value of the property sold in the hands of the reorganizing committee and the usual purchasers. If, for instance, after neglecting to protect themselves at the sale when the Atchison property was purchased for the first mortgage bondholders, a creditor whose claim is cancelled by the sale can get it set aside, how is he going to meet the claim of the second mortgage bondholders? The action of the Atlantic and Pacific bondholders cannot have been brought for any other purpose than to secure better terms than are now offered them by the new Atchison Company; but, if in the course of this manœuvre in the courts, the contention they have set up should be successful, though it is hard to see how it possibly could be so, that fact would change the whole practice of reorganization as at present carried out, but without being one cent's worth of advantage to those who would have been responsible for the change.

THE Venezuelan circus is drawing to a close, and having had an unusual amount of fun out of it, we may return to Lord Dunraven and Barbara Aub, and other similar matters with which an intelligent press engages the major portion of the attention of its intelligent readers. As to the outcome of the fun, we think it must be admitted that Mr. Cleveland has upon the whole scored by his message—but not in the way he expected. His violent jingoism has estranged from him the educated part of his countrymen, but as a compensation he has probably a larger popular following to-day than he had immediately before he wrote his message. Whether this following is as effective politically, remains to be seen. Such Choctaw war-dances as the President opened last week inevitably win the noisy delight of those (and they are the majority) who believe that patriotism is, in the main, bellicosity, a virtue to be exemplified by being ready to fight and loudly offering to fight everybody and anybody on every occasion. It is not to be questioned that Cleveland has lost the support of all persons upon whom civilization has worked below the surface of the skin.

PROBABLY every one who deeply resented Cleveland's recent invocation of the War God has been considering in what way he can in the future secure himself and his country from similar dangers. Probably, also, he has not been able to come to any quick and certain conclusion in the matter. It is difficult to see, for instance, how such a person will be able to cast a vote at the next election which will count as an unequivocal condemnation of the Jingo and all his ways. By their action in Congress both parties are hopelessly committed to the new Cleveland doctrine and the military swagger which it embodies. Hence, no matter what the outcome of the message is, they will be obliged in their party platforms, more or less, to sustain their action in Congress. They will have pacific words in plenty, but they cannot go back upon their Congressional action without appearing ridiculous. The anti-Jingo voter will be placed in very much the same position as regards the Presidential candidates. Not one of the men who are prominently mentioned as the possible nominees of either party has dared to say a word in opposition to this outburst of Jingoism. Hence it is that the issue cannot possibly be made between Jingoism and anti-Jingoism, as the parties are constituted at present, and the independent voter will probably be placed in the humiliating position at the coming election of not being able to cast his vote so as to make it tell against what he must consider to be the most pernicious and dangerous tendency in our public life. Such is almost the inevitable result of the character of our present party organizations. In national and in local politics the real issues rarely, if ever, arrange themselves in party lines. The party politicians have, with some few exceptions, no convictions and no independence. They are in the business for what they can get out of it, and this means an incessant angling for votes—the kind of votes that can be so caught. Fortunately, recent elections have indicated that the detached and independent vote is increasing, and it is only by the gathering of such an increase that the politicians can be brought to their senses.

FORTUNATELY, however, the polls are not the only place in which the anti-Jingo feeling, both Republican and Democrat, can make itself effective. It must try to raise the political standards of the country by indirect as well as by direct means. If Jingoism is to be overcome, it can be overcome only by a far-reaching and radical change in the temper of our political life—a change so far-reaching and radical that it cannot be brought about except by great and continuous labor. It cannot be too often repeated that President Cleveland's message is not an isolated occurrence, the poison of which will be made innocuous by a settlement of the Venezuelan boundary line. The fact that such a message could be written by a President of the United States, unanimously sustained by Congress, and received with howls of delight by the greater portion of the press, fills one with the gloomiest forebodings of future calamity. It scarcely seems possible that such a spirit, so widely diffused, and so influential at headquarters, can continue to exist without involving the country in some costly, dishonorable and futile struggle. It is part and parcel of the same tendency in our political life which makes our city administrations bureaus of corruption, our national finances a constant threat to the welfare of the country, and the word "politician" a synonym for the contemptible trickster. All of this is the price the business men of the country must pay for having purchased animosity from political life by sending mercenary substitutes to our State Legislatures and to Congress. Hence, if our intelligent and public-spirited citizens are going to fight the Jingo spirit they ought at the outset to understand all that such a struggle implies. It implies, indeed, so much that we scarcely believe it will ever be seriously undertaken until some calamitous crisis does occur—a crisis which will really involve the country in war and bring home to the busy working-people of the country the suffering, the irreparable loss, and the humiliation of a dishonorable war. No one who detested the militant spirit breathed by President Cleveland's message could fail to be struck how indifferent many well-to-do and intelligent men were to the disaster which was threatening the country until their pockets were affected. The peace reaction followed the panic. It is just that indifference which gives the Jingos their chance, and unless these Americans who really love their country are more energetic than they have been in the past the "pinchbeck patriots" will really bring about a national disaster.

THOMAS J. DOWLING, Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics in this State, has suggested an amendment to the Mechanics' Lien law which he would like to see made in the interest of wage-earners. This is, that at the time of making the first or any payment to the contractor, the contractor shall deliver to the owner proof that all journeymen and laborers employed in the construction of the building have been paid in full. It is very singular that neither workingmen nor their representatives can ever understand that laws are made for the community and not for individuals or cliques. It is true they have in this and other States succeeded in getting through the Legislature extraordinary privileges for workmen in the employ of the public authorities, but wherever similar wrongs have been put upon individuals it has not been very difficult to get them repealed, principally because it has been difficult to enforce them. Mr. Dowling's suggestion is as absurd as that put forward in the interest of labor when the Mechanics' Lien law was under consideration by the Legislature last winter, that wages should be a lien prior to all mortgage obligations. Such a requirement would have blocked building operations, and, of course, could not pass, despite the ever present desire of the cheap politicians who make our laws to curry favor with the side having the most votes. Mr. Dowling now asks that the owner shall be compelled to guarantee the wages of the men employed by the contractor who puts up his building. It may be taken for granted that under such a provision he is to be liable for any wages that the contractor fails to pay, if he pays money before having assurance that all wages due up to that time have been paid. This thing was tried in New Jersey, and was such an intolerable nuisance to all concerned, that it was promptly repealed. It is hardly necessary to point out the muddle that would arise if the owner is to know every man a contractor employs, and the latter has, whenever he goes to the owner for a check, to have receipts from all his men. The maker of this suggestion seems to forget that in more cases than not the payment to the contractor by the owner is a condition precedent to the payment of the men. He may argue that men of large capital only should take contracts. That may be so, but if by the adoption of his suggestion a large number of employers are thrown out of business, it is hard to see how mechanics and laborers are benefited thereby. However, Mr. Dowling's suggestion is not important, except as the opening of a discussion on the Mechanics' Lien law of this State, which will in all certainty be carried into the next Legislature. As the law stands now it does not give satisfaction to any one, but any modification ought to be carefully scrutinized before being accepted, otherwise the next state will be worse than this. Only a measure that meets the wants of all interested can be satisfactory. It must not be overlooked, either, that the existing law has one advantage in that it has become settled, in the main, by interpretation of the courts, and any radical changes will have to undergo that process before they can be properly effective in use. This ought not to prevent an attempt to improve on the present unsatisfactory provisions, but it is a good reason for making the attempt with the greatest care and judgment.

Municipal Government in Germany.

THAT part of Albert Shaw's new book on "Municipal Government in Continental Europe," which will be of most interest to Americans, is his account of the recent growth andt he municipal machinery of German cities. He himself places Paris in the foreground of his discussion, but Paris, as the capital of such a highly centralized government as that of France, has grown up under conditions so peculiar that while its experience and methods are interesting, they are not of as much direct value to the American reformer as are the experience of methods of German cities. Like our own American cities, those of Germany have recently grown in population and wealth with remarkable speed, but unlike those of our American cities, the German local authorities have managed their trust so wisely that the cities themselves have obtained a fair share of the proceeds of this unparalleled growth.

We use the word "unparalleled" advisedly. On the whole, the growth of the German cities has for some time past exceeded that of our cities. In 1870 New York had a population of 950,000, while that of Berlin was only 800,000. In 1890 Berlin had 1,578,794 inhabitants, while those of New York numbered only 1,515,301. Since 1875 Hamburg has increased in population from 348,000 to 569,260, while Boston only increased from 342,000 to 448,000. The third German city in size is Leipzig. It is a manufacturing town, which had 127,000 people in 1875, 149,000 in 1880, 170,000 in 1885, and 355,000 in 1890. The annexation of suburbs accounts in part for the immense gain of the half decade from 1885 to 1890, but it also explains the comparatively small gains of the preceding decade, growth being principally in the outer belt. St. Louis grew from 350,000 in 1880 to nearly 452,000 in 1890. But Leipzig has grown at a much higher rate. Breslau, the second city of Prussia, has lost much by emigration, but still it grows. Its population had expanded from 272,900 in 1880 to 335,000 in 1890, meanwhile Cincinnati had grown from 255,139 to 296,908. In the same decade Cologne had grown from 144,800 to 281,000. This may be compared to the gain of Cleveland, Ohio, from 160,000 to 261,000, with Buffalo's growth from 155,000 to 255,600; and with Pittsburg's from 156,000 to 238,800. Cologne was very much the smallest of the four in 1880, and is very much the largest in 1890. Dresden had 220,000 people in 1880, and New Orleans had 216,000, thus being nearly of equal size. In 1890 Dresden had grown to 276,500 and New Orleans to 242,000. Frankfort-on-the Main had 180,000 people by the census of 1890, and Newark, New Jersey, 181,000; Frankfort had 136,800 in 1880, and Newark had 136,500. The list might be indefinitely extended, but the figures given suffice to show that while none of the German cities is growing as fast as Chicago, all of them are growing as fast if not faster than American cities of the same size. They have had to deal consequently with very much the same problem; and they have dealt with it so successfully that every one interested in the matter should read carefully in Mr. Shaw's book what they have done and how they have done it.

The machinery of German municipal government is dependent entirely in the municipal council. It finds the burgomaster, designates his expert associates of the magisterial coterie, supplies the means for carrying on the city government, and represents in its own enlightenment, ability, and aspirations the standard and character of the municipality's progress. The members of the council are as a rule very excellent citizens. No salary is attached to the office, and membership is a title of dignity which merchants, professional men, and scholars are usually eager to hold. The burgomaster and magistrates are the most highly trained experts that a German city can secure. The burgomaster himself is a proficient in the general art of municipal administration. Associated with him in the magisterial council are experts in law, experts in finance, experts in education to administer the schools, experts in engineering, experts in sanitary science, experts in public charity, experts in forestry and park management and so on. These magistrates are, then, a body of "distinguished, honored, highly-paid professional expert employes." The mayor at their head is the general manager of the whole machine. He is no more an election official than is the general manager of a railway company. If he shows himself competent in the administration of a smaller place, he is very often transferred to a larger city. Some of them are appointed for life, others for a term of twelve years. The tenure of the paid magistrates in general follows that of the mayors, but not all the magistrates are paid. A certain number of unsalaried citizen members tend to keep the officialism of every such body from becoming too narrow and at the same time keeps the whole machine in close touch with the community. These unsalaried citizen assistants, while they give only a small part of their time to their official duties, are peculiarly well qualified for their task, in that their private occupations often make them experts in the very line of work which they do for the city.

Such is a very rough sketch of the machinery of German municipal government, although, as we shall presently show, it does its work admirably, we by no means hold it up as a model to be directly copied in our American cities. But what is peculiarly admirable about it and unquestionably worthy of imitation by us, is the manner in which it commands the services of the best men in the community, and the extent to which it avails itself of the labor of expert employees. A municipal corporation differs from private corporations in that it is in some measure a political organization as well as a business machine. Every member of the community, rich or poor, is allowed a voice in its management; and the peculiar difficulty is to administer the general interests of this politically composed community as efficiently as the interests of a private company are administered. Such administration can be properly performed only when undertaken by public spirited citizens possessed of comparative leisure and a native interest in the welfare of their city. They do not themselves actually perform the work of municipal administration; but they determine the general policy to be carried out by the skilled officials, and they prevent these officials from becoming the mere creatures of departmental routine. In all German cities there are a large number of intelligent, well-informed and well-to-do people imbued with sufficient local feeling to make them wish to serve their city intelligently and assiduously. The corresponding class with us have no similar local pride. They are aroused sometimes to protest against the administration iniquities consequent upon their past neglect of their duties; but the protest begins and ends at the polls. They are not sufficiently interested in the city itself, in a clean, far-seeing, prudent management of its interests to make them wish to devote their talents to its service. The consequence is that our whole municipal system is disorganized; experts are rarely to be seen about the departments; and when they are present they are comparatively powerless for good. Hence, when a reformed mayor is elected he is so handicapped that his reforms are only fragmentary, and his success so qualified that indifferent people are not confirmed in their support of the movement. It may be confidently asserted that no permanent improvement in the administration of our local affairs will take place until the comparatively leisured and well-to-do citizens possess an interest sufficiently spontaneous and impersonal in the city's welfare to make them willing to turn to and organize the expert work in the separate departments just as they would organize the complicated details of an enormous private corporation.

The Gemans do have some feeling for their cities, and devote their time, energy and knowledge to their city's service. The consequence is that when any great public work is proposed, they are not obliged to postpone it or put it in the hands of a private company, because they cannot trust the spending of large sums of money to their municipal rulers. On the contrary, such is the efficiency of the local organization and the confidence it inspires, that it can handle the largest public improvements in the light of ample experience and without unnecessary delay. It is this fact which makes municipal socialism—so called—possible in Germany as in England. The German municipal authorities do not assume increased functions at the dictates of an abstract socialistic theory. They are actuated simply by the purpose of making money or its equivalent for the city, and their success has been remarkable. "The assumption of specific business undertakings," says Albert Shaw, "involves little more than a decision from time to time as to what is opportune or what is inopportune. It is conceivable that a German city might do none of these things, and that an American city might plunge into them all, and yet that a German city should remain a far more positive and essential factor in the life of its citizens."

We will simply quote a few striking examples out of the many afforded by Mr. Shaw's book. Berlin, for instance, has been spending $30,000,000 in the creation of sewage-farms, which will soon become enormously productive, and will make the city drainage works equally as self-sustaining as its gas works. Iamgine the spending by New York of such a sum for such a purpose. The element of waste, mismanagement and corruption would make it impossible. But the Berlin municipality by no means dispenses with the services of private companies, but when such franchises are granted, the interests of the city are carefully protected. The Berlin Electric Works company pays to the city, as compensation for the use of the streets, 10 per cent. of its gross receipts, and it is further provided that whenever the company earns a net profit of more than six per cent. on its actual investment of capital, the city treasury shall receive 25 per cent. of such gross profits. Moreover, besides exacting from the company various services at a small cost to the city, the city reserved the right to buy the entire plant at a period which elapses the present year. About two-thirds of the German cities own and operate their own gas plants. As monopoly-enterprises it is easy to make the works pay good profits. The cities which are now supplied by private companies will probably, as franchise periods terminate, assume municipal control. Only one of all the cities in Germany has chartered rival private gas companies; and the price of gas is higher there than anywhere else in the country. The municipal transit systems are not as highly developed in Germany as they are in the United States, but they are improving in quality and increasing in number every year, and with few exceptions the German cities manage to obtain payment from street railway companies up to a point fairly equal to the rental value of the franchises they hold, besides taxing them as heavily upon their invested capital as if they were ordinary merchants. Municipal savings' banks are a venerable institution in Germany, and are to be found almost without exception in all large towns of the Empire. Berlin has more than 400,000 depositors, while Dresden makes the remarkable showing of nearly 200,000. Manufacturing cities promote the development of their principal industries by providing trade schools, which are adapted in their courses to the industrial character of the city and vicinity. In short, the German city holds itself responsible for the education of all; for the provision of amusement and means of recreation; for the adaptation of the training of the young to the necessities of gaining a livelihood; for the promotion of individual thrift; for the development of advantages and opportunities in order to promote the commercial and industrial well-being, and incidentally for the supply of common services and the introduction of conveniences. The result is that taxation is heavy; and municipal indebtedness large, but for their heavy taxation the citizens get substantial return in the admirable competence and wide range of municipal service, and the municipal indebtedness is represented in productive public works, which are becoming increasingly valuable as time goes on. Their financial position is described as absolutely unassailable. But it is particularly in the future that the German cities will reap the results of their present foresight, while our American municipalities have been freely giving away all available sources of revenue outside of taxation the Germans have carefully husbanded all their resources. Consequently they will be able to meet the vast problems of the future with a competent organization and a full treasury, whereas our cities are comparatively unprepared either with men or machinery and have no way of raising money except by increase of taxation.

The Harlem River Front.

The Board of Aldermen, on Monday last, received the following petition, which was extensively and influentially signed, and referred it to the Committee on Docks:

GENTLEMEN—The undersigned are engaged in business in the northern part of the City of New York, and have occasion to use the Harlem river waterfront between Third and Eighth avenues in said city.

That portion of the City of New York lying north of One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and fronting the Harlem river is a rapidly growing locality. Many important buildings have been erected and it is evident that an increase of the facilities for the delivery of goods, wares and merchandise along the river-front will tend toward the rapid construction of private dwellings, stores and other buildings in that part of the city.

It is their opinion that the construction of bulkheads and piers upon the Harlem river, between the northerly ends of Fifth and Seventh avenues, will be a desirable improvement for the city, and will at the same time supply a much needed demand for wharves and dock facilities, for the purpose of the reception and delivery of building material and other heavy merchandise.

Your petitioners therefore pray that the Common Council of the City of New York will, by resolution, request the Commissioners of the Dock Department of the City of New York to take such action as shall be necessary for the immediate improvement of the Harlem river water-front between Fifth and Seventh avenues.

Dated New York, November 27, 1895.

Col. Waring's Suggestion.

Col. Waring has submitted plans to the Mayor suggesting the establishment of one or more market-playgrounds in the territory east of the Bowery, and between Houston street and East Broadway. His idea is to purchase an entire block, clear it of all its buildings, and asphalt from curb to curb after long sheds, which could be used for stalls and shelters for push carts, have been built. Spaces intervening between the sheds, as well as under the sheds themselves when not otherwise engaged, could be used as playgrounds for the children of the district. He estimates the cost of treating a block this way at $1,000,000, with a probable rental value from marketmen and hucksters of $60,000 a year. Real estate men will not accept the first figure as accurate.

The Daily Distorter.

Mr. Wm. E. Bloodgood figured recently in the New York Times as a severe critic of the Department of Buildings, and as antagonistic to the policy and methods and person of the head of that department. He has, however, addressed a letter to Mr. Constable, of which he has favored us with a copy, by which it appears that this is wholly due to the well-known inability of the average daily newspaper reporter to report. Mr. Bloodgood says in his letter, the article in the Times does Mr. Constable and the Department great injustice, and places him (Mr. Bloodgood) in a false position before the community, making it appear that he was antagonistic to the Department, which he had never been. He says: "The reporter for THE RECORD AND GUIDE had a similar interview with me, in which I made many of the statements given to the Times reporter, the same as I would converse with anyone, but his article in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, of Oct. 26th, headed 'The Department of Buildings,' shows the kind of article I supposed would appear in the Times, if any did appear." Mr. Bloodgood gives his actual statements alongside of the Times article which distorts them, for the latter, however, we have not space; those who have read it will note the great difference between it and the following:

One of the difficulties in the department is that many of the men are young and lack practical experience. They make many objections now that they will not make after a little more experience. They are new men and over-zealous in many cases. The words "unfitted for their position, not acquainted with the Building Laws, they have annoyed the architects, so that we cannot stand it any longer," are words I never used. It is hard to find out what information is required for an application, as there seems to be no settled method of examination, too much being left to the whim of the individual examiner. What is wanted in one application is not in another, though they may be identical. When an application is filed it is reviewed by an examiner, and objections made. We answer those, and then it is referred to another examiner, who evidently feels it his duty to find as many objections as the first examiner.

Some of the objections are frivolous, some are made for things to be shown on the drawings when, in fact, they are already shown, and others are unwarranted by the Building Law, being matters over which the Department has no jurisdiction whatever.

In the matter of floor capacities, the department undertook to require all old floors to be strengthened to comply with the present law, but that position had to be abandoned, because if the Superintendent could make all the old buildings comply with the present law in one point he could in all, which would mean the rebuilding of all buildings erected prior to the passage of the present law.

After filing our computation and plan for floor they are disapproved, and an order issued that if the foundations are not exposed and the kind of soil on which the buildings rest is not given, the owner and architect must file an agreement assuming all responsibility for the carrying capacity of the building. I do not believe this shifting of responsibility can be enforced, and I know of some fourteen or fifteen buildings in which the matter will be contested as soon as a violation is filed for that purpose.

In an experience of twenty years this has been the hardest in which to complete buildings. The plans being delayed so long at the department, the orders for steel were sent to the mill in a bunch, instead of being distributed over several months, as is usual. The mills could only turn out so much steel working day and night, hence many owners have lost half a year's rent.

In answer to many questions I stated "that plans were being approved more promptly now, and that when Mr. Constable had the department where he wanted it we would be satisfied. Of course, I had suffered a good deal on account of all these delays, and some of the amendments made were very exasperating, but that I felt sure they would improve and pass away in time. More plans and more large buildings had been passed on than ever before. As to Mr. Constable personally, I had the highest esteem for him; that I had the pleasure of appearing before the Board of Examiners and meeting him the first day he took hold of the department, and had noted with pleasure the changes and business-like methods he had put in vogue as they had appeared from time to time. I had never heard of any personal objection to him, and did not believe there was any. I had the pleasure of voting for the Mayor, and so was responsible to that extent for putting Mr. Constable where he was."

Taxation and the Proposed Hudson River Bridge.

The suggestion that has been made within the Sinking Fund Commission, that its consent to any location for the proposed bridge of the New York and New Jersey Bridge Co., across the Hudson River, shall be accompanied by a stipulation as to the valuation of the property for tax purposes, has brought forth a protest from the Company. The protest is in the form of a brief from counsel, claiming that the Sinking Fund Commission has no power either from the State or Federal enactments relating to the bridge to impose such a stipulation, and that its powers in the premises are limited simply to the question of the approval of the location of the approaches.

Evidence of Prosperity.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Co., of No. 55 Liberty street, has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable January 2d next. This company loaned over $18,000,000 on real estate during the first ten months of 1895. Our lists of assignments of mortgages show that the company transfer the mortgages to banks and trust companies, executors and trustees of estates, capitalists and persons of moderate means.

Rapid Transit.

The hearing on rapid transit roads and construction before the Reference Commission is proceeding with little promise of an early close. Mr. W. B. Parsons, the engineer of the Rapid Transit Commission, has been on the stand all week under a cross-examination that will apparently endure for some time yet.

Mr. Lawson M. Fuller is credited with the circulation of a petition to the Rapid Transit Commission and to the officers of the Manhattan Elevated Railroad Co. praying them to take united action toward extending the railroad of the latter, and so providing rapid transit. Commenting on this, Mr. John H. Inman, a member of the Commission, is quoted as saying that the initiative must come from the railroad company; the Commission was ready to grant any reasonable request.

Keep the Sidewalks Clean.

The Department of Public Works has made it known that the ordinance requiring the sidewalks to be kept clear of snow and ice will be strictly enforced. The Department has power in cases of neglect to do the work itself and charge the cost against the property.

Personal.

The well-known firm of architects, Messrs. Webster & Thompson, No. 217 West 125th street, will dissolve partnership on January 1, 1896. J. Averit Webster will continue to do business at the old stand, and Albert Thompson will become an associate of Hill & Turner, No. 44 Broadway.

COLLECTION OF JUDGMENT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

A leases store to B for five years. After one year B vacates the premises. If A gets a judgment against B has A any means of collecting it? B is still in business, but he does not own real estate. Also answer if a judgment is given against a man with real estate can the party who holds it sell his (A's) property in order to satisfy it.

Answer.—A judgment creditor collects his judgment by issuing an execution to the Sheriff of the county where the judgment debtor resides or has property, and it is the Sheriff's business to levy upon the personal property of the debtor and sell it to satisfy the judgment. If the judgment debtor has no personal property but has real estate, the real estate may likewise be sold.—LAW EDITOR.

COVENANT NOT TO BUILD.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Would you kindly answer the following in your next number: Is there any decision by the courts to stop the building of a first-class apartment house on a lot restricted for dwellings?

Answer.—See Musgrave against Sherwood, 53 How., Pr. Rep. 311. In this case an injunction was granted restraining the defendant from altering a dwelling on 5th avenue, New York City, into a "French flat." There was a covenant that no "tenement house" should be erected on the lot.—LAW EDITOR.

HUSBAND BORROWS FROM WIFE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following in your next issue and oblige Can a wife hold a mortgage against her husband's real estate? A woman conveys to her husband a lot and three months after conveying it he borrows from her a certain sum of money for which she takes as security a mortgage upon the lot aforesaid, but the mortgage is signed only by him. Is this mortgage good, or should she have joined in it? What effect would an assignment of this mortgage have upon her dower? The husband still owns the land.

Answer.—The mortgage is perfectly good. It was not necessary that the wife should join in the mortgage. If the assignee of the mortgage should foreclose it the wife's dower would be cut off.—LAW EDITOR.

BROKERS' COMMISSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly advise me in your next issue: If a party is representing himself to me as owner, but is not, after I have spoken to the owner, but said party is residing with the owner and acts for the owner. When I sent my party for inspection to the owner and party acting for the owner, party acting for the owner came to my office with my party and we closed the deal, drew up a contract and gave him a check on contract, but the next day I received a note from the owner that the terms were not satisfactory and would not live up to contract. Is the agent entitled to all or any part of commission?

Answer.—If the agent can prove that the party representing the owner had authority to act for the owner he can recover the commission.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Being a subscriber to your paper for many years, I take the liberty of asking you the following questions: (1) A is the owner of some flat property, and B is the real estate dealer who has charge of renting and collecting same. B has a man, C, who is owner of other property and wishes to trade with A. C made an offer through B, and A accepted it; the contract was signed and the execution of trade is to take place during the middle of January. The Title Guarantee and Trust Company are to pass the deed, and if C cannot give A a clear title, and if the trade does not come off, through no fault of A, has B any claim for commission on A? If so, when is it due him? If the trade goes through all right, when is B's commission due him? By answering these questions in your next issue you will greatly oblige.

Answer.—B is entitled to his commission when the contract is signed.—LAW EDITOR.

TRANSFER.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you please answer the following in your next issue and oblige a subscriber? (1) Can a man sell real esate to his wife? Does she have to sign the deed the same as if selling to other parties? (2) About forty years ago my father bought a piece of land which has come into my possession, which was described by degrees. I have recently had the land surveyed, and through the variations of the compass the reading of the degrees are altogether different. I wish to convey the land. Shall I convey it by the original deed or by the new survey?

Answer.—(1) He can. The wife need not sign the deed made by him. (2) Let the description be according to the survey, and in the deed refer to the former deed.—LAW EDITOR.

Real Estate Notes.

Ten shares of the stock of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited) were sold at auction by Adrian H. Muller & Son, on Wednesday of last week, at $82.75 per share.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment on Monday approved of the additonal purchases for the City College site reported in THE RECORD AND GUIDE on the 7th inst., and authorized the Comptroller to issue bonds to the amount of $141,250 to pay for the land. The total value of the lots acquired up to date is $188,250.

Owners of property along the East Side water front, between 64th and 81st streets, must have read with interest the notice published last week of the probable final action to be taken relating to the proposed exterior street. This improvement has been talked about for such a long period that doubt has arisen as to its ever being accomplished, but though the patience of the interested owners has been most sorely tried, they will apparently see their expectations regarding it realized before many months are over.

From a story partly told by the recording of four instruments last week we are almost convinced that the times must have been badly out of joint for some time previous to the issuance of the Venezuelan message. A prominent broker sold for an estate to which he is allied by family ties a property to a firm of speculators for $36,000. They in turn sold at $42,500, and the second firm of buyers before taking title were able to secure two bona fide loans on the property for a total of $37,500 at 5 per cent.

Title was taken recently by Mrs. J. Pierrepont Morgan to Nos. 327 and 329 East 39th street, and a report was immediately circulated that the property, together with Nos. 331 and 333, adjoining, said to have also been bought by her, would be remodeled and converted into model tenements. The block has not the best reputation in the world and was regarded as "tough" as far back as 1876, when Nos. 327 to 331 were sold under foreclosure at $10,000 each or $4,500 apiece less than Mrs. Morgan has purchased them at. If it is really the buyer's intention to become a practical philanthropist, she should demolish the existing tenements instead of attempting to remodel them, and thereby secure a plot that can be utilized for the building of tenements of the model kind.

One of the daily papers has made a discovery that may be of valuable (?) service to brokers and investors, and gives notice of it in the following paragraph: "Formerly where an owner had a parcel of property which he wished to dispose of, he hawked it indiscriminately among all classes of brokers, including those who have done so much to injure the brokerage business, namely the curbstone brokers. The method now is changed. He gives the property to a number of reputable brokers, knowing that they are aware of any buyer who is in the market for that grade of property." It would be interesting to know at what period in the history of the city owners hawked their property indiscriminately, and how large a number, more than one, of reputable brokers it is now considered proper by an owner who is not a speculator, to give a property to sell.

"Look before you leap" is not a bad saying for inexperienced real estate owners to remember when considering propositions from brokers. The possessor of an old dwelling, centrally located, that had been altered and occupied many years by the owner for a business of an exclusive nature, sold it some months ago for $65,000. The seller then concluded to remove to a more prominent and commodious building on Broadway, but the fashionable patrons of the establishment objecting so strenuously on account of the difficulty that would be experienced with private carriages in so public a thoroughfare, it was found advisable not to make the change. Not being desirous of submitting to the possible whims or extravagant demands of a landlord, and wishing to move no further away than was absolutely necessary, the former owner was forced to buy the somewhat better house adjoining at a price $10,000 higher than the first one had sold at and will have to charge to experience that amount. The costly change might have been avoided had the possible consequences of the original sale received proper consideration.

A Columbus avenue broker says, the only gratification attached to a house sale to one of the gentler sex is that derived from the earning of the commission. The ladies it seems are, in nearly every instance, very aggravating customers, and it is a rare occurrence not to learn after the consummation of a purchase that the buyer has given expression to a belief that she has been the victim of imposition. Not only after the closing of the transaction but frequently within a few days from the signing of a contract does the buyer show dissatisfaction, and in a tearful voice, made more impressive by a doleful countenance, beseech the broker interested to inform her of some way of being relieved from the agreement. The means of relief usually suggested is an immediate resale at an advance of a thousand or more, and if the broker unhesitatingly says he knows of an applicant for a house such as she has secured who would be only too happy to pay the additional sum, all dissatisfaction vanishes and in a firm voice he is informed that she prefers to carry out the contract. The confidence thus renewed remains as a rule until possession is obtained but the belief that she has been victimized is almost certain to assert itself later and is evidenced by reproachful glances in the event of a chance meeting between the guiltless broker and his whilom customer.

The witless broker is a misfit in the real estate business, as has probably been demonstrated a thousand times or more, and a recent experience of a buyer's agent so aptly shows the necessity, at times, of sagacious action that it is worth relating. One of the younger brokers having learned of an owner's desire to sell his plot, comprising seven of the eight lots in an avenue block front, succeeded in finding a buyer in a prominent speculator and closed the sale. The new owner, under the contract, which, by the way, was signed by a dummy, became at once desirous of securing the remaining lot, the most valuable of the two corners, and authorized the broker to find and sound the owner with a view to its purchase. As it happened, the latter was also a speculator, not as prominent as the broker's principal but every bit as shrewd, and the offices of both were on the same floor of a Broadway office building, with the entrance to each almost in full view of the other. Here was a state of things, for the broker knew only too well that to arouse a suspicion that he was acting for the bigger speculator would result in corner lots, such as the one wanted, taking a big jump in value and the payment of a fancy sum should the intention to purchase be persisted in. Acting cautiously from the time of his discovery of the contiguity of the two offices the broker made it an invariable rule to descend in the elevator after each interview with the lot owner, and later on to re-enter the building and acquaint the prospective buyer with what had transpired. The deal was a remarkably slow one to bring about and it required an unusual amount of dickering before a price was named that proved satisfactory all around. In consenting verbally to a sale the seller, true to a nature made suspicious by many years of trafficking in real estate, reserved the right to refuse to part with the property in the event of the buyer, whose identity was still undisclosed, not proving agreeable to him. Recourse was necessarily had to the dummy buyer of the adjoining lots, who, however, was not personally placed in evidence lest he should be recognized as a frequenter of the office across the hall. The seller was still wary, and it required a lot of talk to induce him to believe, in a half-hearted way, that the buyer was an ordinary every day business man with some surplus money to invest. Finally, at one of the last of many interviews he declined to attach his signature to the contract which had been signed by the buyer until he knew at once through which law firm the sale would be consummated. The broker was stumped for the moment, but promised to return in an hour with the desired information. Not daring to jeopardize the transaction by seeking a conference with his principal a nearby telephone was brought into requisition, the situation explained, a law firm named and notified of the emergency, and the broker, on returning with the information, was told to call again on the following day. He did so and had the long-looked-for pleasure of witnessing the seller sign the contract and accept the customary certified check to bind the transaction, but in the meantime it was learned the buyer's alleged legal representative had been approached and an excellent reference obtained from him regarding his supposititious client's commercial standing. The seller knows now who the real buyer was, and was more amused than indignant to discover that with all his fencing he had been over-reached. A deal of trouble some of our readers may say to be put to in connection with the sale of a single lot, but then it was almost a case of "must," and but for the cleverness of the broker the purchase would never have been effected except at an unwarrantable price.

Many years have passed since proprietors of uptown real estate offices began to levy tribute on outside lines of business other than the congenial one of insurance, for the purpose of reducing the cost of running their establishments. The coal and wood for sale sign has always been the one most frequently observed, but it is not uncommon to find displayed others of branch express offices and public telephones, as well as of nearly every special business that enters into house construction and repair. The latter lines are usually accorded their show window privileges in consideration of paying a small monthly sum for desk room, which in very many cases is unoccupied and the office force relied on to give prompt notice when a request for services is received. There are also seen at times, announcements of articles that will be supplied on demand that are so foreign to real estate and building interests as to create a doubt that they can ever be called for. For a long period a real estate selling and renting business was conducted on one of the west side avenues with a dry goods annex that occupied the greater part of the store or office, and was looked after by the broker-agent's better half. Through good management, however, the property interests grew to such importance that the dry goods department was permanently abolished about ten years ago. Last summer a real estate office on the outskirts of Brooklyn flung to the breeze a large sign that read "Ice Cream and Soda Water," but as everything goes in some parts of our sister city the novel combination was not considered in any way remarkable. Strangers things have been done in New York though their strangeness has not been advertised so prominently. Even the funny man's proposed joining of a dentist and real estate broker as business partners because both dealt in "achers" has been outdone here, and a genius located not far from Union Square must be credited with the oddest of all combinations. He was and is still a chiropodist, and owing perhaps to a partial failure of the corn crop, added to his specialty not long ago the selling of real estate. To distinguish between the two lines of business he blossomed out in his realty transactions as a firm by adding to his name "& Co." The first heard of the "firm" was in connection with a sale of a property of moderate value for which the usual credit was given in THE RECORD AND GUIDE and other papers. The sale was made as reported, but whether the chiropodist had any but a very small interest in the transaction is what Lord Dundreary calls "one of those things no fellow can find out." A week or two later the "firm" claimed to have sold a valuable residence in an uptown fashionable street. The exact location was not given, but in addition to the sale it was stated that the house would be extensively altered, and had been rented for a term of years at $4,500 per annum. The names of seller, buyer and lessee were given in full, but singular to relate not one of them appeared in the city directory. Some of the daily papers gave the chiropodist-real estate "firm" the desired free advertisement, but the report of the alleged double transaction had such a peculiar look that THE RECORD AND GUIDE, after making a fruitless effort at verification, decided it was a fake, and it was omitted from our columns. That was many months ago, and we are still waiting to find in the filings at the Register's office evidence of the consummation of that sale. The "firm" may have continued in existence with its office, which looked suspiciously like a waiting room, adjoining the chiropodist's quarters, but its usefulness as a factor in real estate has not since been brought to our attention.

Real Estate Market.

Notwithstanding that the factors of all classes who contribute their share of both time and money to the sustenance of the realty market have had their attention agreeably diverted to holiday pleasures the brokers' transactions reported below will involve an aggregate investment of fully $1,650,000. The buying has been fairly well distributed over the different sections of the city and embraces nearly every description of property, with sales of vacant lots, and other parcels susceptible of profitable improvement, the dominant feature of the week's business.

Legal sales were all that the auctioneers had announced for Christmas week, and with hardly an exception the properties were woefully lacking in attractiveness. On Tuesday William Kennelly postponed until January 24th sales of Nos. 224 and 226 West 64th street, and D. P. Ingraham & Co. adjourned sine die a sale of five lots on the northwest corner of 7th avenue and 120th street. On Thursday a sale of a right, title and interest in a plot fronting on Bronx Park, Bleecker and Fulton streets and Barker avenue, was similarly disposed of. Yesterday Geo. R. Read adjourned until January 10th a sale of Nos. 1889 to 1895 1st avenue, corner of 98th street.

Philip A. Smyth will, on Friday next, the 3d prox., sell by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, at the Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, the store and tenement property known as Nos. 161 and 163 Lewis street. Maps, etc., can be had of the auctioneer at No. 11 Pine street.

S. De Walltearss & Co.'s announcement of the executors' sale of three Broadway and one Crosby street parcel belonging to the estate of the late Louis C. Hamersley has naturally excited a good deal of interest in real estate circles. The offerings are fine specimens of investment realty, and as such should find demand ready when offered. They consist of No. 536 Broadway, No. 736 Broadway, Nos. 636 and 638 Broadway and Nos. 170 and 172 Crosby street. The last named Broadway property and the Crosby street parcel connect. Maps and particulars can be had of the auctioneers, at No. 171 Broadway, or of the executors' attorneys, De Witt, Lockman & De Witt, at No. 88 Nassau street. The sale will take place on Wednesday, the 15th of January, in the Real Estate Exchange, No. 59 Liberty street.

Bryan L. Kennelly will sell at auction, on Wednesday, the 15th prox., at the Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, six valuable lots on the south side of 23d street, 225 feet east of 2d avenue. The dimensions of these lots are: five 25x98.9 each, and one 35x98.9. They are excavated nine feet. Title is guaranteed and terms offered are liberal. The auctioneer's office is at No. 66 Liberty street, where full particulars can be obtained.

Obituary.

We regret to have to communicate to our readers the act of the death of A. B. Ogden, the senior partner in the firm of A. B. Ogden & Son, architects. The late Mr. Ogden made many friends during his long and honorable practice in this city. His work too, which, though mainly confined to domestic architecture, had many meritorious qualities.

Meyer Goldsmith, who for many years had been identified with the real estate and building interests of New York, died on Thursday at his residence, No. 29 East 79th street, after an illness of short duration. The last operation of the deceased was the erection of a row of eleven private dwellings in West 113th street that are now nearing completion.

Trade Notes.

SUCCESS OF THE HEYDEBRAND SAFETY WINDOW.

The success of the Heydebrand Safety Window is little short of phenomenal. Placed before architects only a short time ago they have been quick to recognize the great value and utility of the device which secures absolutely weather-proof safety windows that can be easily revolved completely around and also up and down in the usual way, the former arrangement making it easy to clean both sides of the window within the room. Besides, they are absolutely air-tight. Here are a few of the structures where the Heydebrand Safety Windows have been used or are specified to be used: Bowling Green Office Building, W. & G. Audsley, architects; New York Athletic Club, 6th avenue and 59th street, Wm. A. Cable, architect; Borgfeldt Building, Alfred Zucker, architect; Syndicate Building, Nassau and Liberty streets, Lamb & Rich, architects; New Public School, St. Ann's avenue, C. B. J. Snyder, architect; Johnson Building, Exchange place and Broad street, J. B. Baker, architect; Public Library, Hoboken, N. J., A. Beyer, architect; Home for Old Men, Cady & Berg, architects; University Building, Washington place; Merck Building, Clinton place; New Hoffman House, Broadway and 25th street, and Baudouine Building, Broadway and 28th street, which last four are from plans by Architect Alfred Zucker; also twenty private houses in and around New York. It should be added that the Heydebrand Safety Windows can be put into old frames with the utmost readiness. Theo ffices of the company are in the Decker Building, No 33 Union square.

MANHATTAN HOUSE CLEANING BUREAU.

This old-established house, of which the veteran house cleaner, Mr. James E. Garner is proprietor, does all manner of house cleaning, and has earned a reputation for reliable and satisfactory work Among other buildings they have cleaned: Packard's College on East 23d street; Union Theological Seminary, Park avenue; Presbyterian Building, 5th avenue, for Horace S. Ely & Co.; Bowery Savings Bank, 128 and 130 Bowery; Mrs. Jeff Seligman's house, East 69th street, and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan's house on Madison avenue. Mr. Garner employs a large corps of experienced workers, and gives strict personal attention to all orders. His office is at No. 143 West 26th street, telephone 371A 18th street.

A Statement of Facts

BY THE A. B. SEE MANUFACTURING COMPANY, RELATING TO THE SUIT BROUGHT BY THE OTIS BROTHERS & CO.

A letter recently received from one of our agents says: "The Otis Company are telling customers not to buy your Electric Elevator, because of an alleged infringement." A letter received at a later date asked if we could not publish the facts regarding this suit.

To write of this suit properly one must write of the Elevator "Combine," for if there had been no "combine" there would have been no suit.

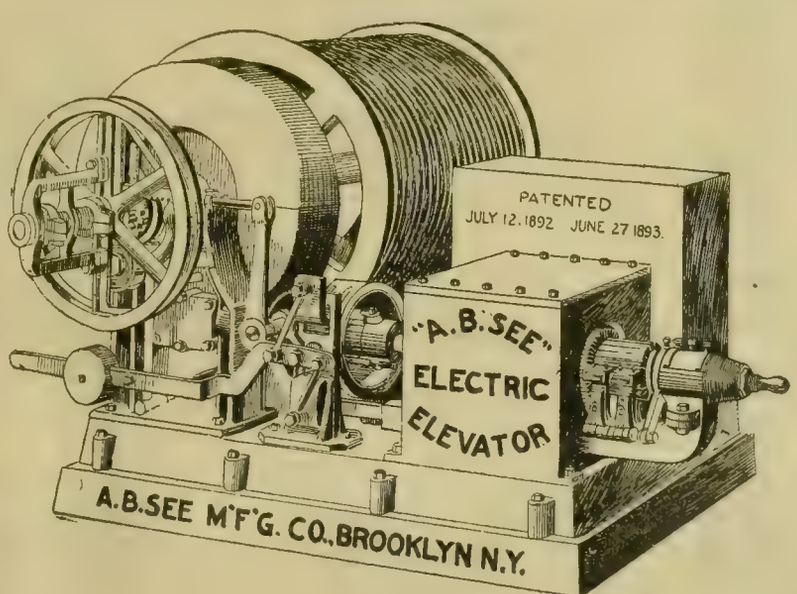
The Elevator "Combine" was formed in 1891 by some four or five elevator firms pooling their patents and dividing the country into sections, each member of the pool being allowed to sell only in an allotted territory.

The patents of the Otis Company were put into the pool and they were allotted a territory in which to sell, like the rest. This gave the other members the right to use the Otis Company's appliances in their respective territories.

There was nothing wrong in all this. Their first error was in not publishing these facts, as it is somewhat humiliating for a man after he has talked with two or three men about their estimates for elevators to find they came from the same office.

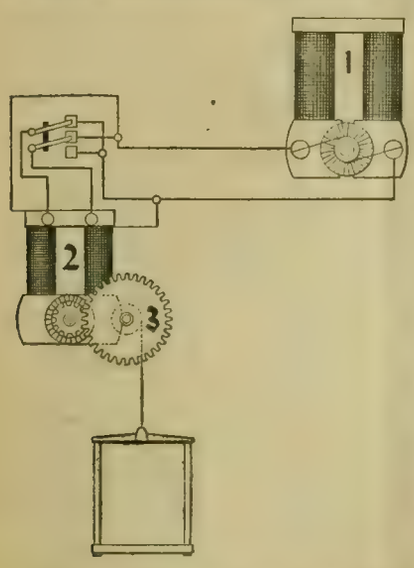
There are many people who thought they must go to the Otis Company if they wanted an elevator, but how could they think so any longer if the Otis Company's patents were in a pool to be used by other firms, and the Otis Company were using other people's devices?

It is strange how many men have gone into these trade combines expecting great things, totally unmindful of the fact that in many cases they had much to lose and nothing to gain by surrendering the accumulated business interests of years.



The Otis Company was started some forty years ago by Mr. E. G. Otis. When the business was fairly started he died. His eldest son, Charles R., took up the management of its affairs. His health failed, and the business was sold out, and the man who is now really the controlling spirit of that company came into it at that time.

When Charles R. Otis was at the head of that company the man who gave them an order got an Otis Elevator, hoisting machine, gearing, safeties and all, and the whole country was their territory.



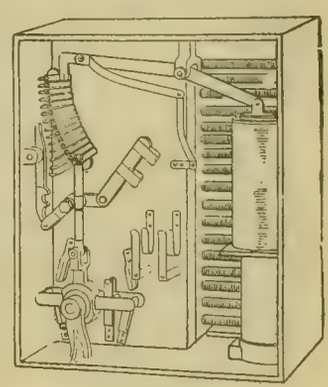
The Electric Elevator field had been a promising one, and we early entered the field, made a careful study of its requirements, and invented and patented our Electric Elevator. The late Rudolf Eickemeyer had also invented and patented an Electric Elevator.

We were manufacturing and selling under our own patents, while the Otis Company were selling under the "Eickemeyer" patent.

Purchasers began to tell us that the Otis Company had told them not to buy our Electric Elevators, as we were infringing their patent.

These stories were told so long and so persistently that we consulted our attorneys, Messrs. Phillips & Avery, to see if we could not find some legal means to stop them. Later we sought to know of the Otis Company which of their patents they thought we infringed, and they would give no answer.

When a firm has a patent which they believe to be infringed they write at once to the manufacturer, giving the number and date of the patent, notifying him that they believe he is infringing, thus opening the way for a speedy and amicable agreement as to the merit of the patent.



Disregarding this custom, the Otis Company finally brought suit July 14, 1893, unknown to us, against one of our customers, the defense of which we at once assumed.

We here give an accurate reproduction of the device shown in the patent on which suit was brought, taken from the records of the case:

The patent shows absolutely no new device, mechanism or appliance, and nothing new or novel is shown or claimed in the patent.

We show two other cuts, one of our Electric Elevator complete, and the other of our current controlling device contained in the part of the elevator marked patented. How completely covered by our patents our Electric Elevator is, is shown by the fact that after months of searching the Otis Company could find no better patent on which to base a suit than the one described.

ELECTRIC CONTROLLER.

The Otis Company in their complaint swore that they owned patent 324,621, granted Aug. 18, 1895, on which suit was based, when the records show that they did not own it. But, as we recently learned, it has belonged to another company since Dec. 31, 1891. Whereupon we brought action against the Otis Company for suing our customer on a patent which they did not own. The day after we had the summons served we received from Mr. Edwin H. Brown, the attorney of the Otis Company, the following letter:

"In view of the allegations made by you in the suit you have instituted against Messrs. Otis Brothers & Co., and to put you on your guard against improperly circulating these statements, I notify you (as I have already notified your counsel) that the instrument in writing which purports to assign to the National Company the Wheeler Patent involved in the suit of Otis vs. Halliday included said Wheeler Patent through the error and mistake of the person who drafted it, and against the will and intention of the National Company and Messrs. Otis Brothers & Co.; therefore said instrument only gave an apparent and not a real title.

"Furthermore, I wish you to have in mind that by contract between the National Company and the Messrs. Otis Brothers & Co. the latter have had the exclusive license for this territory under all patents held by the National Company; so that, even if the said instrument in writing containing the error or mistake of appearing to transfer title in the Wheeler Patent to the National Company had been valid, Otis Brothers & Co. would still be the owner and holder of the rights under that patent for this territory.

"As the Messrs. Otis Brothers & Co. have been guilty of no misrepresentation, should you circulate the statements made in your said suit it would be at your peril."

How weak the explanation is, is shown by the following quotation from Messrs. Phillips & Avery's reply:

"It strikes us as somewhat peculiar and conflicting to state that, first, your client owns the patent, and, second, that your client has an exclusive license under the patent. One or the other of these statements must be wrong If your client owns the patent, it certainly can have no license under the patent. That it has no license is clear from the fact that you claim that your client owns the patent."

After a long business experience one hardly expects anything very new to arise, but to be sued on a worthless patent by those who do not own the patent is certainly something novel.

No matter how old the firm may be, nor how honorable its past history, it cannot maintain its reputation if it practises methods of the kind set forth.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, DECEMBER 28, 1895.

Brooklyn Notes.

INCONSISTENCIES IN THE BUILDING LAW.

Commissioner Wesley C. Bush, in summarizing the work of the Building Department for the year, takes occasion to suggest some amendments of the building law to remove certain inconsistencies. He says: "Section 4 of the law, making it incumbent upon the owner of the house already erected to make secure and extend the walls, if necessary, should be amended so as to require the owner of the new structure to defray all the expense thereof. An amendment of the law, authorizing the condemnation of soft, defective and otherwise unsafe building material on the docks and at the wharves and, therefore, before delivery at the site of the buildings, would minimize the present difficulty and operate most advantageously. A further extension of the fire limits, embracing the sections omitted in the last bill (a large portion of the 14th, 15th, 17th, 24th and 28th Wards), is, in my estimation, of the greatest necessity and should be effectuated before the neighborhoods are completely covered with frame structures, or before a great conflagration emphasizes the necessity for this action." Mr. Bush also suggests in this connection that the Building Commission should be given discretion to permit the erection of isolated frame buildings under certain conditions in places where the want of such a privilege is preventing improvements.

Further he says: "I am convinced that the requirements of the law, regarding fire-proof structures, could be redrawn and amended so as to make them much more definite and practical. The present law unquestionably admits of the use of too much combustible material in such structures and fails to specify with sufficient clearness the mode and extent of fire-proofing exposed iron-work. The provisions of this law should be made to embrace all church buildings and places of public assembly having a seating capacity exceeding five hundred persons, to the extent, at least, of requiring such buildings to be erected in accordance with the principles of slow-burning construction."

PROSPECT AVENUE.

Agitation has been renewed to secure the opening of Prospect avenue from Terrace place to Ocean Parkway, a distance of two blocks. It is said the owners of the property to be taken favor the improvement, which, as the direct route from Hamilton Ferry to the Boulevard, has hung fire too long.

PLANS FOR NEW SEWERS.

Sewer construction works this year cost $1,000,000, and some important undertakings, already described in these columns, are in hand. Commissioner White, in his report to the Mayor, says: "Plans have been completed for a relief sewer to relieve the low districts on parts of 3d avenue, 4th avenue, Bond street, Wyckoff avenue, Knickerbocker avenue and Flushing avenue. The contract for the Morgan avenue main sewer to relieve Newtown creek from the discharge of a considerable district will soon be made. Plans have been completed for a considerable portion of Wards Twenty-nine to Thirty-one and adjoining territory,

JAMAICA'S STREETS.

It will be a matter of much satisfaction to those who live or have business in Jamaica to learn that the Supervisors are preparing to macadamize the main streets, which in these days of improved roads has been too long a disgrace. This work will connect quite a system of improved highways and increase the pleasures of riding and driving in a wide section of country.

GREATER BROOKLYN COMPLETED.

On Wednesday, next, Flatlands becomes absorbed into the City of Brooklyn, which will then comprise the whole of Kings County and complete the formation of Greater Brooklyn.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BRICKS.—It has been an irregular week and a broken one on account of the holiday, with general tone of market easier. The weather has again been a very important factor in shaping affairs, as the warm spell made navigation possible at so many points along the river as well as from Jersey that the supplies were just a little fuller all the time than the situation really required and increased the difficulties of sellers accordingly. We find no one coming out flat footed and saying the range of prices is positively lower, but a great many admissions that it has been difficult to realize within 12½c. as much as last week on numerous sales, and buyers rather acting as though conferring a favor when giving an order. The placing of the stock on sales made is considered to have been largely with actual consumers, as most of the dealers who had the piling room are understood to have filled all their space, and the accumulation now making is mainly where contractors and builders can dump into cellars, etc., until the stock is wanted. Additional barge loads will be tied up, it is thought likely, although this plan is not as popular as it was a week or two ago. The tying up is getting to be a trifle too common. Quite a little demand has sprung up for Pales, with moderate quantities available, and those who were fortunate enough to have a desirable offering obtained as high as $2.25 for best stock.

LATH.—Immediately following our last, parties who consider themselves pretty good salesmen were compelled to accept $1.75 for first-class stock. Since then the rate has been slightly stiffened on the deals made, and the quotation now given out is 5@10c. higher, although it is doubtful if any large quantity in one bunch could be sold at the fuller figures claimed. Receivers in fact grumble very much and very seriously over the indifferent character of demand from all sources, and the hope is that no extensive supplies will be thrown into the market to work off. Amount afloat are understood to be comparatively small.

LIME.—Down to present writing there is no developed change of positive character, as compared with one week ago. Demand from all sources is naturally slow and refuses to be hurried, and sellers are compelled to accept the late decline as a basis for negotiation, if they get custom to talk business. Still the accumulation of old supplies is gradually working off with no important fresh arrivals, and with limited production and moderate shipments there seems to be a hope that after the turn of the year the market can be brought into better shape. There is practically nothing but Eastern goods now selling from first hands.

LUMBER.—Holiday conditions have prevailed, and we find very few, if any, positive changes since our last. The blowing of the financial hurricane has, of course, indirectly been taken cognizance of by the lumber trade in general as a warning to proceed with caution, but just at this season of the year there is nothing of importance in way of pending negotiations to be interfered with, and there is hope that affairs will be in healthier form when necessity for talking business in pronounced form becomes more pressing. The tariff question is getting some consideration also, as many people in the trade have an impression that a duty will be placed upon lumber as one of the articles to furnish revenue, but as yet it is difficult to say to what extent local feeling favors the scheme. Appearances indicate that operators are for or against a duty simply as their individual interests may be involved, but the majority probably would make no serious objection. It is thought quite likely that opposition may arise in the West, especially among owners of timber lands across the border, as there is probability that Canada will put an export duty on logs if we impose an import duty. Exporters are complaining somewhat over dragging deals and look upon unsettled notes of exchange as detrimental to their interest.

Spruce remains in generally firm condition, although the support is mainly due to the absence of offerings rather than any special force to demand. Agents for Eastern stock say they have in hand, and are receiving some additions from time to time, special orders upon which it is difficult to perfect negotiations in consequence of dilatory response from the mills. Manufacturers seem to be in some doubt regarding their ability to commence cutting and not fully determined in matter of price, although in a preliminary way are talking quite full figures. Meanwhile the West Virginia makers are getting a fair run of orders because of ability to fill in on that demand that wants only small quantities of uniform cut. Piling is quiet at the moment, but pretty good consumption is talked of for next season.

Yellow Pine is being talked up pretty well again this winter. There seems to be a considerable amount of confidence in the reports from the South regarding determination of producers to harmonize in an effort to control output and regulate prices and evidently a hope that the movements will be successful. We find, however, some of our leading operators a trifle skeptical about immediate realization of any immediate gain. They admit the move to be in the right direction, but insist that it must broaden until control has become almost absolute over territoriy from which this market draws supplies before sellers can raise and retain a full line of values. The stock of pitch pine now here is generally good and in some cases of liberal proportions.

For other kinds of staple stock there are no particularly new features at the moment. Some Carolina pine is selling and hemlock of thoroughly standard grade could be placed, but in pretty much all cases buyers feel that they could, if necessary, wait until after opening of the year. White pine is generally slow, although a few fair sized deals are pending on export orders.

Hardwoods are quoted steady all around with no particular tendency to sell at the moment outside of a routine car lot trade. For current contracts previous rates are asked and obtained, but there is expressed confidence in higher figures next season, especially in desirable well-seasoned oak and choice high-grade poplar. Foreign cedar and mahogany are also getting considerable boom talk, and apparently with very good reason, in view of moderate supplies on hand and evidences of poor opportunity for replenishing.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

In respect to one form of demand the year closes with a more favorable condition and outlook than a year ago. There are more large bills on the market and in prospect now than then. These arise from the railway demand, the requirement for large building operations, and that from the manufacturers of railway cars, agricultural implements, wagons and carriages. These large requisitions are signs that there has been a revival of the special industries that consume lumber and timber in large quantities. They afford promise that the product of the mills is acquiring a wider and more copious outlet than prevailed during the period succeeding the panic, and continuing until last spring. It is the rising demand for bill timber, car factory stuff, implement stock, etc., that has been a stimulant to the Southern pine and the oak demand. Within the past month there have been single bills proposed, and some of them placed in this and other Northwestern markets, ranging in amount from 1,000,000 feet to over 8,000,000 feet, and one has been mooted this week that will reach well toward 7,000,000 feet. Such large bills would have been impossible in 1894, or the first half of 1895. The fact that they are now extant is proof positive that the times have improved in a marked degree, and this is encouraging to the belief that the demand next year, in a large way, is to show a further gain. When the heavy consumers absorb a vast volume of mill output, there is no trouble in disposing of the residue in the channels of ordinary trade.

In regard to Western Pine since the close of navigation quietude has prevailed in bulk stock markets. The wholesale yard trade is taking its annual rest. Distribution in December has been less than was anticipated, largely on account of the extreme cold weather which came late in November and extended well into this month. Stocks of good lumber are low, and yards East and West are lightly supplied with that class of product. Coarse lumber is in plenty, and prices have shown no improvement for months, except in some instances where sorts have run low. In this market there has been some revival of inquiry for 1x6 strips, especially of the Chicago No. 2 grade, and sales of considerable blocks have been made. All strips are deemed good property, and it is thought that the early spring trade will develop a scarcity. It is also asserted by mill operators and wholesale dealers that the actual supply of piece stuff is short of the usual fall accumulations, and it is hoped that prices will strengthen early in the new year, or at least early in the spring.

In the Northwestern logging districts good work was being done until early this week, when warm rains over the greater portion of the pine area, up to Lake Superior, swept away most of the snow and checked hauling to bank. The same cause also for the time being cut the input of Northern hardwood logs.

In the line of hardwoods trade shares the decline peculiar to all lumber business at this period, but the greater industries are calling for more lumber than at a like time last year. Dry oak is still low in stock in the West and South, which will give demand a vigorous start early in the coming year. Ash has sold better for two months past than at a corresponding time last year. There has been a new call for basswood and birch within the week at Minneapolis. The yard trade of this market has been better in December than was expected. At large the year closes with much more looking about for large contracts for hardwoods on the part of heavy consumers than at the close of 1894.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

While the present fall has been favorable for skidding logs, the weather has not been cold enough nor has there been snow enough for good hauling. On the upper Mississippi, where a great deal of the logging is done by railroads and the hauls are short there is not much complaint over the weather, but on the Chippewa more snow is needed. A prominent logger on that stream asserts that if six inches of snow would fall it would be worth many thousands of dollars to the loggers on the Chippewa. Many of the men at the camps in northern Wisconsin are said to be idle owing to the warm weather which prevents even the making of ice roads. Conditions there are not favorable, yet still there will be enough logs put in on all of the streams this winter to satisfy the demand for white pine next year. It would be a good thing from more than one standpoint if the season would be curtailed at both ends, and the log input diminished accordingly.

Along the upper Mississippi the white pine trade is having its usual experience for December. The mills have ceased to manufacture, and the wholesalers and manufacturers have about ceased to sell. They take all the orders that come in, but they are not pushing sales, for there is no place to push them. The retailer has crawled into his hole and left but little evidence with which to locate the hole. Some of the factories are still working with about the usual force, but many of them have reduced their capacity for work.

METALS.—The general condition of the iron trade is reflected by the Iron Trade Review as follows:

"While holiday dullness is upon the iron market in all its departments, and seemingly intensified by contrasts with the history made in the year just closing, there are reports from all quarters of inquiry, much of which means early business. Hesitation, rather than stagnation, is still the word. Here and there a buyer who must know the cost of his raw material for the next six months, because of pending contracts with the consumers of his product, is taking hold at current prices, and these are so close in nearly all cases that the transactions involve little or no risk.

"The truth is forced home upon many producers that the present basis of labor cost is out of proportion to current prices, and it would not be surprising if the market continues at the present level to see in January a movement for such a readjustment in wages as has been taking place in the product. Sales of Bessemer pig iron the past week have been at $10.75 at Valley Furnace, and it is intimated that $10.50 is a possibility. The fact that the buyers who took considerable blocks of metal a few months ago with deliveries in December and the early months of 1896 have paid a price per ton for the cancellation of their contracts leaves the iron on the furnace company's hands. To get this iron out of the way the makers have been content to realize cost, having already been paid their profit by the original buyers.

"Foundry irons do not show like weakness because they were free from speculation, but prices are lower and $13.50 at Valley Furnace for No. 1 and $13 for No. 2 are current on small lots. What could be done on contracts for the first half of the year will only be known as inquiries come up. There is a report that the present $1.60 basis for furnace coke will be continued, and that it will not only be the circular price, but the actual price. There is also the report that the $2 programme will be carried out. It is believed that any contracts made will be limited to thirty days."

NAILS.—It has been a dull market and trade almost entirely of jobbing character. There are many rumors floating in regard to discoveries of considerable sized stocks in second hands, with more coming on contract, and also hints about manufacturers having more unsold goods than had been expected, but stories are a little vague, and no evidence of open pressure to realize has been shown in any marked degree. It is calculated that the completion of inventories will result in a fuller run of orders from jobbers for assortment. We quote cut at $2.00@2.05 per keg for car lots at mill, $2.25@2.30 per keg for small parcels from dock, and $2.30@2.35 from store; wire $2.40 for car lots from dock and $2.60 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Immediate business is moderate, and indeed to a certain extent may be considered as at a practical standstill, except where under certain conditions orders are accepted upon which invoices will be dated after the first of next month. Operators as a rule appear a little doubtful about the future and are non-committal in expressing views. There is an idea that if any revision of tariff takes place some descriptions of paints will get an increased duty upon them. Leads are quoted about steady. The Association figures last announced are as follows—subject to change without notice: Pure white lead dry and in oil, red lead or litharge in kegs, in lots of less than 500 pounds, 6c.; in lots of 500 pounds and over, 5½c. Red lead and litharge in barrels and half barrels, ¼c. per pound less than prices in kegs. White lead in 25-pound tin pails, 1½c.; in 12½-pound tin pails, 1c.; in 1 to 5-pound tin cans (100 pounds in case), 1½c. per pound above keg price. Terms: On lots of 500 pounds or more, sixty days, or two per cent. discount for cash if paid within fifteen days from date of invoice. Special price for dry white lead in barrels. The above prices and terms supersede previous prices and terms offered by this company. Linseed Oil has about former general features and there is practically nothing new to report or change in line of values. We quote at 42@43c. for Western, 44@46c. for City from domestic seed, and 47@48c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits turpentine has continued gradually working upward on strong advices from the South, where a diminution in supply induces some speculative feeling. We quote at 29½@30½c. per gallon, according to time and place of delivery, quantity, style of package, etc.

shown nothing of an unusual character, and was in the main satisfactory. Local trade in the main was hardly worth talking about, so far as its proportion in the general movement was concerned, but nevertheless there has been some fair gains, and there is hope that attention of architects and builders will soon be called to slate in such manner as to materially increase its use in this district. The quarries, however, have all been turning out a good average quantity of stock and getting custom for it from the general trade of other localities, New Orleans taking a somewhat larger amount than the preceding year, but "the West" affording the principle and surest market, while in the selections made the various qualities have received about usual average attention, with possible exception of red slate, of which the sales are thought to have been somewhat smaller. Producers of sea green renewed their compact early in the season and adhered to it throughout, finding the arrangement beneficial, and it is understood that the volume of business proved nearly or quite equal to the preceding year. In the Pennsylvania district matters were all right enough probably, so far as volume of accomplished trade went, but there was irregularity in the methods. The Bangor people in the main did very well, especially with the best grades, and having formed an association for purpose of controlling the situation, made a success of it by standing right together and displaying firmness throughout. Buyers at times did considerable missionary work in effort to gain favor, but without attaining the objective point, nor do manufacturers seem to think they lost trade through the position assumed, indeed some assert that with better car accommodation for prompt shipment they could have placed a larger quantity of stock. Between the Pen Argyl and Lehigh producers, however, there was intense and constant competition that had quite a demoralizing effect upon both grades of stock, and it is assumed must have cut margins down to the narrowest possible limit, and at close of season the feeling was still more or less unsettled, with, we understand, quite a large stock remaining in the Lehigh section, but Pen Argyl about sold out.

The most important development of the year is found in the export trade. From regular sources of foreign demand, South America and the West Indies furnished about the routine run of small orders, while from the East Indies the call was much lighter during the earlier part of the year, Australia, lacking conditions to warrant fresh buying, but latterly gave a little more promise, and New Zealand has sent some very good orders now in course of execution. But the new feature is the appearance once again of Great Britain as a customer, with shipments made since late fall of over one thousand tons, and calculations that trade will continue. The natural assumption is that something has taken place to curtail the output of Welsh slate, and the American product is resorted to in order to make good the deficiency. At first not much attention was paid to the inquiry from the U. K., and small operators secured the orders, which in some instances were probably filled with too much haste and resulted in lauding rather poor stock on the other side, but now larger concerns have taken hold and, in view of information from abroad, will doubtless provide the good general selection required to meet the necessities of the foreign market. The goods handled have been Pennsylvania black slate, and sizes were 18x10, 20x10, 22x11, 22x12, 24x12, 24x14, the last four sizes being the most popular in making up assortments. Cost varies slightly, but ranges principally $3.75 to $3.85 per square alongside vessel, and two plans have been employed in selling. One was delivery and settlement here, which appears to have been most satisfactory even though it may not have secured so many orders, and the other method was the more risky one of agreements to deliver on the foreign markets, which subjected the seller to claims for damaged stock without adequate means for investigation, to say nothing of delay in securing settlements, and, furthermore, there is the serious question of transportation charges. Indeed an acute advance in freight charges recently served to impede business on new deals, but had to be submitted to where stock was under engagement on previous contract. Down to present writing we learn of only a few small routine shipments to the continent, but if Wales is seriously short of supplies a general European demand for our product may be received. Further developments will be watched with much interest.

TAR AND PITCH.—There has been no business accomplished except in regular trade form and the market proved slow enough to become a little nominal. Still, with stocks well in hand, holders sustained a fairly steady tone. We quote Tar at $1.90@2.00 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.65@2.75 in pork bbls. and $3.50 in oil bbls. Pitch, $1,65@1.75.

Appended quotations are based almost wholly upon prices obtained for goods from first hands. Yard rates necessarily range much higher owing to the expenses attending sorting out and grading cargo and even car lots, besides which must be added the cost of handling and carrying until consumers are ready to invest. Terms of sale also prove important factors, and altogether it is impossible to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable in character.
